HOW SKYSCRAPER BROKE M'KITTRICK COMPANY IS TOLD

Railway Exchange Losses Impoverished Even Employes of Firm, Says R. McK. Jones.

BLOCK A WHITE ELEPHANT

Officer Declares T. H. McKittrick Bankrupted Self and Family to Promote Structure.

How the 21-story white tile Railway Exchange Building, which has more floor space than any structure of its kind in the world, proved true to its size and color and turned out to be a white elephant, was told for the first time today by R. McKittrick Jones, chairman of the board of directors of the Hargadine-McKittrick Dry Goods Co., against which receivership proceedings were filed in the United States District Court yesterday by Peter J. Byrne of Chicago, a stockholder. Byrne was a department manager of the concern.

Directors, officers and many employes who had stock in the dry goods company have been impoverished, according to Jones, who himself holds $50,000 worth of the company's stock, which has no present market value because of the losses incurred through the company's investment in the big skyscraper.

These losses forced the dry goods company into liquidation, although it had a capitalization of $6,800,000 and sold $8,000,000 worth of goods each year. A large portion of the stock was held by employes, many of whom lost their positions when the company went into liquidation.

Failure Due to Investments.

Jones told a Post-Dispatch reporter the failure of the Hargadine-McKittrick Dry Goods Co. and its liquidation which forced it to sell its merchandise at a price sufficient to pay only 70 per cent of its debts, leaving nothing for the stockholders, was directly due to the investment of the company's funds in the Railway Exchange Building.

Byrne in his receivership suit named as defendants the Hargadine-McKittrick Dry Goods Co., Robert McKittrick Jones, Thomas H. McKittrick, George M. Wright, E. C. Simmons and the St. Louis Union Trust Co.

One of his allegations was that more than $2,000,000 of the dry goods company's funds had been wrongfully diverted to the financing and erecting of the Railway Exchange Building.

"It is not true that this money was wrongfully diverted," said Jones. "The Hargadine-McKittrick Co. planned the Railway Exchange Building as a home for the William Barr Dry Goods Co., in which it owned a controlling interest. It had a right to do this.

"Byrne is a dissatisfied stockholder. It is unfortunate that he saw fit to file receivership proceedings.

Nothing in Sight for Stockholders.

"The Liquidation Committee, composed of E. C. Simmons, George M. Wright and myself, are doing all in our power to wind up the affairs of the company as expeditiously as possible. We are doing everything a receiver could do. Just now there is nothing in sight for the stockholders. I wish there was, because I hold $50,000 worth of the stock. No director or officer of the company is better off than the smallest stockholder.

"To my personal knowledge, Thomas H. McKittrick has bankrupted himself and all the members of his family in promoting the Railway Exchange Building. His brothers, Walter, Hugh and Ralph McKittrick, and their families have impoverished themselves in the same way. Thomas H. McKittrick alone invested $300,000 of his own money in the Railway Exchange Building.

"No returns are in sight from these heavy investments. It will be a long time, possibly many years, before the building is on a paying basis. At present it is rented only up to 77 per cent of its capacity.

Company Assumed Leases.

"The rentals even now might be sufficient to pay something on the stock but for the heavy expense incurred in assuming the leases of the railway companies which moved their offices from other buildings. All of the unexpired leases on the premises from which these tenants moved were assumed by the Railway Exchange Building Co. In consequence the company has had to pay out enormous sums with no return.

"Thomas H. McKittrick had a golden dream of the profits to be made from the biggest office building in the world. If his dream had been realized he would have been a big man—possibly the biggest man in St. Louis.

"But, like many another ambitious man, he overshot the mark and today he has nothing. Tom McKittrick is broke."

Denies Making Profit.

Robert McKittrick Jones is a cousin of Thomas H., Walter, Hugh and Ralph McKittrick. He specifically denied that he or Thomas H. McKittrick made any profit out of the promotion and erection of the Railway Exchange Building, as alleged in Byrne's petition.

As a director of the St. Louis Union Trust Co. Jones denied Byrne's assertion that the trust company had exacted usurious interest in financing the building project for the dry goods company.

"The trust company did not loan money to the building company," he said. "It merely managed the syndicate formed to finance the company and it collected a fee for that service."

PULLMAN COMPANY REFUSED $25,000,000 RUSSIAN PAPER

Deal for 50,000 Cars Also Said to Have Fallen Through Because Firm Would Not Build Plant in Russia.

CHICAGO, July 2.—The recent refusal of the Pullman Co. to accept a huge order for railroad cars for the Russian Government was explained today by a high official of the Pullman Co., according to the Daily News.

The Russian agent who approached the Pullman Co. wanted 50,000 cars, worth about $25,000,000. The Pullman Co. rejected the offer because the pay was to be in Russian notes and 40,000 of the cars were to be built at a plant which the Pullman Co. was asked to install in Russia.

President Runnells of the Pullman Co demanded cash, as he said was demanded of all customers, and declined to build a plant in Russia. The Russian agent was without discretion in the matter and the deal fell through.

BECKER INNOCENT, LAWYER DECLARES WEBBER TOLD HIM

Says Gambler Admitted That Police Captain Had Nothing to Do With Rosenthal Murder.

NEW YORK, July 2.—Bridgie Webber, one of the three confessed accomplices in the plot which resulted in the killing of Herman Rosenthal, the gambler, has said to his attorney, that Charles Becker "had absolutely nothing to do with the murder."

A statement to this effect was made today by H. T. Marshall, an attorney.

"Becker," said Marshall, "had absolutely nothing to do with the murder of Rosenthal. "Bridgie" Webber, when he employed me as his counsel at the first trial, admitted this to me and said that he and the others were perjuring themselves in order to save their skins. When Webber told me that I told him to get another lawyer.

"Deliberately Framed Up."

"From that time on my mouth was sealed. I could not speak because of professional obligations. But had I not been convinced of Becker's innocence I would not have aligned myself with the lawyers in his defense at the second trial. I never would have entered the case had I not known from what Bridgie Webber told me that Becker was "deliberately framed up by Webber, Harry Vallon, Jack Rose and Sam Schepps."

Sam Schepps, on whom the State relied in the first trial of Becker to corroborate the testimony of Jack Rose, Harry Vallon and Bridgie Webber, the three informers, was quoted today as saying he held "the secret in the Becker case" and would tell Gov. Whitman, should the Governor ask him to.

Schepps was quoted as saying: "The story is so clear anyone will believe it, but, as for proof, say, do you want that I shall go so far as to bring Becker back to Broadway and me take his place in the electric chair? I hung myself enough in this case and there is nothing doing any more."

The "secret," to which Schepps was quoted as having referred, is believed to be what was said at a recent meeting between Mrs. Becker and Jack Rose in Schepps' jewelry store.

Will Have New Counsel.

The new step in the effort to save Becker from execution will be the selection of new counsel to represent him in an appeal to the Supreme Court of the United States. Martin T. Manton, who has represented Becker up to date and who has announced that he will retire from the case, was not prepared to say what attorney will lay Becker's appeal before the Supreme Court.

Manton would not admit that Becker had offered to tell Gov. Whitman the names of those higher up in graft dealings in which Becker was concerned. It was learned from Manton that Mrs. Becker will not go to Albany now to make a personal appeal to Gov. Whitman.

It was pointed out today that an application for an appeal to the Supreme Court would not act as a stay in execution of Becker's sentence and that it will be necessary for Becker's counsel to obtain a writ of habeas corpus from a Federal court or a writ of error from a member of the United States Supreme Court.

Gov. Whitman Refuses to Comment on Schepp's Statement.

ALBANY, N. Y., July 2.—Gov. Whitman declined to comment on the assertion of Sam Schepps that he knew "the secret in the Becker case" other than to say that he would consider any evidence that was placed before him properly. The Governor also said that any names of persons "higher up" that Martin T. Manton, Becker's counsel, may have mentioned as having been involved in graft collections, must come from Manton.

PRESIDENT READS OFFICIAL REPORTS, WALKS IN RAIN

Importers' Protest Against British Trade Interference Being Considered.

CORNISH, N. H., July 2.—President Wilson spent the most of this forenoon attending to official business.

He had reports on the Armenian incident, communications concerning Mexican affairs and a report on the protest of a committee of importers against alleged British interference with trade, which will be considered in the preparation of the note soon to be sent to Great Britain.

Later Mr. Wilson braved the rain and walked through the woods surrounding the estate.

NO ONE ASKS FOR RENT FOR TWO YEARS IN THIS FLAT

But Two Women Occupants Quarrel and Are Arrested and Agent May Dopp Around.

Mrs. Fannie Hale and Mrs. Lillian Schuern, who reside at 1131 North Broadway, told Judge Sanders in Police Court today that they had lived at that address for two years and that in all that time nobody had asked them to pay rent.

Mrs. Hale resides on the first floor and Mrs. Schuern on the second. They said they did not know the agent for the property and that they had not made an attempt to find anybody to pay the rent to.

Their story was told in reply to a question by Judge Sanders who asked them why they did not move. They were on trial on cross charges of disturbing the peace. They quarreled yesterday and Mrs. Hale threw a brick at Mrs. Schuern. Each was fined $10 and the agent may drop around when he hears of their testimony.

JAPANESE WIN 1511 MEDALS

Record at San Francisco Fair Best Ever Made by Nation.

SAN FRANCISCO, July 2.—Japanese exhibits at the Panama-Pacific Exposition have been awarded 1511 medals. The list included 39 grand prizes, 139 medals of honor, 346 gold medals, 470 silver medals, 376 bronze medals and 141 awards of honorable mention.

This is said to be the best record made by Japanese at any international exposition. The awards were made only for commercial exhibits.

U. S. TORPEDO OUTPUT ONE A DAY

Should Be Increased to 10, Naval Officers Insist.

WASHINGTON, July 2.—Secretary of the Navy Daniels announced today that the torpedo station at Newport is turning out a torpedo for every day in the year under the present system, while two years ago one in four days was the output.

Naval officers insist that the production should be increased to 10 a day if the navy is to be properly supplied.

GERMAN OFFICIAL SAYS NOTE REPLY WILL SATISFY U. S.

Declares It Will Show His Government's Sincere Desire to Protect Americans.

DRAFT IN KAISER'S HANDS

Submarine Warfare as Directed Against British Merchant Ships Not to Be Changed.

By Karl H. von Wiegand,
A Staff Correspondent of the New York World and Post-Dispatch.

(Copyright, 1915, by Press Pub. Co.)

BERLIN, via The Hague June 29 (delayed in transmission).—"Germany's reply to President Wilson's second Lusitania note will be a real answer. We hope it will prove satisfactory. We think it will. In tenor, in contents, in friendliness, we think it will show the American people Germany's good faith and disposition to meet President Wilson's wishes and sincere desire to do our part to insure the safety of Americans crossing the Atlantic. The answer may be ready to be given to your Ambassador, next week."

So declared a high official to me today. From other sources I understand that, as a result of the Chancellor's visit to Grand Headquarters an understanding has been arrived at with respect to the submarine war on merchantmen which the Marine Ministry and Admiralty suggest as practicable and are willing to make with a view to insuring vessels carrying Americans against torpedo attacks.

Note Preliminaries Arranged.

I have not been able to confirm this. Even doubt is expressed in some quarters that such an understanding has been arrived at, yet on the other hand various indications point to the correctness of my information. With this difficulty overcome as a necessary preliminary basis for anything in the nature of what might constitute a satisfactory answer to President Wilson, the work of preparing the note is under way.

The note is still in the form of preliminary drafts before the various departments and probably will be put together as a rough draft by the end of the week. The exact nature and details are not being divulged, as there may still be a number of changes before it is finally agreed upon.

Among the chief points under consideration are a willingness to negotiate to secure the safety of Americans on the sea and a suggestion or proposal how this may be arrived at with the co-operation of the American Government. Another is the acceptance of President Wilson's offer to mediate with Great Britain for a relaxation of the blockade, but without offering any suggestions, in view of the fact that Germany's suggestions have twice been turned down by England.

Growing Optimism in Berlin.

Returning from the western battle front at Arras, I find a noticeable change in sentiment and views in some quarters. Where 10 days ago doubt and the fear was expressed that it would not be easy to reach an amicable understanding with America without affecting Germany's naval war against England, considerable optimism reigns now.

There is little doubt that Dr. Meyer Gerhard's report brought the Government much information regarding the attitude of President Wilson and the state of public opinion in America and has proved helpful to the situation.

One thing seems to have undergone no change; that is that Germany will not give up the submarine warfare against the English mercantile marine, nor is it considering it, and that, aside from offering to make it possible for Americans to travel safely, any other modification of Germany's policy toward her enemy, such as first halting the ships and giving a chance for the crew to take to the boats, is dependent wholly on Great Britain's own attitude toward the submarines.

EX-CITY CLERK OF MT. VERNON, ILL., SHORT IN ACCOUNTS

Preliminary Audit Declared to Have Shown That $1700 Was Missing.

AMOUNT INCREASED SINCE

Council Orders Mayor to Take Steps Toward Arresting Frank Menzer.

By a Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

MT. VERNON, Ill., July 2.—By the vote of 10 members of the City Council late last night Mayor W. S. Payne was instructed to confer today with State's Attorney J. F. Watson and arrange for the arrest of Frank Menzer, former City Clerk, who is short in his accounts to the extent of several thousand dollars with the amount of the known shortage steadily increasing.

This action brings to crisis a peculiar situation here and the citizens are intensely interested in reports that Menzer, if arrested, will make sensational disclosures regarding the recent extension of the Citizens' Gas, Electric and Heating Co.'s franchise for 25 years.

Within one week after the city election here April 20 it was known that Menzer was short in his accounts and had attempted to destroy the City Clerk's office record. Menzer admited that he was short but no attempt has been made to interfere with his liberty since that time until, as Dr. S. D. Thompson said at Council meeting "every one is laughing at the authorities."

Beaten on Franchise Issue.

Menzer is a brother-in-law of City Attorney W. C. Blair and was high in the counsels of the Republican party, which, until the last election, has controlled city affairs for more than a decade with pluralities averaging about 570. He was a candidate for re-election in April, but following public dissatisfaction regarding the gas and electric franchise, a Democratic administration came into power by a plurality of 350.

On the morning after the election Menzer called in J. J. Oakley, a junk dealer, and had a large number of the City Clerk's records, including 1500 receipt stubs, carted away to be sold as waste paper. These were baled under hydraulic pressure and were about to be shipped from the city when the new administration learned of Menzer's action. The records were traced to the junk dealer's, and after opening several bales a large number of the vouchers were recovered and additional ones were recovered yesterday.

First Audit Shows $1700 Gone.

These vouchers showed that Menzer had receipted for license fees for vehicles, market stalls, moving picture houses and other enterprises for which a license is required and had accounted for only part of the money. A preliminary audit made by H. C. Perkins, an accountant in the Pierce Building, St. Louis, revealed a shortage of $1700 and Perkins notified members of the Council last night that this sum had been greatly increased. One of the stubs found yesterday showed the receipt of $40 from a theater of which no report was made to the treasurer. Many of these facts were printed in newspapers here but great effort was made by the political friends of Menzer to prevent the report from spreading.

Then it became known that warrants for the collection of about $3000 assessed against property holders at times the city ordered construction of cement walks, were missing. The Council last night ordered the issuance of duplicate warrants in an effort to find if any of this amount had been paid by the property owners.

Covers 6-Year Period.

The stubs show that Menzer's operations extended over a period of six years. Despite the continued revelations no effort was made to interfere with him. Citizens openly voiced their amazement at the attitude of the authorities.

At the council meeting last night the Mayor informed some of his close supporters that public dissatisfaction had become so great that some action must be taken. In proposing the resolution instructing the Mayor to act, Dr. Thompson said:

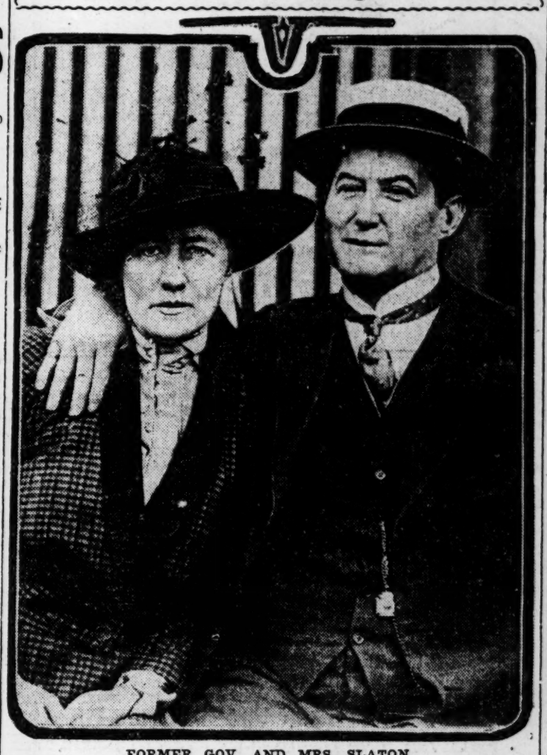

"The public is rightly wondering why we do not take some action in regard to the shortage in the city's money. I am met upon the streets every day by citizens who laugh and inquire when we are going to do something. I believed in giving Menzer every chance but every one is laughing at the authorities and I believe the time has come to instruct the Mayor to consult with the State's Attorney to bring about the arrest of Menzer."

To Proceed Against Bondsmen.

After a resolution to this effect was adopted the Council appropriated $1000 to pay the expenses of the audit and the clerk was ordered to begin proceedings at once against Menzer's bondsmen. His bond is $1000 for each of three terms.

There was a stream of politicians passing among the various city and county offices this morning speculating upon the probability of the Council's order being carried out. Menzer was in office during the time the gas and electric franchise, which had 15 years to run, was extended 25 years just before this extension might have been prevented by the newly established State Utility Commission.

CONDUCTOR KICKED HIM IN ROW OVER NICKEL, MAN SAYS

Then Policeman Arrested Him and Refused to Arrest Street Car Man, He Asserts.

Hugo Habich, a painter of 3737½ Oregon avenue, appeared in Police Court today for trial on a charge of disturbing the peace of Benjamin S. Alberstone of 4239 Obear avenue, a conductor on the Grand avenue line, and related to Judge Hogan how he had tried vainly to cause the arrest of Alberstone at the same time.

Habich said he accidentally had dropped a dime in the coin box of Alberstone's car and that the conductor hurriedly pushed a knob, dropping the dime out of sight. He said the conductor then insisted the coin was only a nickel. Habich said he told the conductor he would not argue about a nickel, but that the conductor insisted on arguing.

The prisoner said he had asked to be let off the car at Chippewa street, but the conductor purposely carried him a block beyond, to Winnebago street. Habich said he expressed his feelings. As he stepped from the car, he said, the conductor kicked him in the face. Habich tried to grab the conductor's leg. Policeman Goree appeared and arrested Habich. Habich said that he asked Goree to arrest Alberstone, but that his request was refused.

Judge Hogan continued the charge against Habich until July 8. Habich left the court to apply to Prosecuting Attorney Sidener for a warrant for the conductor's arrest.

WEST BOUND OLIVE STREET CARS TO BE REROUTED TUESDAY

Track Reconstruction to Cause Diversion That Will Lengthen Schedules.

The United Railways today placed in Olive cars posters announcing that the company next Tuesday would begin the reconstruction of the Olive street car tracks between Fourteenth street and Boyle avenue.

President McCulloch said the reconstruction would not interfere with the route or schedules of eastbound cars. Westbound cars, however, will be run over Fourteenth street to Pine, west on Pine to Twenty-first street, south on Twenty-first to Market, west on Market to Laclede, west on Laclede to Sarah and north on Sarah to Olive.

"People are in greater haste to get downtown than they are to get home," McCulloch said. He thinks the loop designated for westbound cars will lengthen the westbound running schedule about three or four minutes. He estimated the company, by working day and night, could complete the reconstruction of both tracks in three weeks.

The westbound track will be torn up first and new rails laid. Then eastbound cars will be run over the new westbound track between Boyle avenue and Fourteenth streets.

The Olive street construction, McCulloch said, will cost about $150,000. This is part of $700,000 being spent this year on reconstruction of tracks. Recently the company completed the reconstruction of tracks on Washington avenue, between Twelfth and Eighteenth streets. All other reconstruction, now being done, is in outlying districts.

The new rails on Olive street are known as 9-inch rails, weighing 122 pounds to the yard. They are the heaviest rails obtainable.

GERMAN INTERESTS TO AID IN MAKING OF SHELLS FOR BRITAIN

SOUTH BETHLEHEM, Pa., July 2.—The Carl Nill Co., a German concern, it was reported here, has just obtained the contract to erect at the Lehigh Coke Co. a benzol plant at a cost of $350,000. The product will be used by the Bethlehem Steel Co. in the manufacture of explosives for the use of Great Britain.

The Deutsche Bank of Berlin, Germany, controls 70 per cent of the Lehigh Coke Co. Thus the case is presented of Germany, at war with Great Britain, aiding in making a product which will go into the manufacture of explosive shells to be used against the Germans.

The capacity of the new plant, it is said, will be from 1200 to 3000 gallons a day.

SUBMARINES SINK SIX FREIGHT SHIPS IN BRITISH WATERS

Torpedo Boat Destroyer Lightning Reaches Port After Being Struck by Torpedo or Mine, With 14 of Crew Missing.

Germany Bending Every Effort to Capture Warsaw and Heavy Force Is Kept on Eastern Line.

Dardanelles Fight Continues, Australians Holding Turks While Other Allied Troops Gain.

By Associated Press.

LONDON, July 2.—The increased activity of German submarines is evidenced by announcements that within the last 24 hours ships of an aggregate burden of more than 15,000 tons have been sunk in British waters.

Three British steamers—the Inglemoor, the Caucasian and the Welbury—were torpedoed and sunk today by a German submarine. The crews of the Inglemoor and the Caucasian were landed at Falmouth. The crew of the Welbury is safe.

The commander of the submarine was markedly delighted on learning that the Welbury carried a cargo of sugar. After the ship left Cuba it was discovered that someone had painted inside the vessel's forehold the words: "You have a cargo of sugar for England, but you will never get there."

The steamers Inglemoor and Caucasian were struck by the U39. This was the submarine which torpedoed the Lusitania.

(At least one other submarine has been said in England to be the one which sunk the Lusitania, but no evidence has been offered to show the correctness of the statement. No one on board the Lusitania made out the number of the submarine).

The British schooner L. C. Tower which left Parrsboro, N. S., June 1, for Newport, England, was sunk off Fastnet today by a German submarine. The undersea boat then sank a bark six miles away. The crew of nine of the schooner was landed at Queenstown.

Fourteen of Crew Missing.

The torpedo boat destroyer Lightning, 320 tons, was damaged Wednesday night off the east coast by a mine or torpedo explosion. She is now in harbor. Fourteen members of the crew are reported to be missing. Her peace complement is 50 men. Announcement that the Lightning had been damaged was contained in an official communication issued by the British Admiralty.

The Italian ship Sardomene, 2000 tons, timber laden, was torpedoed without warning five miles from Castletown, Beerhaven, Ireland. Two of the crew were killed and several were wounded or missing. Seven were saved. The Sardomene sailed from Bunbury on Feb. 21 for London.

In June, 98 British ships, aggregating slightly more than 39,000 tons, were sunk by submarines or mines, with the loss of 111 lives.

GERMAN CHIEF EFFORT IS TO TAKE WARSAW

LONDON, July 2.—Evidently bent upon a decisive victory against the Russians, the Germans are not yet sending troops to the western front, but assisted by their Austrian allies, are making every effort to capture the Russian Poland capital, Warsaw. Berlin claims further advances by the great Austro-German armies in Galicia, while Field Marshal von Mackensen is pushing steadily ahead between the Vistula and Bug rivers.

Artillery activity continues unabated in the Arras region of France, but as yet there are no signs of an infantry offensive on that front, although it is scarcely possible that so many thousands of shells are being fired without some such objective. In the Argonne region the Germans on June 30 gained some ground, although at the expense of heavy losses.

A further report regarding the Dardanelles operations claim that the Australian troops have not been checked in their efforts to advance, but that they

HILL OF ACHI BABA BLOCKS BRITISH AT DARDANELLES

Turks' Position on Eminence 800 Feet High, Which Dominates Peninsula and Is Almost Impregnable, Must Be Taken by Storm, Says Correspondent.

TURKS LOST 70,000 IN HARRICOT REDOUBT

French Driven Back Many Times, Ottoman Troops Fighting With Hands When Ammunition Gave Out.

Special Cable to the Post-Dispatch and the New York World.

LONDON, July 2.—The French and British expeditionary forces in the Gallipoli peninsula are now faced with the problem, says the Alexandria correspondent of the Chronicle, of storming a hill of Achi Baba, 800 feet high, which dominates the whole lower peninsula and has been fortified by the Turk until it is a position of immense strength.

"On either side," says the correspondent, "the ground falls away to the sea in ravines and dry water courses, which the Turks have had time to make almost impregnable. There is no room on the peninsula to find the weak points and we are now in the position of having to take this lofty position by storm."

Capture of Haricot Redoubt.

The correspondent then goes on to describe the attack made by the French on June 21, in which they finally succeeded, with the support of the British artillery, in capturing the famous Haricot redoubt, which had previously been taken and retaken half a dozen times, and at the same time were able to occupy the supporting trenches on the left, so that the fort was at last solidly added to their position. The redoubt itself, the correspondent says, was carried with great gallantry and success, but to hold the position it was necessary to capture and hold about 600 yards of trenches to the left and above it. Twice the French troops drove the Turks out of this position and twice they were driven out by furious counter-charges.

Finally, in the late afternoon, every gun, both British and French, was brought up and concentrated on the position in a tremendous "drumming" bombardment, and at 6 o'clock in the evening a final charge made the French masters of the position. The Turks fought to the last with desperate ferocity, and in one trench, where they were cut off by artillery fire and unable to obtain supplies of ammunition, they fought hand to hand with sticks, stones and fists.

Trench Filled With Dead.

The Turkish losses were terrific, one trench being literally filled with their dead. The allied officers pay high tribute to the courage and fighting qualities of the Turks, some of whom have seen fighting in the West, according to the Chronicle, estimating that one Turk is worth two Germans, in a corner.

The British press representative, in describing the battle, says:

"The force drawn up against the allies is the flower of the Turkish army, which, notwithstanding casualties that must already amount to 70,000, is fighting valiantly and desperately, realizing that when the Bastion of Achi Baba falls, the occupation of the Kilid-Bahr plateau becomes a mere question of time, and when Kilid-Bahr falls the doom of Constantinople is at hand."

ANNIVERSARY OF MARTYRED ARCHDUKE WIDELY OBSERVED

Memorial Articles in Vienna Papers Declare Death Has Been Avenged by "Justified Resistance."

WASHINGTON, July 2.—Ceremonies in Austria-Hungary, marking the first anniversary of the assassination of Archduke Ferdinand, the Austrian Crown Prince, were described in Foreign Office dispatches from Vienna, forwarded to Washington today by the Austro-Hungarian summer embassy at Lenox, Mass.

"Archduke Charles Francis, successor to the present Emperor, and his consort, the Archduke Zita," the dispatches stated, "paid a reverential visit to the places intimately connected with the last days of the martyred Archduke Ferdinand.

"The future rulers of Austria-Hungary went privately to Innesbruck, visiting without ceremony the scenes beloved by the late heir to the Austrian throne. Throughout the empire the anniversary of Archduke Ferdinand's death has been reverently celebrated."

Memorial articles were published in Vienna reviewing the war's progress. They declare the death of the Archduke has been avenged by the "justified resistance of the House of Hapsburg with the army and navy, whose strengthening the late Archduke regarded as his life work."

SHOT GUN ON EACH SHOULDER

Alton Negro Arrested for Making War-Like Demonstration.

Anson Martin, a negro, was arrested yesterday when marching down Belle street, in Alton, carrying a shotgun on each shoulder. He said before arrest, that he was going to start a war of his own.

At the police station the negro showed that the guns were unloaded and said that he was carrying them home from the house of a man to whom he had loaned them. He was released.

Map Showing Direction of Great Austro-German Drive at Russia

The Austro-Germans have 2,000,000 men on the front between the Vistula and the Bug Rivers. They have crossed the Tanew River and are aiming at Zamoso fortress, only 25 miles north. The Russian grand field headquarters, with Grand Duke Nicholas in charge, are at Brest Litovsk, 100 miles north of the German position. The relation of all these points to Warsaw is shown.

CAPTAIN TELLS HOW HE LOST "ARMENIAN;" SAYS SUBMARINE PLAYED FAIR

Fled Until Funnels Were Gone, Steering Gear Broken and Ship on Fire in Three Places —Given Five Minutes to Take to Boats.

Special Cable to the Post-Dispatch and New York World.

(Copyright, 1915, by Press Pub. Co.)

LONDON, July 2.—Eleven Americans with eight other members of the crew of the Leyland liner Armenian perished when the steamship was sunk last Monday by the German submarine U38 off Trevose Head on the coast of Cornwall because Capt. Trickey of the Armenian tried to save at any cost both his ship and his cargo of 1422 American mules for the armies in France.

"I must say that the submarine commander showed us every fairness," said Capt. Trickey today. "As a signal for us to stop, he first put a couple of shots over our bows when we were four miles off. Instead, I put the ship's stern to him and ran for it.

"Then the submarine began to shell us in earnest, the shrapnel bursting all around us, killing several of the crew and knocking others overboard. I soon realized that he was gaining on us, but I did not propose to surrender without a struggle. The crew were standing by the boats, which were swung out, but shrapnel cut the falls of one, which dropped into the sea.

Finally Forced to Surrender.

"Then my steering gear was hit and put out of commission. Then a shell dropped into the engine room and another carried away the wireless house, and a moment later still another carried away the funnel and practically disabled us, for the stokers could no longer keep up steam.

"By this time the ship was on fire in three places, and I decided to surrender. We had held out for an hour, and 12 or 13 men in the crew lay dead about the decks, when I ordered the flag hauled down. The submarine then came up alongside and gave us five minutes to abandon the ship. She went down, blown up by two torpedoes.

"The submarine picked up many of the crew who, because of a damaged boat, had fallen into the water. He made no effort to do us further harm, after we surrendered. Most of the men who lost their lives were Americans, shipped at Norfolk as mule-tenders."

The Armenian continued sending out S O S calls while the submarine was firing until one of the shells, as described by Capt. Trickey, went squarely into the wireless house, disabling the apparatus.

"We could see her quite clearly," said one of the surviving officers. "She was one of the very latest type, and we could see the number, U38, plainly marked on her side. She had all flags flying and came up at great speed. We could see her commander on deck, wearing brown overalls. He was leaning against the conning tower and we could see him turn to give orders.

Storm of Shrapnel Burst.

"We kept on going after the warning shot was fired, although immediately a storm of shrapnel burst over us, and we did not stop until the wireless house was smashed, the steering gear wrecked and the funnel so badly damaged we could not keep up steam, while the submarine was overtaking us and coming so close she could have riddled us.

"Then the whistle was sounded three times and the vessel hauled to. The wounded were placed in the boats, the rest of us clambered in and we rowed away. Next morning, after a night of suffering, in which four wounded men died, we were picked up by the Belgian steam trawler, President Stevens, which treated us kindly and transferred us to two British ships, which brought us into port."

Dr. Vivo, the Armenian's physician, who is supposed to have been rescued by the submarine, came from Porto Rico.

According to survivors, the first person aboard the ship to be killed was the American foreman of a gang of muleteers.

The news of the loss of the Armenian reached London only by way of Washington. The Liverpool agent of the Leyland line states positively that the liner was not under charter to the British Admiralty, but was being run by his company as a freighter, like any other merchantman. Capt. Trickey is a veteran of the Leyland service and was only recently transferred to the Armenian from another ship.

Armenian Survivors Built Raft When Swimming in Sea

LONDON, July 2.

"WE had a very trying time in the open boats during night," said First Officer Vincent of the Armenian in describing his experiences. "Our clothing was torn up to provide bandages for the wounded and to plug holes in the damaged boat. We were compelled to throw overboard the bodies of four men who had died, in order to lighten our load.

"When it seemed likely the boats would be overcrowded, the purser and a half dozen others jumped into the water, where they laboriously constructed a raft from floating wreckage."

Fact That Armenian Fled Held to Justify Its Destruction.

WASHINGTON, July 2.—The tension caused by the destruction of the British steamship Armenian with the loss of a number of American lives was considerably relaxed today, following the receipt of unofficial advices telling of the apparent refusal of the ship's commander to heed the warning of the German submarine to stop. This phase, in the official view, overshadows all other questions involved in the destruction of the Armenian. If official reports should bear out these dispatches concerning attempts of the Armenian to escape, it was said no new cause of complaint likely would be added to issues pending between the United States and Germany. Officials hold that if the Armenian sought to evade capture, the sinking of the ship was justified under international law, even though noncombatants were on board. It was pointed out that the last American note to Germany on the Lusitania and Falaba cases said:

"Nothing but actual forcible resistance or continued efforts to escape by flight when ordered to stop for the purpose of visit on the part of the merchantmen has ever been held to forfeit the lives of her passengers and crew."

No advices today shed further light on the expression used by Ambassador Page that the Armenian was engaged "on admiralty business." Further information is needed to determine wether this means the ship should be classed as a transport or as a freighter.

American Press Says Armenian Sinking Was Justified.

WASHINGTON, July 2.—Advices received here indicate that the American press is almost a unit in expressing the belief the Captain of the German submarine which sank the Armenian was within his rights. It is pointed out that when the freighter took refuge in flight, he was justified in using his guns.

British Press Tries to Give Sinister Air to Armenian Sinking.

LONDON, July 2.—The British press today endeavors to give to the Armenian case a sinister appearance, contending the submarine acted illegally in shelling the fleeing muleship, and that this act will undoubtedly cause great indignation in America.

Americans here and other neutrals hold that the Captain of the German craft was clearly within his rights, and point to the statement of the captain of the Armenian as proving that the freighter was treated with unusual consideration.

TWO LARGE BANDS OF GREEKS OCCUPY ALBANIAN TOWNS

Third Force Reported From Rome to Be Invading the Principality.

ROME, July 2.—A dispatch to the Tribune from Antivari, Montenegro, says two large Greek bands are advancing toward Berat, Albania, after occupying the villages along the way.

There have been no previous reports of an intention on the part of the Greek Government to lay claim to a section of Albania. This principality, which was established after the Balkan wars, borders on that part of Greece which was awarded to her after the defeat of Turkey. Albania already has been invaded by Servian and Montenegrin troops, while Italian forces have been stationed there for some time.

HESSIAN FLY CAUSING LOSS OF MILLIONS OF BUSHELS OF WHEAT

Department of Agriculture Says Nothing Now Can Lessen Damage to This Year's Crop.

WASHINGTON, July 2.—The Hessian fly is inflicting immense damage to the wheat crop throughout an area extending from Northeastern Oklahoma and Northern Arkansas, northward through Kansas, Missouri, Nebraska and Southern Iowa and eastward, including principally Illinois, Indiana, Ohio and Pennsylvania.

In a circular issued today by the Department of Agriculture, the prediction is made that the fly will cause a loss of millions of bushels. Officials charge the fly with responsibility for decreased condition reports from those states.

The department states in the circular that nothing can be done now to lessen the damage to the present crop, but warns farmers to sow no wheat in August, in order to save next year's crop from being attacked.

BRITISH UNIONS REFUSE VOTE OF SYMPATHY TO GERMAN WORKERS

"Drop Such Sentimental Bosh," Demand of Ben Tillett, Fighting Labor Leader.

LONDON, July 2.—The trade unionists of Great Britain today dismissed with contumely the suggestion that a vote of sympathy be given to their German fellow unionists in trade at the anhual conference of the federation now in session at Derby.

"Drop such sentimental bosh," was the prompt demand made by Ben Tillett, the fighting head of a number of leading unions. "This is a scrap," he added, "and must be fought out in that spirit. Whoever heard of two prize fighters stopping in the middle of a fight to kiss each other?"

Some British trades union delegates who were in Germany in June, 1914, said they had found the German workers in full sympathy with their Government; that they had openly boasted that "when the great war came, Germany was going to crush France and then England." Loud cries of "next business" buried the proposal to pass a vote of sympathy with the German trade unionists.

WOMEN'S COUNCIL WATCHFULLY AWAITING THOSE POLICEWOMEN

Unless They Are Named at an Early Date the Police Board Will Be Called to Account.

Unless the Police Board appoints a policewoman within the next week or so, it is going to hear from the Women's Council representing 57 women's organizations. The Council decided at a board meeting yesterday that it would wait a little while before it took definite action. Just what action it can take is uncertain, but it probably will start with some resolutions.

The last Legislature authorized the Police Board to appoint policewomen. The law went into effect about a week ago. As yet, however, none has been appointed. Mrs. William H. Utter, president of the Council, says she has been informed it hasn't even been mentioned in Police Board meetings.

President McPheeters of the Board said recently he would need some help before he could make up his mind whether an appointment could be made. Members of the Council say they are willing to help him all over the place if he will call on them.

SAYS HE HUGGED AND KISSED HER

Discharged Maid Sues H. A. Copeland for $5000—He Denies Charge.

Catherine Brinkman, 18 years old, of 2707 Cass avenue, formerly a maid in the home of Howard A. Copeland, 3824 St. Louis avenue, filed suit today against Copeland for $5000 damages, alleging that on the night of May 22 last he entered her bedroom and embraced and kissed her against her will.

Copeland denied to a reporter the charge made by the maid. He said she had been employed in his home about four months and was discharged last Saturday by Mrs. Copeland upon the latter's return from a visit in California. He is secretary of a men's furnishing goods company.

TWO FALSE ALARMS OF FIRE

Boy Said to Have Been Running From Box and Is Arrested.

George Miller, 16 years old, of 222 St. George street, was arrested at 1 o'clock this morning after two false alarms of fire had been turned in from the box at Third and St. George streets. A patrolman said he saw Miller running from the box after the second alarm had been sounded.

A year ago Miller and two other boys were arrested for setting fire to the building occupied by the Standard Furniture Co., 3722 South Third street. He was sent to the Industrial School for an indeterminate term.

46,000 ENROLL IN THE CAMPAIGN FOR MUNITIONS

Lord Curzon Says That Before End of Year Advantage Will Be With Allies.

LONDON, July 2.—In proposing a new clause transferring all powers possessed by the Ordnance Department of the War Office to the new Minister of Munitions, Sir Henry Dalziel Diard declared last night in the House of Commons that the management of the department had been recognized as a national scandal. Other members criticised the department and urged the Government to enlighten the House on the truth of the accusations.

David Lloyd George, in replying, said that it was more important to guarantee that mistakes made in the past should not be perpetuated. He assured the House that the powers already given him were adequate to prevent a repetition of the mistakes.

After the Minister's assurances, Sir Henry withdrew the proposed clause and the munitions bill passed through the remaining stages to a third reading.

Introducing the munitions bill in the House of Lords today, Lord Curzon announced that the first week of the campaign made to speed up the manufacture of arms and ammunition resulted in the enrollment of 46,000 volunteer munition workers.

He was confident, Lord Curzon added, "that before the end of the year the advantages in both men and material would be decisively on the side of Great Britain and her allies."

6 Steamers Are Sunk by Germans In British Waters

Germans to Try Again at "Thermopylae of France"

PARIS, July 2.

THE furious German attacks in the Argonne by an entire army corps with the object of breaking through the French line in the hope of reaching Verdun, will be repeated, according to Lieutenant-Colonel Rousset, military critic of the Petit Parisien. He asserts successive checks have not discouraged the Germans and that they will continue their efforts to gain control of this hilly forest region called the "Thermopylae of France."

Lieutenant-Colonel Rousset and other military writers agree, however, that the French forces have made such preparation as to insure the failure of all efforts on the part of the Crown Prince's army.

have been used merely to keep the Turks on their front too busy to send reserves to that portion of the line where the Anglo-French troops made an advance of 1000 yards.

Amsterdam is responsible for the report that a Zeppelin dirigible balloon was accidently destroyed by an explosion today when leaving its shed at Brussels.

Spirited Fighting on French Front; Germans Use Asphyxiating Bombs.

PARIS, July 2.—The French War Department today gave out the following:

"The artillery fighting was spirited all last night at a great many points along the front, notably in the vicinity of Woesten, northwest of Ypres; in the region of Souchez and in the neighborhood of Vemeuil, to the north of the Aisne.

"After a violent and continued bombardment upon our positions along the road from Ablain to Angres, to the north of the Bethune highway, German grenadiers delivered an attack at about 2 o'clock in the morning. The result was a complete failure.

"Near La Boiselle one of our mines was successful in destroying the advance works of the Germans.

"In the Argonne there was very violent fighting all last night. One of the German attacks was supported by the use of asphyxiating bombs, as well as large hand bombs. It was driven back.

"In the forest of Le Pretre there was also a forward movement on the part of the enemy, which followed a violent artillery fire to prepare the way. This attack also was driven back by the fire of our infantry."

Swiss and Wuerttemburg Frontiers Closed by Germany.

PARIS, July 2.—The German frontier along the Swiss-Baden line has been closed since Sunday. The Wuerttemburg border was closed yesterday. Travelers, who proceeded by boat from Switzerland to Friedrichshafen were reduced to the alternative of returning immediately or remaining in Germany for several days, probably weeks.

Bulgarian Reservists Held Ready, If Call to Colors Come.

LONDON, July 2.—Bulgarian reservists in London were served with a notice today to gather at their respective regiments so as to know where to report immediately, in the event of being called to the colors.

At the Bulgarian consulate it was said that the notification was only a formality, necessitated by a change of regimental depots.

Switzerland to Issue New $20,000,000 Loan at 4½ Per Cent.

GENEVA, Switzerland, July 2.—The Swiss Government intends to issue at an early date a new internal loan of $20,000,000. The loan will be 4½ per cent.

The Post-Dispatch is the only evening newspaper in St. Louis that receives or publishes news gathered by the Associated Press.

TEN MILLION STARVING IN POLAND; DEVASTATION IS WORSE THAN IN BELGIUM

Disease and Want Prevail in Country Which Has Suffered $700,000,000 Loss—People Hide in Forests, Eating Roots and Bark.

WARSAW, July 2.—Ten million people starving in Poland and material losses in movable and unmovable properties amounting to $700,000,000 are two of the results of the war, according to data gathered by the Associated Press.

The devastation of property and the suffering of millions of human beings in Poland is increased so stupendously from day to day that, with communication demoralized, it is becoming increasingly difficult to gather anything like a comprehensive summary of the havoc which the war is causing. It is evident from facts now at hand that of all the regions suffering from the conflict now so widespread in Europe, Poland not only is the worst sufferer at present, but that it will require more time than any other country to recover from the effects of the war.

The case of the Belgians, which aroused world-wide sympathy, is plainly not so bad as the case of the Poles. In comparison, however, the Belgians had an easy time in escaping the horrors of war by flight to England and France, but with the Poles it has been a case of facing a gun, no matter in which direction its distressed might turn.

40,000 Square Miles Devasted.

The devastated territory of the kingdom amounts to more than 40,000 square miles, in which 200 cities and towns and 9000 villages have been partially or entirely destroyed. Five thousand villages have been razed.

Railroad tracks for a distance of 1000 miles have been torn up. Even the soil has been rendered unfit for agricultural purposes by innumerable trenches and big holes bored into it by the projectiles of heavy artillery. The agricultural production of this part of Poland, representing a value of $500,000,000 per annum, has been stopped in its entirety for lack of funds, seeds, farmhands and cattle.

The agricultural population of 7,000,000 people, who are starving, hide themselves in forests or under the ruins of their former dwellings, having as food only roots, bark and decaying carcasses of horses killed on the battlefields.

The fate of cities and industrial regions is no better. Some of them suffered depopulation, some were flooded by a tremendous wave of refugees who had deserted the fighting zone. Eighty per cent of this class of refugees are Jews.

The City of Kalisz, capital of the province of the same name, which before the war had a population of nearly 80,000, numbers now 10,000 inhabitants. Warsaw, the capital of the kingdom, twice as large as Brussels, harbors at present more than 200,000 refugees.

Lodz Looks Like Cemetery.

The city of Lodz, 500,000 inhabitants, the center of the great Polish textile industry, twice captured by the Russian and German armies, looks like a cemetery. Important industrial centers like Chenstohova, Sosnoviec and the coal basin of Dombrova have shared the same fate. The industrial output of the Kingdom of Poland, valued at $400,000,000 per annum, has been annihilated. Three millions of people, earning their daily bread in factories and mines, are starving. The coal mines, though not in the fighting zone, have been flooded by the Germans for strategical reasons and all the costly machinery destroyed. The kingdom that used all of its monthly output of 30,000 carloads receives now less than 100 carloads of coal from the distant Don basin in Southern Russia.

Meanwhile 50,000 miners in Dombrova and the adjoining mines have lost their work for "strategical reasons." All commerce of the kingdom with the Russian Empire virtually has been stopped as well on account of a lack of transportation facilities as because of the interrupted international relations. These commercial transactions between the kingdom and the empire amounted for the year preceding the war to $1,000,000,000 rubles, or $500,000,000.

The same conditions prevail in the banking business. The transactions of the big corporations, of mutual credit associations and of savings banks, have been limited to the paying out of deposits. The notes portefeuil of local banks, representing a nominal value of many hundreds of millions rubles, bear no interest whatever, having, temporarily at least, the mere value of millions of "scraps of paper."

Hunger and Disease Everywhere.

On all sides there is hunger, disease and ruin. Of a total of 1,500,000 horses in this part of Poland, 800,000 have been requisitioned by both fighting armies. Not less than 2,000,000 cattle have been confiscated for the same purpose. Milk is rare and the mortality among infants shows a terrific increase. Sanitary conditions are worse than deplorable. Insufficient nourishment, a fatal congestion of population in certain cities reputed to be safe from immediate war dangers (in some temporary asylums in Warsaw sixty persons sleep in room of 40x30), and lack of medical help aggravate daily the evil conditions. In the country they are still worse, the proximity of shallow graves infecting the air and the water of wells with poisonous germs. Especially in the Provinces of Lublin and Suvalki the graves of fallen soldiers frequently have been dug in the immediate neighborhood of human dwellings.

The conditions in Galicia (Austrian Poland) may be still worse. Embracing 82 counties, Galicia has an area of 32,000 square miles and a population of more than 8,000,000. All of her territory except Cracow and its immediate vicinity has suffered. The country extending from the Russian frontier, from Podvolocsiska up west to Bochnia, for a distance of 450 miles, has been destroyed by fire and cannon. The wave came from the East was repulsed and returned again. Many places were subjected to these invasions as many as seven times. A hundred cities and towns and 6000 villages suffered cruelly; 2500 villages virtually have disappeared from sight. Eight hundred thousand horses and 1,500,000 cattle have been taken away by the armies, as well as almost all provisions like corn and potatoes.

Billions in Products Lost.

The total agricultural production of Galicia, valued at $200,000,000 yearly, and the industrial output of some $100,000,000 per annum, have been destroyed. The loss will be greatly increased if the reports that the withdrawing Russian army has set fire to the Carpathian oil wells prove true.

Cities like Tarnopol, Tarnow, Brody, Nisko, Stryj, Kolomea, Stanislavov and Przemysl are but heaps of ruins. Gloomy looking smokestacks rising out of piles of bricks are the only witnesses of the fact that human beings had once resided there.

Cracow, the ancient capital of the Polish Kings (200,000 inhabitants), and an architectural jewel among the cities of medieval Europe, was not immediately touched by the war, but its inhabitants were ordered to leave and had to fly to Austrian Silesia, Vienna or Bohemia. Over 1,000,000 Galicians are living as refugees in various parts of Austria-Hungary and are suffering there severely.

In the counties of Przemysl, Rzeszow and Jaroslav people are dying from hunger by the hundreds. The counties of Cieszanov and Dovromil, in Eastern Galicia, and those of Lancut, Przeworsk, Nisko, Tarnobrzeg, Jasle and Krosno, in Western Galicia, are so thoroughly devastated that they look as if they had been destroyed by some terrific earthquake. No human dwellings, no roads, no cultivated fields. Among heaps of ruins dogs are running wild with hunger and flocks of crows and ravens in search of food are digging out with their beaks the shallow graves of Russian and Teutonic soldiers. Frequently these are the graves of Polish brothers that killed one another, having been forced into the two opposed armies by the invaders.

70 Per Cent Totally Ruined.

Of a total area of Galicia only 7 per cent has been untouched by the war, 23 per cent has been partially and 70 per cent totally ruined, transformed into a vast cemetery.

Conditions prevailing among professional men are particularly distressing. Men possessing college and university education and degrees, officials, teachers and writers have no means whatever to earn their daily bread. Expelled from administrative positions they held under one government and replaced by officers imported by the invader; removed from positions in closed scientific institutions or in trades that are now useless, these men are facing starvation. On the streets of Warsaw and Lvov (Lemberg) one meets well-dressed and intelligent-looking men who are selling newspapers, unloading coal or trucks, doing all kinds of menial or manual work to earn a few cents for a meal. It is obvious that they must exert themselves to the utmost to perform tasks that are beyond their normal physical strength.

ENSIGN SAYS THAT ACCUSED "MIDDY" GREATLY AIDED HIM

Hough Testifies That Nelson Taught Him More About Electricity Than Did Instructors.

ANNAPOLIS, Md., July 2.—Ensigns E. B. Hough, A. D. Struble and R. Burhen of the class which was graduated from the Naval Academy in June, defendants in the present inquiry, were witnesses today before the court of inquiry investigating irregularities in examinations at the Naval Academy.

Hough testified that Midshipman R. M. Nelson, one of the original defendants recommended for dismissal, had helped him many times.

He said Nelson had taught him more about electricity than the witness had ever learned from instructors.

Ice Comes Under Pure Food Law.

TOPEKA, Kan., July 2.—Ice is a food and the man who makes it of impure materials is subject to prosecution, according to a ruling of S. M. Brewster, Attorney-General, today, in an opinion to the State Board of Health. The pure food department had asked if it had the right to inspect ice plants.

Submarine Disguises Herself to Look Like a Deeply-Laden Steamer

LONDON, July 2.

THE skipper of the L. C. Tower reports that the submarine which destroyed his boat, after sinking two other sailing vessels, disguised herself by rigging two dummy canvas funnels, two masts and a false bow and stern. These contrivances gave her the appearance of being a deeply laden steamer with smoke issuing from her funnels.

$100,000 ALIENATION SUIT FILED AGAINST GUSTAV KRUCKEMEYER

Theron S. Duby, Who Also Asks for Divorce, Alleges Rich Packer Visited Home and Took Wife Motoring.

Gustav L. Kruckemeyer, wealthy packer, whose wife twice sued him for divorce, alleging he paid court to other women, was sued today for $100,000 damages by Theron S. Duby, who alleges alienation of the affections of his 23-year-old wife, mother of two sons, whom Duby sued for divorce today also.

The alleged alienation recited in a petition filed by Alderman Luke E. Hart, Duby's counsel, occurred since Duby took charge of an automobile agency at Cairo, Ill., last April, leaving his wife and children at 6139 Washington avenue.

Duby received anonymous letters warning him, the petition states, that Kruckemeyer was paying nightly visits to his home, and taking Mrs. Duby for automobile rides that lasted as late as 3 a. m. Duby returned to investigate and took his two sons, 6 and 4 years old, to Cairo early in June. Mrs. Duby joined them shortly afterward. Duby alleges that his wife left Cairo June 29, and was met at Union Station by Kruckemeyer.

Kruckemeyer, who lives at 3863 North Market street, is one of the owners of the Kruckemey Sons Packing Co. plant, at 3855 North Market street.

BANKS SAID TO HAVE VIOLATED NEUTRALITY ACT BY LOANS

Federal Board Considers Inquiry Into Use of Reserve Notes in Deals With Belligerents.

WASHINGTON, July 2.—The Federal Reserve Board may conduct an inquiry into the charge that certain banking firms throughout the country have used Federal reserve notes in floating loans to belligerents in Europe and in financing purchases by these belligerents here.

Such an allegation has been made to the board by Representative Fowler of Illinois, and he has been requested to make a statement in writing to the members of the board. It has been reported that more than $200,000,000 of Federal reserve notes have been used by banking firms to float loans to belligerent countries and establish credits for these nations.

Representative Fowler wants to know, if the charge is true, if the Government would not be liable for the payment of huge indemnities for violating the neutrality act.

VERDICT FOR DUPONT CO. IN ANTI-TRUST SUIT SUSTAINED

Court of Appeals Affirms Decision for Defendants in Buckeye Co.'s Action to Recover $4,000,000.

PHILADELPHIA, July 2.—The United States Circuit Court of Appeals today affirmed the verdict given in the Federal District Court against the Buckeye Powder Co. in its suit against the E. I. Du Pont de Nemours Powder Co., Eastern Dynamite Co. and the International Smokeless Powder Co. to recover $4,000,000 for alleged violation of the Sherman anti-trust act.

It was charged that the defendants stifled competition in the manufacture and sale of black blasting powder.

A jury in the lower court decided that the evidence produced did not sustain the charges.

KING TO SEE MISS PAGE WED

Marriage of Ambassador's Daughter to Be at Royal Chapel.

LONDON, July 2.—King George, it was announced today, has placed the Chapel Royal of St. James Palace at the disposal of Walter Hines Page, the American Ambassador, for the marriage of the Ambassador's daughter, Miss Katherine Page, to Charles G. Loring of Boston.

The couple will be married there in August with the King and Queen Mary present.

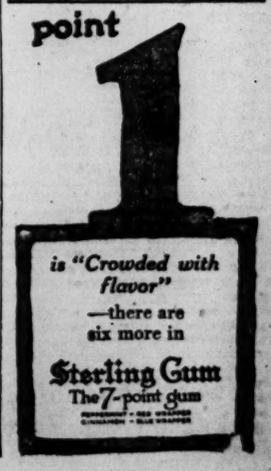

GINGHAM MILLS TO SHUT DOWN

Suspension of Fall River Factory to Put 1000 Persons Out of Work.

FALL RIVER, Mass., July 2.—The directors of the Barnaby Mills, manufacturing gingham fabrics, and having 1000 employes, have decided to suspend operations tomorrow for an indefinite time, it was announced today.

The directors say there has been no market for finished goods on hand.

U. S. DETERMINED TO KEEP HUERTA OUT OF MEXICO

Close Watch of Him to Continue Now; Deportation to Spain Later Suggested.

EXTRADITION ASKED FOR Formal Request Made by Villa Official, Charging General Is Fugitive Murderer.

By Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, July 2.—Gen. Victoriano Huerta, former dictator and President of Mexico, whose defiance of President Wilson led to the seizure of Vera Cruz by American marines and bluejackets, will not be permitted to enter Mexico from the United States at a time when his presence would be a further menace to the plans of this Government to restore peace, if the Federal Government can prevent it.

Determination to keep Huerta from crossing the southern border of the United States and thus complicating the present Mexican situation with a new revolution, reached the point today where four different ways of detaining the former Mexican chieftain were under consideration by various departments of the United States Government.

Secretary Lansing, in referring to the request for the extradition of Huerta from the military authorities of the State of Chihuahua, intimated that the Federal Government could, if it chose, withdraw its present charges of violating American neutrality laws and surrender Huerta to the Villa commander at Juarez.

Secretary Wilson of the Department of Labor has under consideration a plan for deporting Huerta to Spain, under the immigration laws covering the return of undesirable aliens.

Gen. Funston's Orders.

Brigadier-General Funston of the Department of Texas has orders to use the military forces at his disposal to prevent Huerta from crossing the line while at liberty on bail.

The Department of Justice is gathering evidence for the prosecution of Huerta under Federal statutes. Until the hearing on July 12, Gen. Huerta will be kept from re-entering Mexico by the joint efforts of agents of the Department of Justice and the troops of the American border patrol. Fearing that Huerta might forfeit his bond of $15,000 and cross at some secluded point on the Mexican border and join some of the bands believed to be awaiting him on Mexican territory, officials have ordered that a strict watch be kept.

Just how Gen Funston is to take care of Huerta was not made clear today, but it is assumed that American troops not only will be instructed to watch the border carefully, but if necessary place a guard around Huerta's home.

It has not been definitely determined what action will be taken on the request for extradition made by the Villa Governor of Chihuahua. Secretary Lansing pointed out that discretionary power was vested with the Governor of Texas and that under the Mexican-American treaty of 1899, the Governors of contiguous border states in the United States and Mexico can arrange directly for the requisition of fugitives from justice.

Present Case Covered.

He explained that that treaty provided also for the granting of requisitions asked for by the "military authorities" when the civil authority was suspended and he believed that would cover the present case as no civil Government has been recognized in Northern Mexico.

Under the same treaty, if the Federal Government did not press its charges against Huerta for violation of neutrality statutes, Huerta would be arrested and held for 40 days pending the arrival of evidence. Precedents established by the Department of Justice do not provide for bail in such cases. The impression was obtained in high official quarters that this course was likely to be followed, and if the charges made by the Villa authorities were not sustained, the Department of Labor would deport him to Spain.

The request for the extradition of Gen. Huerta was submitted formally to the State Department by Gov. Ferguson of Texas, at the request of Gen. Fidelavila, the Villa Governor of Chihuahua State.

Gen. Huerta is charged by the Villa and Carranza factions with implication in the murder of President Madero and Vice President Suarez, following the overthrow of the Madero administration and Huerta's assumption of power.

Villa Official Demands Extradition of Huerta as Fugitive Murderer.

CHIHUAHUA CITY, Mexico, July 2.—Gov. Fidel Avila has delivered to the American consul here, Marion Letcher, a formal request for the extradition of Gen. Victoriano Huerta, charging Huerta with murder and being a fugitive from justice.

The request was transmitted to the State Department at Washington.

The requisition, which was drawn up in legal form, contains about 200 words. In general it accuses Huerta of various crimes committed against a Power friendly to the United States and against individuals thereof. Specifically it charges Huerta with being a fugitive murderer—referring presumably to the killing of President Francisco Madero, which occurred immediately after Huerta's usurpation of the presidency of Mexico.

The requisition was made by Gov. Avila personally at the American consulate in this city, and was forwarded to Washington immediately, addressed to Secretary Lansing.

Huerta Treasures Flowers Picked by Wife Which He Has Carried for 34 Years

EL PASO, Tex., July 2.

At a dinner given to Gen. Huerta yesterday by newspaper men, someone referred to the wealth Huerta is believed by many to have accumulated in Mexico. Instead of making a direct reply, he drew from an inner coat pocket an envelop with a somewhat bulging enclosure. "There," he said, "is my fortune. That envelope contains that which is of great value."

"How much?" a man asked.

"It is not money," Huerta replied. "This envelope contains a few dried flowers, flowers that my wife gathered and gave to me and which I have carried for 34 years. I treasure them more than wealth."

Huerta Free Under Bond, but American Soldiers Follow Him.

EL PASO, Tex., July 2.—If favorable consideration should be given by the authorities at Washington to the requisition by the Governor of Chihuahua for the extradition of Gen. Huerta, it would mean that the General would be placed in jail here and held 40 days without bond pending a hearing before a United States Commissioner. That space of time is allowed for the bringing of evidence and witnesses.

If in the judgment of the commissioner the evidence presented warranted such action, Huerta would be delivered to the Mexican authorities. Chihuahua being under martial law, he then would be subjected to courtmartial. In as much as the United States has not recognized the Villa faction in Mexico, it is considered here unlikely that a requision by a Villista gubernatorial appointee will be honored.

When Huerta was told by Trial Commissioner Oliver that his case had been continued until July 12, he asked: "Must I, then, remain in El Paso until July 12?"

"The continuance means you must appear here on that date," he was told.

"Why, then, do these American soldiers follow me everywhere? Am I still under arrest?" he inquired. "You are not under arrest, nevertheless these soldiers will follow you wherever you go," the Commissioner responded. Huerta smiled, straightened up and saluted, saying: "All right, at your orders."

Outside the courtroom Huerta was presented to a number of society women. Leaving the Federal building, the Mexican Generals and their counsel walked through the streets to the offices of their attorneys. A crowd of Mexicans followed, shouting, "Viva Huerta," "Death to Villa, the bandit."

After a short time Huerta, accompanied by his soldier guard, returned to the apartment house where he has been staying and the sentries at the house again took their posts.

Execution of Abraham Gonzales Said to Be Basis of Gov. Avila's Request.

EL PASO, Tex., July 2.—Publication of the request for the extradition of Gen. Victoriano Huerta, made upon Gov. Ferguson of Texas by Fidel Avila, Governor of Chihuahua through appointment by Gen. Villa, caused widespread discussion in Mexican circles here today. American Federal and State officials and Gen. Huerta were silent, however. Villa officials based their action on the treaty which permits Governors of adjoining American and Mexican State to deal directly in handling fugitives. It was understood they based their request on the execution of Abraham Gonzales, a former Governor of Chihuahua, maintaining that Huerta was responsible for ordering the execution.

Mrs. Lillian Young, a physician, living at 4511 North Twentieth street, yesterday afternoon gave a check of $5 to a man who introduced himself as a lodge organizer and offered her a position as medical examiner for the women's auxiliary. He told her she was to get $50 a month. The $5 was a membership fee. When she learned the man was an imposter she ordered the payment of the check stopped.

M'Kittrick Failure Due to Erection of Railway Exchange

Jones was not an official of the Hargadine-McKittrick company until about a year ago, when he was made chairman of the board at the instance of several banks to whom the company was indebted. At that time there was talk of a receivership, but no suit was filed.

At Thomas H. McKittrick's office in the Railway Exchange Building today it was said he had gone to a funeral and would not be at his office until later in the day.

Lawyer for Committee Talks.

Attorney Charles C. Collins, now representing the Liquidating Committee, when seen by a Post-Dispatch reporter today, said:

"I was employed by more than a majority of the stockholders of the Hargadine-McKittrick company last spring to file a receivership suit. The petition for the receivership suit was prepared and signed, and also an intervening petition in behalf of the banks which had made loans to the company.

"After considering the matter, it was decided that the assets of the company could be better conserved by the appointment of a liquidating committee. It was agreed to have E. C. Simmons, Walker Hill and R. McKittrick Jones on this committee. The committee has proceeded with its work in a manner entirely satisfactory to the stockholders. The appointment of a receiver would be unfortunate at this time, as it would add greatly to the expense of the liquidation.

"The Hargadine-McKittrick company, in making up its statements of business last year, found that its condition was such that it could not borrow any more money at the banks.

Cites Three Causes for Trouble.

"The troubles of the company were due to three things: The loss of about $1,000,000 in the William Barr Dry Goods Co., which the company conducted for several years before its sale to the Famous company, bad business for the last two or three years, and the investment of about $2,000,000 in the Railway Exchange Building.

"A great many of the charges made by Byrne in his petition are without any foundation, especially the charges relating to profits made by R. McKittrick Jones and the St. Louis Union Trust Co. in the Railway Exchange Building promotion. Jones has been doing everything in his power to protect the interests of the company, and the part the trust company took cannot be criticised. Whatever has happened to bring about the conditions now existing was a mistake of judgment, rather than a desire of individuals to make profits for themselves.

Says Firm Was Wrecked.

In his petition Byrne sets forth in detail that the Hargadine-McKittrick Dry Goods Co. was wrecked by the unlawful diversion of more than $2,000,000 of its money in financing and erecting the Railway Exchange Building.

He also charges that the St. Louis Union Trust Co., as financial agent of the dry good company in the erection of the building, charged usurious interest in excess of the legal interest rate of 8 per cent. The amount of this excess interest is alleged by Byrne to have been more than $500,000.

Thomas H. McKittrick, according to the petition, conceived the idea of the Railway Exchange Building in 1909 and personally acquired leaseholds on property in the block where the building was to be put up. It is alleged that when the payment of the rental for these leaseholds became burdensome to McKittrick he unlawfully used $500,000 of the dry goods company's money for that purpose.

McKittrick controlled the Board of Directors of the company, it is alleged, and through such control induced them to enter into a contract Nov. 24, 1911, by which the Hargadine-McKittrick company engaged in the real estate business and erected the Railway Exchange Building. In this contract Thomas H. McKittrick was party of the first part, the Hargadine-McKittrick company party of the second part and Robert McKittrick Jones and John I. Filley, as syndicate managers, parties of the third part.

The petition alleges that the company gave guarantees to the Missouri Pacific, Cotton Belt and the Wabash lines against any loss or damage they might sustain by reason of vacating other premises. This is declared to have been illegal and without authority, and the declaration is made that by reason of this the long and profitable business of the firm has been wasted and destroyed.

Says Jones Holds Several Offices.

Robert McKittrick Jones is described in the petition as occupying a unique position in the control and management of the company, in that he is chairman of the board of directors, chairman of the Liquidating Committee, president of the Railway Exchange Building Co., a syndicate manager of the Railway Exchange Building and a director of the St. Louis Union Trust Co.

The trust company is said to act as trustee for the stockholders by a voting trust agreement which gives the trust company power to cast the votes of all stockholders.

The petition charges that the dry goods company was without credit and insolvent when, March 16, 1915, the directors, without the knowledge or authorization of the stockholders, decided to liquidate the business.

Because of this decision, it is alleged, four members of the board of directors resigned and E. C. Simmons, George M. Wright, Walker Hill and W. F. Carter were chosen to succeed them. The Liquidating Committee then took charge and sold the merchandise stock of the company to the Ely & Walker Dry Goods Co.

It is asserted in the petition that E. C. Simmons is not an active member of the Liquidating Committee and has only a general knowledge of what the committee is doing.

The petition alleges that the dry goods company is the owner of $2,125,000 of the stock of the Railway Exchange Building Co., but has never received it. It is asserted that this stock is not in the hands of officers of the company or the Liquidating Committee, but has been pledged "with some person unknown to the plaintiff" as security on some supposed or fictitious obligation for the purpose of depriving the company and the stockholders of their property.

It is charged in the petition that Thomas H. McKittrick and Robert McKittrick Jones have unlawfully received in connection with the Railway Exchange Building large profits by the use of the dry goods company's money.

It is alleged that the Liquidation Committee has made no effort to collect outstanding accounts of the company, amounting to more than $1,000,000, or to collect on notes for more than $200,000, representing money advanced to officers of the dry goods company, particularly R. McKittrick Jones and Thomas H. McKittrick.

Byrne asks that a receiver, if appointed, be empowered to collect these outstanding accounts and loans and to recover from Jones and McKittrick the profits made through the construction of the Railway Exchange Building. He also asks that officers of the company and Liquidating Committee be enjoined from further administration of the company's affairs.

The suit was filed for Byrne by Matt G. Reynolds, Thomas Harlan and Chase Morsey.

Subpenas were issued today, requiring the defendants to appear in Judge Dyer's court by July 21 to make answer to Byrne's suit.

How Railway Exchange Project Was Financed; Cost 13 to 15 Millions

THE Railway Exchange building represented an investment of $13,000,000 to $15,000,000, the building costing $5,000,000 and the value of the ground being estimated at $8,000,000 to $10,000,000.

The building was financed by forming two corporations, the Annuity Realty Co., which acquired the block as the site, and the Railway Exchange Building Co., which leased the property from the Annuity company, sold securities and used the proceeds of these securities in putting up the building.

An issue of $3,000,000 sinking fund participation certificates by the Annuity company was authorized, and an issue of $2,725,000 was made, through the St. Louis Union Trust Co. The annual rental to be charged to the Railway Exchange Building Co. was 5 per cent on the amount of annuity certificates outstanding at any one time, and an additional annual payment sufficient to guarantee the retiring of the last of the certificates in 1952.

The ground rent of the Railway Exchange Building Co., it was stated at the time this deal was completed, amounted to $248,500 annually, and the ground rent of the Annuity company to $150,000 a year. The annual capacity income from rents was estimated at about $940,000, of which $580,000 was to come from the Famous-Barr store and four railroad companies, the principal tenants of the building.

ECCLES QUOTED AS SAYING GEDDES BOY WAS HIS SON

Witness Testifies Millionaire Made Admission in Presence of Four Persons.

OGDEN, Utah, July 2.—Mrs. Flora P. Nielson, aunt of Mrs. Margaret Geddes, testified yesterday as the second witness in the case of Albert Geddes, 16 years old, against the David Eccles estate, through which the son of Mrs. Geddes is endeavoring to establish that he is a son of David Eccles and entitled to one thirty-third interest in the estate valued at more than $6,000,000.

Mrs. Nielson testified that before the birth of the boy David Eccles had acknowledged to her in the presence of Mrs. Geddes that he was the father of the unborn child and that, after the birth of the boy, he visited Mrs. Nielson's home and in the presence of the witness, her husband, her grandmother, and Mrs Geddes' daughter, had also acknowledged the child.

TWO YOUTHS ARRESTED IN STOLEN DELIVERY WAGON

Clayton Sheriff Knocks One Down When He Tries to Draw Revolver; Had Plunder in Vehicle.

Two youths, who say they are Peter W. Weber, 19 years old, of 4119 Lexington avenue, and John Miller, 16, 3144 Franklin avenue, were arrested by Sheriff Bode at Clayton this morning for the theft of a horse and delivery wagon belonging to the Louis Stumpf Grocery Co., 1905-7 North Vandeventer avenue. Both boys were armed, but Bode knocked Weber down when he tried to draw a revolver and covered Miller with his own pistol when the latter reached for a pocket as if to draw a weapon.

The wagon was stolen several days ago. Weber, the county authorities say, admitted the theft but Miller denied having anything to do with it.

The car was full of clothing, blankets and other plunder which the boys admitted they had just taken from a clubhouse at Creve Coeur Lake.

FRENCH FORGING DEVICES TO BE USED IN BREAKING TURKISH CAMEL'S BACK

Post-Dispatch Man Visits the Naval Arsenal at Toulon—Sees a Great Fleet of Submarines Under Construction.

The Post-Dispatch to answer the question, "How About France?" is printing a series of articles by a trained observer sent to examine conditions by the Post-Dispatch and the New York World. The remarkable change in the life of France, the wonderful cheeriness with which her people are meeting the tremendous task and its manifold sacrifices are being told in interesting detail by a man who has lived with the people of France during peace and war and who has seen the change come.

By Lincoln Eyre.

TOULON, June 23.—At the French naval arsenal, around which this little town sprawls, I have seen an experiment being made with a device which is likely to destroy the value of mines in maratime warfare; inspected a whole fleet of submarines in process of construction and unlike any now afloat and had described to me the nature of an invention, to be tested here within a week, through which the torpedoing science may be revolutionized.

Than the marine mysteries hidden away behind the high wall surrounding the Toulon arsenal there is nothing more important in the successful prosecution of the allies war on the water. The forcing of Dardanelles may hinge on any one of these three experiments. If all three turn out as well as expected, French naval experts say, the entry into Constantinople is a matter almost of weeks.

Yet hitherto not a word has appeared in print on the subject for the simple reason that until now no newspaper man of any nationality has been permitted to visit the inner sanctums of the greatest French navy yard.

Even the personal letter given me in Paris by the Minister of Marine himself in which M. Augagneur requested the Maratime Prefect, commanding at Toulon, "to faciliate in every respect the visit of the Post-Dispatch correspondent," was subjected to the most careful scrutiny and became the open sesame only after I had produced other documents proving me to be the rightful holder of the permit. Then the admiral in command put me in charge of his personal adjutant who showed me literally everything there was to see. For some of the places we inspected it was necessary for the adjutant to have a special pass. Every officer and man working in the arsenal has his appointed post and is forbidden to stray far from it. There is only one official empowered to go anywhere at any time, and this is the admiral holding the office of Maritime Prefect.

Credit Ballin for Submarine Warfare.

And yet the town of Toulon is as wide open as any in France. No special regulations are in force and outside the arsenal one can wander about at will. The French officers are greatly amused at the stories about the difficulties surrounding a visit to the town of Kiel. One of them explained the differences between the bases as follows:

"In Kiel they are carefully guarding a fleet of canal boats with ships; in Toulon we are well guarded by navies which have swept the seas."

Nevertheless those French officers with whom I talked expressed great respect for the German submarines and their crews—while at the same time expressing extreme horror of the kind of warfare they are waging. They failed to agree with the British policy of treating captured submarine crews as criminals; the German commanders, they feel, are merely fulfilling the first duty of a naval sailor, which is to obey orders.

It is not they who should be held guilty of murder, but the men higher up. In French eyes the latter are the Kaiser, Von Tirpitz and Ballin. The last-named originated the idea, they believe. Von Tirpitz carried it into effect and the Kaiser sanctioned it. That the United States should acquiesce for a minute in submarine assassination is altogether inexplicable to French naval officers.

My guide was most eager that I should see that Germany has no monopoly of submarines, so we first visited a group of huge sheds resembling Zeppelin hangars, in which the newest type of diving craft is being built. Obviously it is not proper for me to dwell on the number of vessels of the form of their construction, but it will give an idea of the vastness of the industry to say that had I waited a few days I would have seen eight slide down the ways at once, and that is a small percentage of the total number soon to be in commission.

To Break the Turkish Camel's Back.

All of them are destined for the Dardanelles and French naval authorities believe that their activities will be the last straw which will break the Turkish camel's back. The allies have realized for some time the opportunity for submarine work in the straits and there is much friendly rivalry between French and British as to which can do the better in this respect.

From the submarine flotilla our way led to the torpedo factories. The structures in which these projectiles are manufactured, and particularly the isolated testing ground, are the most carefully secreted points in the arsenal. To attempt any description of how they are made would be too dangerous, even if it were not so hopelessly technical. Suffice it to say that torpedoes are being turned out at the same amazing speed at Toulon as shells are at Le Creusot, and that the fact each of them costs $5000 seems to have no weight whatever with the French Government.

Women are employed to a much lesser extent than in shell-making. Of course, all the workers in the arsenal are mobilized under the Ministry of Marine, and draw naval rates of pay, according to their abilities. The arsenal is running 24 hours a day, seven days a week, but the men get half a day off, as in other munitions establishments.

Obviously there are neither strikes nor problems about drink, such as have caused so much trouble in England. Any man who tried to strike or get drunk in a French armament factory of any kind would be courtmartialed and either shot or jailed.

They are making torpedoes and submarines at the Brest navy yard and at other places, too, but the center of activity is always Toulon, because it is the nearest French base to the Dardanelles. That is why manifold wartime experiments are carried out here. I was informed that an Italian inventor was about to demonstrate to the Toulon authorities an apparatus through which torpedoes may be controlled by wireless. It is different from any device previously attempted and is destined to make a torpedo after it has left its tube as easily controllable, both as to speed and direction, as a motor boat is in the hands of a skilled navigator.

Of even greater potential importance, my officer guide explained, was the mysterious tinkering going on about the rejuvenated hull of the battleship Gaulois, brought to Toulon for repairs after her unfortunate encounter with a Turkish mine or torpedo—one has never been told which. The renovations to the Gaulois' armor belt have made her far stronger than she was before.

Protection Against Mines.

Thousands of men were scrambling about her prow and sides, adjusting an enormous kind of outrigging upon which hung a gigantic net of steel. The Admiral commanding and a group of naval engineers were keenly studying the adjustment of the quaint-looking apparatus. I learned that this was the first of a series of experiments having as its object the protection of men-of-war from submarine mines.

To the layman's eye the thing seemed perfectly simple albeit a bit unwieldy, but to these naval men it represented a possible, even a probable, solution of the problem with which they have wrestled ever since mine fields came into being. If the invention does what they intend it shall do French naval experts will have done away forever with the peril lurking at every harbor mouth.

Near where the Gaulois lay was moored a familiar looking vessel which seemed out of place, even in its gray war paint, amid so many deadlier craft. It was the Lorraine of the Compagnie Generale Transatlantique, long since commandeered for transport purposes and the sight of a liner better known to New York harbor than to Toulon, 10 months ago, was like meeting an old friend. She had come to the arsenal for a few minor repairs and will be off again soon.

From the Admiralty launch I gained a most impressing understanding of how splendidly situated Toulon is from the military viewpoint. The naval port is tucked away in a crevice of the hills rising steeply on its every side. They are solid hills and each of them is a little Gibraltar. Yet so inherent is the French love of scenic beauty that not a gun was visible and it was difficult to recognize the massive fortifications, even when they were pointed out.

JOSEPH W. BAILEY TELLS HOW HE GOT PIERCE'S STOCK

Testifies $1,500,000 Paper Was Sent to Him by J. C. Van Blarcom, Officer of Commerce Bank.

Joseph W. Bailey, former United States Senator from Texas, testifying this afternoon in Circuit Judge Kinsey's court, told how he had obtained $1,500,000 worth of Nashville Terminal Co. stock from the National Bank of Commerce in 1905. This stock is now in the possession of H. Clay Pierce, the oil magnate, and the bank is suing to recover it from him, alleging that it was pledged with the bank as security for a loan to the Tennessee Construction Co.

Bailey was a witness for Pierce. He testified that early in the summer of 1905 (while he was in the Senate) he became attorney for the Tennessee Construction Co., which was organized to build the Tennessee Central Railway. The Tennessee Central Railway also built and owned the Nashville Terminal Co.

When in New York, Bailey testified, he sent a telegram to J. C. Van Blarcom, asking him to send the stock to him by first mail. Van Blarcom, Bailey said, sent the stock by express, explaining that it was indorsed in blank. For this reason, apparently, Van Blarcom did not wish to trust the stock in the mails.

At that time Van Blarcom was vice president of the National Bank of Commerce and one of the promoters, with Pierce and W. H. Thompson, of the Tennessee Central Railway. Thompson at the time was president of the National Bank of Commerce, and at his death was succeeded by Van Blarcom, who also is dead.

Bailey, explaining why he asked Van Blarcom to send the stock to him in New York, testified this stock and other securities were to be deposited with the Standard Trust Co. in New York under an option agreement by which the Illinois Central and Southern railroads were to buy control of the Tennessee properties. The two railroads never exercised this option.

The former Senator asserted he never had any information at that time that the National Bank of Commerce claimed the stock as collateral for a loan.

F. N. Judson, of counsel for Pierce, asked the former Senator when he first heard of the bank's claim. The witness said it was about two years ago, when he was on a train to Galena, Ill., to attend a celebration of President Grant's birthday. That was at the time when the bank filed suit against Pierce to recover the stock, and he read of the suit in the Chicago newspapers. He said the headlines made it appear as if he had taken the stock. He referred to the headlines as "venomous."

Not Cross-Examined.

The former Senator was not cross-examined by the bank's counsel. He was on the witness stand only a few minutes, and was followed by Samuel W. Fordyce Jr., one of Pierce's counsel, who resumed testimony he started giving yesterday.

ALLIES SAID TO BE IN AGREEMENT ON TRADE TREATIES

One Not to Make Compact With Either Central Empire Without Consent of Others.

ZURICH, via London, July 2.—At the conference in Vienna of the industrial leaders of Germany and Austria to discuss means for bringing about a closer economic union between the countries, Dr. Reiser, president of the Hansa League, pointed out that the allies of the quadruple entente not only had entered into political treaties, but had concluded several economic arrangements.

One of the most important of these, he asserted, provides that none of them may conclude a commercial treaty with Germany or Austria without the consent of the others.

A wireless dispatch from Berlin yesterday said a resolution was passed at the Vienna conference declaring for an economic alliance of the two countries to as great a degree as possible. One of the means proposed to bring this about was a preferential tariff system designed to equalize differences in the cost of production.

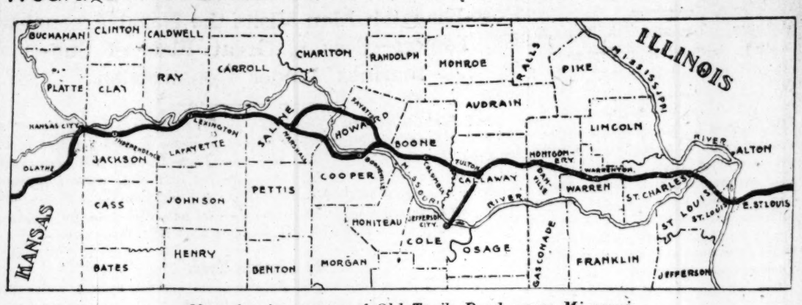

London Post Urges Preferential Tariffs Against Germany.

LONDON, July 2.—Commenting on the Austro-German economic conference, the Post, in a column editorial, urges the allies to take adequate steps to meet, after the war, the "menace of German economic penetration." The Post suggests a system of preferential tariffs aimed against Germany.

Meeting Called to Consider Plans for Completing A Rock Road From St. Louis to Kansas City

Would Bring State $1,000,000 a Year, It Is Estimated

Map showing course of Old Trails Road across Missouri.

Highway Would Be Link in Proposed Road From Washington to San Francisco—303 Miles Long and 130 Miles of It Have Been Hard-Surfaced.

JUDGE J. M. LOWE of Kansas City, president of the National Old Trails Association, has issued a call for a meeting in the Commercial Club headquarters in Kansas City July 9 to consider plans for completing the construction of a permanent hard-surface road between St. Louis and Kansas City. It is proposed to build the highway on the route of the old Boone's Lick road, which forms a link of the Old Trails road, one-third of which already has been hard-surfaced.

The officials and leading business and financial men of the counties intersected by the road have been invited to attend the meeting.

The completion of this road, Judge Lowe estimates, will add at least $2,000,000 in value to the contiguous lands, and increase the expenditure of money by tourists in this state at least $1,000,000 a year. The completion of the road will insure a hard-surface road through St. Louis, all the way from Kansas City to New York and Washington.

Route 303 Miles Long.

The old Trails Road between St. Louis and Kansas City has been rocked for 130 miles. The length of the route is 303 miles. The National Old Trails Association proposes to have the road built all the way from Washington to San Francisco, via Los Angeles. The construction of a transcontinental highway would result in the development of a great overland travel between the East and the West, in the opinion of the promoters.

Secretary Morse of the Automobile Club of St. Louis told a Post-Dispatch reporter today that an average of five of six automobiles a day have been making the trip between St. Louis and Kansas City this year, and that as soon as the roads dry out a little more there will be heavy tourist travel from the East. A tourist who had driven his altomobile all the way from California to St. Louis passed through here during the week, he said.

The Old Trails route is out the St. Charles Rock road through St. Louis County to St. Charles. It passes through Warrenton, county seat of Warren County; Fulton, county seat of Calloway County; Columbia, County seat of Boone County, crosses the Missouri River at Boonville, and extends thence direct to Kansas City, through Lexington.

The plan of the Old Trails Association is to arouse the interest of the people in the different counties through which the road runs and induce them to aid in its completion.

Tour Is Planned.

The members of county courts, commercial clubs, good roads association and editors attending the meeting at Kansas City will be taken for a tour over the Jackson County roads system, one of the finest in the United States, and they will be treated to an out-door chicken dinner. There will be a dinner at the Muehlebach Hotel as a climax to the meeting, at which Kansas City will be host to the delegates.

Judge Lowe states that Maryland is completing a contract for rocking the trail all the way across the State. Pennsylvania has let contracts for its completion, the State having appropriated the money. West Virginia has already completed the highway and Ohio has let the contract from Wheeling to Columbus, a distance of 100 miles, the surface to be of vitrified brick on concrete foundation. Indiana has already completed the road, a part of it being constructed of concrete. Judge Lowe says Illinois is also getting busy, and it is now up to Missouri to do something to maintain her good roads reputation.

The Kansas City meeting will launch a movement to have the road completed within one year.

FATHER TESTIFIES TORBERT BROODED OVER UNCLE'S DEATH

Declares at Inquest He Thought Young Man Had Gotten Over Attachment for Girl.

A verdict of suicide was found by the Coroner today at the inquest into the death of Arthur R. Torbert, 24 years old, a clerk living at 4262 Botanical avenue, who was found shot in Tower Grove park yesterday morning. The young man had written a letter telling her he had been despondent since Miss Catherine Cahill, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Richard P. Cahill, 3810 Laclede avenue, to whom he had formerly paid court, announced her engagement to marry Henry Weis Jr., or 1252 Aubert avenue.

Torbert's father, William E. Torbert, with whom the young man lived, testified at the inquest that his son had brooded over the death of his uncle, William M. Price, secretary-treasurer of the Chenoweth Dyeing and Cleaning Co., who shot himself on a street car March 20. The father thought his son had gotten over his attachment for Miss Cahill, as he had not seen much of her for 18 months.

Miss Cahill did not attend the inquest. The only other witnesses were those who found the body.

Students for Secret "Universities" Secured Through Advertising in Newspapers.

Correspondence of the Post-Dispatch.

PARIS, June 19.—The manner in which a spy is trained for his "profession" in the "special" university extension colleges in Germany established for that purpose is graphically described in the Matin.

One of the most flourishing of these colleges is that of Lorrach, in Baden. The recruitment of pupils is carried on as follows: Advertisements skillfully inserted in the lists of situations vacant appear in the newspapers. Usually they are worded to this effect: "Highly remunerative situation offered to a person of trust having a good knowledge of French, English or Russian."

On being provisionally accepted, the candidate for employment is at once drafted into the "university." There a certain "herr doctor" takes him in hand and instructs him in the high science of robbing foreign nations of their military secrets. At the end of a course which varies in length according to their ability, pupils are given a diploma testifying to their fitness for their official functions, and shortly afterwards they emerge from their chrysalis state as full-fledged functionaries figuring on the salary list of the empire.

Women Are Preferred.

The "university" of Lorrach is a mixed institution where women largely outnumber the men. The Germans have always had recourse as much as possible to women as being more adroit or less liable to suspicion in the exercise of their delicate operations.

The teaching imparted is at once theoretical and practical. In the first place, illustrated charts or water-color pictures are exhibited to the pupils, representing, down to the most minute details, the uniforms of the French, Russian and British armies. Subsequently they are shown photographs of rifles, machine guns, shells, etc. In due time they are instructed in the internal military organization of the country where they are destined to operate—in its effective, the composition of its garrisons, and the nature of its fortified places. Technical experts then explain to them the strategic utilization of railways, the importance for purposes of mobilization of the various railway stations, and other subjects of a similar nature. They are further instructed as to the means of noting with discretion and rapidity the information obtained.

Uses Railway Guide.

One of these means, among scores of others, is the following: A spy passing through a town in France or England observes the presence there of four regiments of infantry, two of cavalry, and one of artillery. All the spy has to do is to underline on a page of his railway guide the name of the town, after which he affixes a small prearranged sign beneath or at the side of the numbers 4, 2 and 1 appearing on the same page. In this way it is possible to classify and describe the military effectives of an entire countryside in one small book without attracting the notice of the keenest observer.

The spy, duly provided with his diploma, is then given a forged identification paper, a passport, and any other document that may aid him in his task, with a sum of money, and he starts on his mission.

"Come and report yourself to us as frequently as possible," he is told, and the observation is added: "See that you succeed, whatever be the means you may have to employ. We shall pay you well. Should you get into difficulties, however, so much the worse for you. We shall disown you completely."

NEW CITIZENS TO BE WELCOMED IN OWN LANGUAGES

Ushers for American Day Exercises Sunday Will Be of Twenty Nationalities.

St. Louis will welcome its newly naturalized citizens Sunday afternoon, at 2:30 o'clock, at the Coliseum, Washington and Jefferson avenues. The ushers will be men who are of 20 different nationalities, under the direction of Harry Ter Braak, and several troops of Boy Scouts, commanded by Scout Commissioner H. H. Simmons. The new citizens will be greeted in their own languages and ushered to the seats of honor in the arena.

The Knights of Columbus Choral Club and others who will participate in the chorus will enter at the Jefferson avenue entrance, where they will be ushered to the platform arranged for them. In addition to the choral clubs which have volunteered their service, a request is made that singers who are willing to volunteer their services enter at the Jefferson avenue entrance and be directed to the chorus division. Printed programs will be given to each visitor.

Former Judge Selden P. Spencer, chairman of the Americanization Day Committee, will preside, and Emil N. Tolkacz will represent the Mayor and welcome the newly naturalized and prospective citizens on behalf of St. Louis.

The public library will distribute cards inviting every person attending the celebration to make use of the library, and special attention will be directed to books on United States history and citizenship, which are printed not only in English but in various other languages.

Walter L. Freund, acting president of the Young Men's Hebrew Association has delegated 150 members to be present and assist in welcoming the guests of honor on this day. The Young Men's Christian Association also will have a large representation. All of the patriotic societies of the city—men's and women's organizations—are asked to attend in a body and participate in the welcoming ceremonies.

EUREKA SALOON LICENSE HELD UP BY EXCISE COMMISSIONERS

Names on Petition Will Be Verified Before Application Is Granted—Opposed by Many Residents.

The Excise Commissioners of St. Louis County today continued until next Friday the application of Tony Blomes for a license for a saloon in Eureka to permit a verification of the names on the petition. The application is being opposed by many residents of Eureka headed by P. P. Lewis, president of the State Board of Agriculture. Eureka hasn't had a saloon since January, 1914, applicants for licenses having failed to get sufficient signers.

Blomes contends that he has 732 signers and that they constitute two-thirds of the taxpaying citizens of the township, which, he says, makes mandatory on the Commissioners the granting of the license.

The remonstrators contend that there should only be considered as legal signers persons residing in the school district, and that Blomes has not a majority of those in the district.

A ST. LOUIS GIRL MOVIE STAR

For the "movie" lover other good things are in store. Don't miss the story of "the minister who went into movies." It's in the Sunday Post-Dispatch Magazine Section.

The following MOVING PICTURE THEATERS will advertise in the SUNDAY Post-Dispatch.

These under the AMUSEMENTS in the news section:

BANK TREASURER ENDS HIS LIFE

Directors in Annapolis, Md., Were Investigating His Accounts.

ANNAPOLIS, Md., July 2.—J. Marshall Caughey, treasurer of the Annapolis Banking and Trust Co., shot himself to death in his room at his club here last night. At the same hour the directors of the trust company were in session at the bank waiting for Caughey to appear to explain his accounts.

An official of the bank said Caughey's act would in no way affect the business of the bank.

$750,000 LUNCH CLUB IS NO PLACE FOR A POOR MAN

Place Opened in New York Has Barber Shop, Roof Garden and Shower Baths.

By Leased Wire From the New York Bureau of the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, July 2.—A new luncheon club has been opened in the financial district—one of those luncheon clubs, you know, that spring up overnight, born from the brain of some man who thinks he would like to have a few of his friends in the same line of business sit down at table with him every noon.

It is the Bankers' Club of America, with a board of governors who are trustees for more than $2,000,000,000; just a little luncheon club, you understand, which takes in the three upper floors of the Equitable Building at 120 Broadway, and the equipment of which cost merely $750,000.

The club, being a baby just now, has only about 2000 members, but the men behind it really hope that enough bankers and big business men may join to make quite a sizeable organization in time.

The Bankers' Club of America was hardly the place yesterday, the opening day, for a poor man to visit, and, what's more, it never will be. It would have been bad for a poor man's morals to find himself strolling about on great art squares and rugs so thick and soft that a toe dancer would enjoy working on them without her patented toe-stuffed slippers; to sit in big "comfort" chairs, built to fit all tired backs and upholstered to the power of expense; to write a letter with a pen, the holder of which was just an immense eagle feather; to look about on every hand and see beautifully framed old prints, many of them almost priceless; to find the service excellent.

Everything About It Is Big.

Big is the word that best describes the new club. Its rooms are big; it is in one of the biggest office buildings in the world, and its members represent big business and money power.

Each room in the club is a symphony of colors. The lounging room, done in the boldest kind of Georgian architecture, is treated in tones of dark crimsons, leading to purple and almost touching, on the other extreme, orange; the Renaissance dining room is done in natural oak and the use of gold panels of wood, plus the brown effects of rugs and draperies, give added charm; the classic dining room is finished all in green-blue tones and the grill room is in dark blues, dark browns and dark reds.

"Telephone Room de Luxe."

It is really hard to pick out the most notable things in the club, as distinction is characteristic everywhere. Most attractive, perhaps, to the men would be the "telephone room de luxe." This looks out over both rivers and the bay and is filled with easy chairs, desks with maps and data, and, besides the open telephones, has telephone booths fitted with soft leather arm chairs. Then there are little private dining rooms, other private rooms for business conferences, a barber shop, shower baths, a roof garden, a ladies' dining room and reception room and a thousand and one other little comforts.

A. Barton Hepburn is president of the new club. T. Coleman du Pont, president of the Du Pont de Nemours Powder Co., and George T. Wilson, second vice president of the Equitable Life Assurance Society, are vice presidents; Charles H. Sabin, president of the Guaranty Trust Co., is treasurer, and Franklin A. Plummer of W. C. Sheldon & Co. is secretary.

PROPOSED BRITISH REGISTRATION CALLED 'PRUSSIANIZING SYSTEM'

Considerable Opposition to the Bill Being Manifested Among Radicals.

LONDON, July 2.—Considerable opposition among Radicals to the registry bill is forecast in the parliamentary lobby. One member proposes to offer an amendment to the effect that "this house declines to assent to the introduction of any system of compulsory registration which is cumbrous, costly and diverting. Mere amassing of indigestible statistics is not organization."

Former Minister John A. Peace will inquire as to the probable cost and other members will demand assurance that the Government does not contemplate the introduction of foreign labor or conscription.

Some radicals call the scheme a "Prussianizing system" while lukewarm supporters complain about the indefinite character of the questions to be asked in taking the register.

3458 DIVORCES IN CHICAGO

Number in Year More Than 10 Per Cent That of Marriage Licenses.

CHICAGO, July 2.—Chicago's divorce mills ground out 3458 divorces, 119 annulments of marriages and 37 decrees of separate maintenance in 1914, according to the first annual report of county clerk Robert M. Sweitzer.

On the other hand there were 33,897 marriage licenses issued for the same period. The number of divorces was more than 10 per cent of the number of marriage licenses. Alimony estimated at $1,000,000 annually was awarded, no award being made in 1535 cases uncontested.

FORMER SEDALIA BANKER DIES AFTER 21 YEARS IN EXILE

James G. Thompson Fled to Mexico in 1894 and Was Found to Be Short $100,000.

SEDALIA, Mo., July 2.—After 21 years, the case of the theft of $100,000 from the First National Bank of Sedalia is closed with the death in California of James G. Thompson. The cashier of the bank, who fled on the night of May 8, 1894, died on a ranch near Los Angeles, an exile whose return had many times been sought by bank officials.

After Thompson disappeared the Federal receivers paid a total of 20 cents on the dollar on deposits, and assessed every stockholder the limit.

Thompson fled to Mexico before the shortage was found and remained there until the indictments against him were dropped. He then returned to the United States and went to California.

Thompson was 69 years old and was born near Bonvile, Mo. He is survived by his widow and five children.

The day after Thompson disappeared from Sedalia a warrant was issued against him by John R. Walker of Kansas City, United States Attorney for the Western District of Missouri.

The warrant charged him with embezzlement, abstraction of funds, willful misapplication of funds, false entries on the books of the bank, false reports to the comptroller of the currency and forgery.

1000 LOVE LETTERS OF BRITISH CAPTAIN PRODUCED AT TRIAL

Special Correspondence of the Post-Dispatch.

LONDON, July 2.—Capt. Edward Ludlow Porter of the Worcestershire regiment, recently returned from the front wounded, was named co-respondent in a divorce action which resulted in a judgment against him for $5000, and then had to fight a breach of promise suit in which a jury awarded the young woman $1250 damages.

The last case has just been disposed of in Justice Adkins' court. It was marked by the reading of several of the most ardent of the 1000 or more letters the defendant was said to have written to his fiancee, Miss Lily Eyton Jones, a music hall artist, in the eight years of his courtship.

"Miss Jones was a young music hall artist of considerable beauty," said Attorney O'Connor, opening the case. "Capt. Porter admired her and fell in love with her. They were engaged in August, 1913.

"Capt. Porter wrote Miss Jones something like 1000 love letters, some of them being gems in their way. I do not believe that there has ever been any amatory correspondent who surpassed Capt. Porter in phrasing ideas of affection and vows of fidelity. Shakspeare, in his description of the feelings of the heart, was an apprentice compared with Capt. Porter.

"One for Ever and Ever."

"The correspondence shows that Capt. Porter was madly in love with Miss Jones and that there is no substance in the defense. On Oct. 30, 1913, he wrote:

"My own precious darling—Oh, how rapturous is the thought that we are one for ever and ever! I never knew what 'the love that passeth knowledge' meant until I learnt, my angel, how truly all in all we are. But now I have to the full realised its meaning.

Oh! my darling, what a wealth of love and devotion you have aroused in me! It is all centered in my baby. Good-night, my baby, good-night, beloved. God for ever bless and watch over you!

"On Aug. 18, shortly before Miss Jones left for Australia, Capt. Porter wrote:

"My own little darling—I simply had to send you that wire this morning just to show you how much your boy was thinking of you. Oh! my little loved one, I can't tell you how happy you have made me, in spite of the fact that you are soon to leave me. To have won your love, sweetheart mine, is indeed a treasure to be proud of, but it is in very safe keeping, little one. Of that you may be assured.

"Why in this world, child, does it always happen that no sooner does one realize what happiness means than the cup is dashed from one's lips? Oh, it is too maddening to know that we are the all in all to each other only to be confronted with the fact that in a few short weeks we are to be parted for a whole year.

My little darling—I just worship and adore you with a passionate intensity that defies my words to express. All my longing and devotion, though, can be summed up in those three words, so old, but nevertheless so true, 'I love you,' and they, my baby, embrace everything * * *

Ah! sweetheart, I love every little bit of you, and I simply can's bear the thought of this long separation. * * * Fancy having to go for a whole fortnight without a single kiss from my little angel! There will be nothing left of you when I get you in my arms again. Au revoir, mine own little darling for ever and ever.

YOUR CHARLIE.

Reads Lost Letter.

The attorney read several other letters of like nature.

"How many of these high explosives are you going to read?" the Judge at last asked.

"I do not propose to trouble you with many," said the lawyer.

"We have had one a day, so far, since the engagement," the Judge reminded him.

The attorney then read the letter which ended the engagement, which he said was written Feb. 13 after the defendant had sent Miss Jones letters expressing greatest affection on each of the three preceeding days. This letter read, in part:

My dear little girl—This letter is going to be the hardest one I have ever written in my life, since it is to tell you, child, that, try hard as I will, I don't love you as once I did, not as much as I thought I did a short time ago. * * * I have realized now that there is another, and that other has what I thought was in your keeping forever. * * * How true, indeed, are those lines:

And to love or not, we are no more free
Than a ripple to rise and leave the sea.

* * * Good-by, Lily.' I would rather have been killed at the front than have had to write a letter like this to you. God grant that in time you may be able to forgive CHARLIE.

"Before that letter was written," said O'Connor, "Capt. Porter had been away with the wife of Capt. Phelps, a brother officer. He was made a corespondent in the divorce court.

She Denies Agreement.

Capt. Porter's defense was that at the time of the engagement he and Miss Jones agreed that any time either found anyone they loved more they were to frankly say so and be free to go with the one of their choice. This, Miss Jones denied, and no proof of it was introduced.

Miss Jones declared she would not marry Capt. Porter after the way he had treated her.

"Do you want damages?" she was asked.

"Yes," she answered, "in so far as they can compensate for the loss of my dignity and the indignity he has put on me. He posed as my fiance for a year and a half, and I could not allow him to cast me aside like that without trying to retrieve my position."

BRITISH CHILDREN URGED TO SUBSCRIBE TO THE WAR LOAN

Campaign to Promote Thrift Similar to German Movement Instituted in Schools.

LONDON, July 2.—A campaign to promote thrift among British school children, similar to the movement already established in Germany, is to be instituted by teachers in the elementary schools by direction of the Board of Education.

According to the circular issued by the board, the facilities for saving are to be provided and pupils are to be told of the desirability of subscribing to the war loan.

"Teachers should make clear," says the circular, "that every one who can save even so small a sum as five shillings has an opportunity of contributing to the loans."

$2 Stolen From Mission Booth.

FIRST WITNESS CALLED BY STATE IN THAW'S CASE

Policeman Tells of Prisoner's Peculiar Actions on Night White Was Killed.

NEW YORK, July 2.—Justice Kendrick and the jury at Harry K. Thaw's sanity trial had heard most of the State's documentary evidence when court reconvened today.

Satisfied that Evelyn Nesbit Thaw will be here early next week in response to a subpena calling her as a witness the State's attorneys had abandoned their preparations to obtain an attachment to compel her presence in court.

Dr. Eliot Remembers No College Incident, Won't Be Called.

BANGOR, Me., July 2.—Dr. Charles W. Eliot, president emeritus of Harvard University, will not be called upon to testify in the proceedings against Harry K. Thaw. Because of the allegation that Thaw was asked by Dr. Eliot to leave Harvard, Bartlett Brooks, a Bangor lawyer, was sent to Northeast Harbor to question Dr. Eliot about the incident. The educator told the lawyer that he could not recall the Thaw incident Brooks so informed the New York Attorney-General, and has been told officially that under the circumstances there is no reason for taking a formal deposition from Dr. Eliot.

Policeman Is Called.

In the introduction of further decumentary evidence, the State called as its first witness James M. Barrett, a policeman assigned to the Tenderloin Police Station on the night Harry Thaw was taken there after the killing of Stanford White. He gave testimony intended by the State to prove that Thaw, while in his cell, was under a delusion that he heard the voices of little girls screaming.

"Thaw asked me two or three times," said the witness, "'Where are those little girls screaming?' I told him there were no little girls. Some women had been arrested and one was shouting and carrying on. I told him they were women, and he said: 'Oh, they aren't. They are little girls. I heard them screaming.' He asked me who was beating and abusing them."

Thaw, when taken into the station said the witness, had his head thrown back and his eyes were staring.

$6,000,000 for City Car Lines.

PHILADELPHIA, July 2.—Six million dollars toward the construction of a rapid transit system by the city was appropriated at yesterdays session of city councils. Half of this amount was awarded toward the construction of a subway tube under Broad street and the remaining $3,000,000 for work on an elevated road.

PRESIDENT MAKES APPEAL IN BEHALF OF NEGRO EXHIBIT

Exposition to Open in Richmond, Va., Next Week, Showing 50 Years Progress.

WASHINGTON, July 2.—President Wilson's proclamation, dated July 1, bespeaking national interest in the exposition to commemorate 50 years' achievements of the negro race which is to open at Richmond, Va., next week was issued from the White House today. It is as follows:

"A national exposition in commemoration of the achievements of the negro race during the last 50 years will be held in Richmond, Va., July 5 to July 25, 1915. The occasion has been recognized as of national importance by Congress through an appropriation of $55,000 to aid in its promotion and consummation. This sum is being expended by the terms of the appropriation under the direction of the Governor of Virgina. The exposition is under the auspices of the Negro Historical and Industrial Association. The action of Congress in this matter indicates very happily the desire of the nation as well as of the people of Virginia, to encourage the negro in his efforts to solve his industrial problem.

"The National Negro Exposition is designed to demonstrate his progress in the last 50 years and to emphasize his opponents. As President of the United States I bespeaw the active interest of the nation in the exposition and trust that every facility will be extended to the leaders whose earnest work has made the undertaking possible."

WAR HORSE QUARTERS ENLARGED

English Agents Make Room for 25,000 Animals at East Alton.

Now that the demand for war horses is increasing, the English Remount Station is enlarging its East Alton stock barns and yards to care for 25,000 horses at one time. Heretofore only 8000 horses could be cared for at one time.

A large carpenter force is working on new fences and barns.

Society

FROM Hyannisport, Mass., comes the news of an interesting engagement, that of Miss Jessie Barr Wright to Dr. George D. Cutler of Boston. Miss Wright is the daughter of George M. Wright of 4457 Westminster place and the sister of Mrs. James Ford Jr. and Mrs. Lawrence Sturgis Day. She is one of the most charming girls in a set which always is seen on occasions of importance. She is a member of the D. A. R. and the Wednesday Club and is fond of outdoor sports. The weddink probably will be early in the fall. Mr. Wright and his family are at their summer home in Hyannisport.

Dr. Cutler is a member of the well-known Boston family of that name and a kinsman of Donald F. Cutler, who married Miss Margaret Lionberger.

Miss Wright is a niece of Mrs. William Barr of New York, for whom she is named.

THE St. Louis colony at Rye Beach has almost reached its full complement. Mrs. George L. Allen and her family have opened their summer home there and Mr. and Mrs. Clinton L. Whittemore and their children and Mrs. Whittemore's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Haarstick, and Mr. anu Mrs. Oscar Herf went on last week. Mr. and Mrs. Edward V. Papin and their children, Miss Julia and Edward C. Papin, have been there since May, and Mrs. George A. Castleman departed several days ago for "Rye," taking her nieces, Mrs. George Castleman Mackay and her children, and Mrs. Henry W. Mizner and her little daughter with her. Mr. and Mrs. Joseph D. Bascom will depart tomorrow for that place. They have shipped their motor car and will make a tour during the summer.

Mr. and Mrs. John J. O'Fallon of 23 Westmoreland place departed Tuesday for Humberston Club, near Coburg, Ontario. Their granddaughter, Mrs. Hayward H. Gatch and Mr. Gatch, also have a cottage there and went up some time ago.

Mrs. Max Idelman of Cheyenne, Wyo., who has been the guest of her daughter and son-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Sidney Schiele, at the Washington Hotel, departed Tuesday for her home. Mrs. Idelman will return early in the autumn.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles E. Bascom of the St. Regis apartments go today to Wequetonsing, Mich., where they have a cottage for the season.

Mrs. John H. Holliday of the Devon apartments will depart for Winter Harbor, Me., next week.

Mrs. William C. Stribling of 4960 Lindell boulevard is to visit her sister, Mrs. Edward Warner of Buffalo, at her summer home on Lake Erie and will remain in the East until October. She will depart Monday.

Preparations have been completed to entertain a large crowd at the Young Men's and Ladies' Hebrew Charity Society picnic at Normandy Grove, Sunday. Among the features will be an exhibition by the Boy Scouts, band concerts, baseball game, dancing and athletic contests.

Mr. and Mrs. George L. L. Davis, who have been residing at the St. Regis apartments, have bought the house at 5285 Washington boulevard and will take possession in the autumn on their return from the East. Mrs. Davis and her children departed today for Philadelphia to visit her family there and later will go to Bay Head, N. J., for the summer.

WATCHMAN SHOOTS MAN IN LEG

Accused of Stealing Journals, Victim Says He Was Waiting for Car.

John Lyons, 46 years old, of 2107 Blair avenue, was shot in the left leg last night about 10 o'clock at Broadway and Buchanan street by William Wilcox, private watchman for the Union Sand and Material Co. Wilcox said he saw Lyons and another man removing brass journals from a freight car on a Buchanan street siding. He and Jesse W. Weaver of 1934 Wright street pursued the men. Lyons was shot as he threatened Wilcox with one of the journals.

Lyons in denial says he was standing near Broadway and Buchanan street waiting for a car when Wilcox approached and shot. Lyons was arrested and taken to the city hospital. His companion, Charles Kelly, 43 years old, of 1137 North Seventh street, also was arrested.

BROKERS WITHOUT LICENSES

Insurance Men Are Summoned to Appear Before Assistant Prosecutor.

Twenty-eight insurance brokers today were summoned before Assistant Prosecuting Attorney Wilson to show why they had not obtained brokers' licenses, for which the State charges a fee of $10 a year. If found liable for the fee they must pay it or warrants charging them with acting as insurance brokers without licenses will be issued, the Assistant Prosecutor said.

The State law requires all persons who solicit business for more than one insurance company to have licenses. J. H. Mackler, St. Louis representative of the State Insurance Department, said there are 300 insurance brokers in St. Louis, and that the others will be summoned within a few days.

WOMAN IN PLACE OF PASTOR

Deaconess Called by Episcopal Congregation at Glen Carbon, Ill.

The congregation of St. Thomas' Episcopal Church at Glen Carbon, Ill., a mining town, has called a woman to be its spiritual director. She is Deaconess Gore of Barnhart, Mo., and will perform all the duties of pastor, beginning with her first sermon Sunday morning. The church has a membership of 300, mostly miners and their families.

Deaconess Gore served as deaconess at Barnhart, under the supervision of Coadjutor Bishop Johnson of Missouri. She was transferred recently to the diocese of Bishop Osborne of Springfield, who appointed her to the Glen Carbon place.

FIREMAN ACCIDENTALLY SHOT

Ira Butler Exonerates Fellow Employe—Wound Not Serious.

Ira Butler, 59 years old, of 2828 North Twenty-first street, engineer of Fire Engine Company 26, at Second and Madison streets, was accidently shot in the groin by another fireman last night. The wound is not serious and Butler has exonerated Michael Burke, 1518 Elliot avenue.

The two men were shooting at a mark, and Burke was attempting to reload the pistol when one of the cartridges was discharged. Butler was taken to the city hospital.

39,220,000 PERSONS IN ENGLAND RECEIVE LESS THAN $800 A YEAR

Average Weekly Wage of Men Workers Is $6.50 and of the Women $2.75.

LONDON, July 2.—An analysis of Government statistics made by the Fabian Society shows that in the United Kingdom there are 1,500,000 persons whose incomes exceed $3500 a year, 4,500,000 with incomes between $800 and $3500 and 39,220,000 who receive less than $800 annually. It is calculated that the average wage of the adult laboring man equals $6.50 a week and of the adult woman worker but $2.75 weekly. Since 1895 the purchasing power of a pound has declined nearly half; that is, $5 now goes no further than $2.95 did in Great Britain in 1895.

Out of a national annual income of $11,000,000,000, something over a billion and a half is absorbed in rent, $2,000,000,000 go for interest and $2,750,000,000 for profits and salaries.

Peace has its tolls no less than war, for in 1913 there were 4863 persons killed and 222,061 injured in industrial accidents.

ADRIATIC CARRIES WAR CARGO

Miscellaneous Munitions Aboard British Liner Leaving New York.

NEW YORK, July 2.—In the cargo of the British liner Adriatic when it sailed Thursday, according to the manifest filed in the custom house, were 1995 cases of cartridges, 3948 coils of wire, 1296 bundles of wire, 14,151 plates of spelter, 1235 pieces of steel forgings, 1347 cases of empty projectiles, 15,867 ingots of copper, 2403 bundles of steel, 145 cases steel forgings, 190 cases of fuses, 96 autos, 5 tractors, 410 coils of wire, 135 cakes copper, 877 bars copper, 739 cathodes, 11 aeroplanes, 30 cases empty untimed cannon shells, 182 cases empty shells, 6 cases revolvers, 4 cases rifles and 770 brass rods.

EFFORT MADE TO HAVE ZINC MINERS AND OPERATORS MEET

Strikers March Upon Two More Mines in Joplin District and Cause Them to Close.

JOPLIN, Mo., July 2.—A conference of operators and representatives of the striking miners probably will be held at Webb City Monday in an effort to reach a settlement in the disagreement that has tied up big zinc mines here for the last four days. J. M. Short, an operator, met with strike leaders late yesterday and arranged a tentative date for the conference. He announced he would confer with other operators in an attempt to induce them to meet with the strikers.

Only two additional mines were closed yesterday through the efforts of the strikers. A delegation marched upon the properties and ordered them closed. Both are in the Joplin district.

AFFIDAVITS OF MISSUSE OF U. S. FLAG OBTAINED

Government Gets Sufficient Proof to Include Protest in General Note to England.

WASHINGTON, July 2.—Representations concerning the misuse of the American flag by British merchantmen will be included in the general note which the United States intends soon to hand to Great Britain covering restraints of American commerce in connection with the so-called blockade.

Secretary Lansing disclosed today that the investigation being conducted by the United States Government into cases of alleged misuse of the American flag to deceive German submarine commanders had not yet been completed, but that evidence in specific cases would be called separately to the attention of Great Britain, while the general subject would be included in the new note.

Reports have been received not only from Ambassador Gerard, in Berlin, but through American consular sources in Great Britain, with affidavits and other evidence tending to show alleged misuse of the stars and stripes.

Some of the affidavits thus far received state that in certain cases the British admiralty's agents have consulted with the masters of vessels and advised the use of the American flag.

Originally it was discussed when Germany, in her proclamation of a war zone, announced that, in view of the misuse of neutral flags, it would not always be possible to distinguish between craft entitled to fly neutral emblems and ships of belligerent nationality. The use by the Lusitania of the American flag while crossing the Irish Sea to Liverpool was dealt with in the American note to Great Britain, dated Feb. 16, which pointed out "the serious consequences which may result to American vessels and American citizens if this practice is continued." This note concluded as follows:

"The Government of the United States therefore trusts that his Majesty's Government will do all in their power to restrain vessels of British nationality from the deceptive use of the flag of the United States in the sea area defined in the German declaration, since such practice would greatly endanger the vessels of a freindly power navigating those waters and would even seem to impose on the Government of Great Britain a measure of responsibility for the loss of American lives and vessels in case of an attack by a German naval force."

British Upheld Right.

The British Government, in its reply dated Feb. 19, claimed that inasmuch as Great Britain always had permitted other countries to make use of the British flag in time of war, it would be "contrary to fair expectation" to begrudge British ships the liberty to take similar action now, but added that the British Government "had no intention of advising of merchant shipping to use foreign flags as a general practice or to resort to them otherwise than for escaping capture and destruction."

Great Britain contended than an obligation rests on a belligerent warship to visit and search before attacking and if this were done belligerent nationality could easily be verified. The British note was never answered by the United States and it is believed that evidence thus far gathered will be made a basis for the renewal of the correspondence then begun.

Boy Robs Woman in Car.

Mrs. Elizabeth Renn of 4542 Forest Park boulevard, rested her elbow on the window bars of a Cass car yesterday afternoon and at Sixth and La Salle streets a bare-footed boy snatched her meshbag from her wrist. The bag contained a check for $22.65.

DANGER OF LYNCHING CAUSES REQUISITION TO BE WITHDRAWN

Negro Wanted in South Carolina for Murder to Get New Hearing in Pennsylvania.

PHILADELPHIA, July 2.—Gov. Brumbaugh, it was learned today, has withdrawn a requisition warrant issued by Gov. Tener in 1913 for Fred Brown, a negro, wanted in South Carolina on a charge of murder. Representation was made to the Governor that the prisoner would be in danger of lynching if returned to the Southern State.

After Brown's arrest, several years ago, his counsel, in pleading against Brown's return to South Carolina, quoted public utterances of Cole Blease, then Governor of South Carolina. The case was carried to the United States Supreme Court, which sustained the lower courts in refusing to interfere.

In asking Gov. Brumbaugh to withdraw the requisition, counsel cited incidents in connection with the Frank case in Georgia and a recent lynching in South Carolina. A hearing in the case will be given by Gov. Braumbaugh next week.

F. D. Roosevelt Operated on.

WASHINGTON, July 2.—Franklin D. Roosevelt, Assistant Secretary of the Navy, was operated on for appendicitis yesterday at the naval hospital. He was stricken with an acute attack at his home. Physicians said the operation was entirely successful.

BUCHAREST BOASTS OF BEING GAYEST CITY IN EUROPE

Afternoon Promenades Followed by Dinner and Theater, Then Night Cafes Are Visited.

Correspondence of the Associated Press.

BUCHAREST, July 2.—Bucharest, long known as the "pocket Paris," now boasts of being the gayest city in Europe. The war has brought a great deal of money into Rumania, and those who have benefited are staying at home to spend their new-found fortunes, for there is little to attract a traveler these days to Paris, or Vienna, or London. Much of the money is the result of Rumania's excellent bargaining with Austria and Germany for her last wheat crop and for other articles of wartime need.

It is sufficiently easy to spend money in Bucharest, and it is part of the cult of the city that pleasure can only be commensurate with outlay. Most articles of clothing cost five times as much here as in Paris or London. The hotels ask $6 a day for a very ordinary room, and meals are correspondingly costly.

The women of Bucharest model their style and carriage closely after the example of Paris, but not the chastened Paris of wartime. Feminine heels are higher in Bucharest than anywhere else in the world, and the eastern temperament of Rumania allows more exaggeration in the use of rouge and powder than Paris would sanction. The men—that is, the men of the fashionable set—would be called too well dressed in London or New York.

Society appears at its best in the afternoon, when everyone that aspires to be anyone goes for a drive on the Chaussee. The horse-drawn vehicle is still quite the thing, with coachman and driver in velvet livery and silken sash of gaudiest color. After the drive comes 5 o'clock tea, taken either at home or in one of the fashionable cafes. Tea is followed by a leisurely promenade down the Callea Victoria, which is the Riverside drive of Bucharest and, like it, the starting point of many a romance.

Cafes Open at Midnight.

The evening is taken up with dinner and the theater. Then at midnight, when the concerts and theaters are finished, the night cafes open. There are cabarets and dance halls by the score, and everywhere plenty of music. Prices are on a scale which it would be hard to beat in New York. The best supper places offered customers a varied entertainment—the latest tango dances, the newest, wildest Hungarian music, from zimbals and pan-pipes, and vaudeville numbers of many types.

Flower women and child beggars in great numbers haunt the neighborhood of the cafes until almost dawn. They are allowed to enter even the best restaurants and circulate around among the tables, where they gather a few coins and many bits of food.

The afternoon promenade on the Callea Victoria strikes the foreign visitor as a little freer and more unconventional than anything of the same kind to be found in European or American cities. The man who smiles at a lady he does not know is not considered a person to be frowned upon, but is rather regarded by the majority as a commendably dashing and gallant fellow.

DETECTIVE FRIENDLY WITH FORMER MATRON SUSPENDED

Frank Johnson of East St. Louis Admits Relations With Mrs. Lena Frederici at Hearing.

Frank Johnson, an East St. Louis detective, was suspended for 90 days by the Police Board last night for conduct unbecoming an officer, in connection with his relations with Mrs. Lena Frederici, former police matron. Mrs. Frederici charged Johnson with beating her, but he was exonerated on that ground. He admitted his friendship for Mrs. Frederici.

Johnson is married. His wife was a witness at the hearing. She said that the first she knew of her husband's conduct was when Mrs. Frederici told her over the telephone. She said Johnson confessed and she forgave him. They have two sons and two daughters. The hearing was held in the city courtroom, which was filled with spectators.

$10,000 PRIZE OPERA PRODUCED

Initial Performance of "Fairyland" Given in Los Angeles.

LOS ANGELES, July 2.—The culmination of a series of musical festivals held here during the week, in connection with the biennial meeting of the National Federation of Musical Clubs, was reached last night with the first performance of the American grand opera, "Fairyland."

The opera, which won a $10,000 prize offered by several wealthy citizens of this city, is the work of Horatio Parker, professor of music at Yale University, and Bryan Hooker of New York. The principals who took part in the opening production were specially engaged for four performances in this city. Alfred Hertz of the Metropolitan Opera Company was the director.

Modern Laundries for Warships.

WASHINGTON, July 2.—Modern laundries are to be installed aboard American warships to replace tubs and washboards of the bluejackets. Secretary Daniels announced today that in view of the success of an experiment aboard the new dreadnought Texas, laundries would be provided on other vessels.

Son Born to Walter Johnson.

WASHINGTON, July 2.—Walter Johnson, premier pitcher of the American Baseball League, hurried home this morning from New York to see a baby boy which was born during the night. Mrs. Johnson is a daughter of Congressman E. E. Roberts of Nevada.

TWO CZECH LEADERS REPORTED TO BE PRISONERS IN VIENNA

London Times Says False Report That Men Had Been Freed Was Made to Aid War Loan.

LONDON, July 2.—The Czech parliamentary leader, Dr. Kramarz, and Dr. Schreimer, head of the Bohemian gymnastic organization, were arrested at Prague, May 22, charged with espionage and maintaining friendly relations with the Italian Consul, according to the Times. The only compromising documents found in their possession are said to have been copies of a Czech review published in Paris.

The Times asserted that the two men are imprisoned in Vienna, although false reports of their liberation have been spread officially in the hope of influencing the Czech population in favor of the war loan.

The Times article contains the statement that several Czech regiments have deserted to the Russians and Servians.

RIP VAN WINKLES OF JAPAN FOUND IN MOUNTAIN WILDS

Curious Clan Thought to Be Descendants of Mikado of 9th Century.

Correspondence of the Associated Press.

TOKIO, July 6.—Japanese ethnologists have discovered in the mountain fastnesses of the island of Kyushu a curious and ancient people who have been designated the Rip Van Winkles of Japan. A similar group has been found in the mountains of Hida Province. It is said that both are of the Heiki family, which descended from a Mikado of the ninth century. They were all-powerful in the twelfth century until defeated in the Japanese War of the Roses by the Minamoto clan.

History holds that the Heika fugitives who escaped after the twelfth century battle were drowned during the flight, but the recent discovery of the picturesque clansmen in the wilds of Kyushu and in the mountains of Hida Province leads to the belief that many escaped and settled in remote mountain districts.

Shut in by precipitous mountain peaks, these villagers live an old world life, just as they must have centuries ago. One reason for believing they are the descendants of the Heiki is that their style of clothing is the same as prevailed in Kyoto in the Heiki epoch and their dialect resembles somewhat the dialect of Kyoto in the olden times.

They sing a song which, translated, runs:

"Putting off our headgear of nobles and our hunting dress, we proceed into the forest and the recesses of the mountains as woodcutters, to fell a tree."

Moreover, the villagers themselves think they are the descendants of the Heiki. Certainly these people are vastly different from the ordinary Japanese of today, both in language and in custom. The families often number from 20 to 30 persons and live together in separate flats, as it were, in the same house, but eat at a common table as a measure of economy.

The management of the family is vested in the head, who exercises absolute authority. He occupies a seat of honor and wears a ceremonial skirt. He spends most of his time in receiving visitors and attending to social matters. He is exempted from all manual labor.

The heir of the family is all important, while the rest of the children are merely servants. He alone can take a legitimate wife and in turn have heirs. The smallness of the clans has resulted in marriages that are sometimes too close and hardly eugenic. Nevertheless, the community life is on the whole of a high order. Those who break rules are banished from the village. The houses are 90 feet long and 50 feet wide. They are more like family hotels and always contain a shrine where the ancestors are paid homage.

The clansmen use no lamps, for the wood they burn in the middle of the floor at night furnishes all the light they need. They live chiefly on the grain of a kind of grass. The headman sometimes has rice brought in from the outside world for his own use, but for the most part even he has to live on communal food. Pumpkins, eggplants, yams and other vegetables they grow in plenty.

BUILDING MATERIAL SALES STOPPED BY CHICAGO STRIKE

Operations Cease in 43 Lumber Yards and 65 Brick Plants Awaiting Industrial Peace.

CHICAGO, July 2.—Forty-three of Chicago's largest lumber yards and 65 brickmaking plants were closed today, throwing several thousand men out of employment.

The establishments will not make deliveries on any building until the strike of 16,000 carpenters is settled. The eleventh-hour decision of the allied building construction and material interest to continue building, but not selling operations, placed a more optimistic aspect on the lockout against the carpenters and other striking building trade workmen.

No material, either brick or wood, will be permitted to reach any building contractor or manufacturer in Chicago, it was declared, however, until industrial peace is restored.

ORGANIZE TO SAVE HOMES

One Thousand Kentuckians Will Oppose Colonial Patent Holders.

WEST LIBERTY, Ky., July 2.—One thousand citizens of Morgan County have organized to fight the activity of persons dealing in so-called "wildcat" land titles and attempting to establish claims to the farms of this county through alleged inheritance under an original colonial patent.

A resolution adopted charges that the scheme is planned "to rob us of the fields and forests inherited from our fathers and to drive us and our children from our firesides and give the fruits of our long years of our toil to scheming land sharks from the North and East."

Local Merchants to Fight Practice of Returning Goods.

About 75 members of the Associated Retail Merchants' Association of St. Louis met at dinner in the Mercantile Club Wednesday evening. The principal business before the meeting was to devise means of fighting the practice of purchasers returning goods. Merchants in other large cities, it is said, have been successful in combating this evil.

BETTER BUSINESS AHEAD, FEDERAL REPORTS INDICATE

Increased Activity Being Manifested by the Jobbing Trade in St. Louis.

U. S. REVENUE SUFFERS

Europe's War Declared Main Cause of the $35,000,000 Deficit.

WASHINGTON, July 2.—Business conditions throughout the country for June as reported by Federal reserve agents show a general tendency toward improvement. St. Louis reported that the output of manufacturers, who have no products available for Europe, still was below normal, although the jobbing trade was somewhat more active. The outlook for the cotton crop was favorable and the livestock market continued active.

Crop and financial conditions in the Kansas City district were reported excellent. The coal industry was above normal for the season. Livestock and packing industries were normal, with farm implements and automobiles vieing with each other for record of sales. There was a surplus of harvest laborers.

Boston Has Economy Wave.

Boston reported that weather conditions and a "wave of economy, which is affecting all classes," probably had been important factors in the general business situation. Shoe manufacturers stated that the situation was not getting worse and the underlying tone was fairly healthy. Cotton mill business was generally satisfactory, but there seemed to be a recession of business in the wool, woolen and worsted trade since May 1.

New York bankers throughout the State were quoted as reporting that crops in general had a good start and that increased activity and better employment for labor in many industries were shown. In New York City trade was reported that mercantile lines in general continued to show an improving trend and there was a reasonably satisfactory outlook.

Philadelphia jobbers were looking more cheerfully to the future than a few months ago. Orders for exports were increasing. Employment conditions were said to be improved.

Boom in Some Cleveland Lines.

Cleveland reported business in some large industrial plants with special lines as booming, with general business "only fair." Coal and pig iron activities were said to be still unsatisfactory, with automobile and rubber manufacturing industries working to capacity.

Chicago reported a steady but slow progress. Late advices indicate unprecedented cereal prospects. There was more activity in iron and steel lines.

Minneapolis said weather conditions undoubtedly had damaged the Northwestern corn crop, but it was too early to estimate the effect. Wheat was in excellent condition. Business had responded to promises of a good year in agricultural districts.

Dallas reported that the Southern and Central Texas oat crop would be the largest yield known. Corn was in a favorable condition, but the condition of cotton is not entirely satisfactory.

Government Deficit, $35,864,381.

In the meantime the second business year of the present administration ended with Friday and showed a deficit of $35,864,381, compared with a surplus for the year ending June 30, 1914, of $34,418,677. An enormous reduction in customs revenues resulted from the war, while disbursements were much greater.

Notwithstanding the deficit, the treasury has an actual balance of $82,025,716, with every prospect that it will be increased possibly by $10,000,000 in the next 10 days.

Customs receipts for the last fiscal year amounted to $200,268,107, about $11,000,000 under the estimates made by Secretary McAdoo several months after the war began, and $82,000,000 below the amount received from this source in 1914. With the end of the war apparently remote, it is well known that many treasury officials are convinced that it will be necessary for Congress to restore the old duty on sugar at the next session. Sugar becomes free next year. In the days when it paid duty it brought in about $60,000,000 a year.

Income Tax Big Producer.

The income tax was the big producer in the last 12 months. Total receipts were $79,828,675, of which $36,308,525 came in on June 30. This is more than $8,500,000 above that total received from the tax last year and there remain 10 days of grace in which it may lawfully be paid. Officials are confident that during this period there will be received at least $6,000,000, which would bring the total $5,000,000 above the amount estimated.

The personal income tax proved a surprise this year. Last year it brought in only about $28,000,000, but this year it has produced more than $41,000,000, and that probably will be augmented by several millions. A closer examination of returns and the announced intention of officials to prosecute tax dodgers are believed to have helped to swell the receipts. The corporation income tax apparently will be about the same as that received last year.

Internal revenue receipts for the year, $335,828,377, were only about $27,000,000 in excess of last year's. One contributing fact is that whisky is not paying the revenue it formerly did by somewhere between $16,000,000 and $20,000,000 a year.

Three Little "Merchants" Who Raised Money to Save Babies

VIRGINIA HENSLEE, SYLVIA SINGER and BEATRICE SINGER

PURE MILK BEING SUPPLIED TO MORE THAN 360 BABIES

Increased Demand Shows That Generous Contributions Are Needed for This Work.

CONTRIBUTIONS.

Previously acknowledged	$ 461 80
Ben A'Kiba Aid Society	25 00

Total	$ 496 04

More than 360 babies in destitute homes and with crowded and unwholesome surroundings are being nurtured through the St. Louis Pure Milk Commission, and about the same number are also receiving free ice through the Free Ice and Diet Circle of King's Daughters. Without the milk and ice thus supplied many of the little ones would not survive the abnormal conditions this summer of high humidity and wide temperature ranges.

There were more than twenty babies placed on the list of applicants for pure milk with the commission yesterday, when one of the periodical clinics was held. Some of these little ones were seriously ill, recourse to the institution specially designed for relief of such cases being belated.

The figures given are striking evidence of the demand upon the Milk Commission, the King's Daughters and the Post-Dispatch Pure Milk and Free Ice League. They show that money in generous amounts is absolutely essential for the business in hand. They indicate the necessity for redoubling of energies on the part of the boys and girls, and older people as well. The babies of the poor cannot be saved without expense, and bills can be paid, in the circumstances, only by money voluntarily contributed, which the Post-Dispatch will receive and acknowledge and place in the channels organized for its disbursement.

Free Inspection Offered.

Appeals in behalf of the little ones are meeting with widespread response, not only is money being contributed but many are offering to give time and effort to the cause. The following letter from Director George M. Heath of the Missouri Research Laboratories is one illustration of the practical sympathy that has been aroused:

"Pure Milk and Ice Dept., Post-Dispatch, City.

"Gentlemen: I have watched with great interest the progress you are making in your pure milk and ice campaign and wish to express myself as being heartily in accord with it.

"Should you at any time find it necessary for an inspection or analysis of the milk used in the campaign we will gladly place our pure food department at your disposal gratis."

Loraine McNaughton, 7 years old, of the Lucerne Apartments, 4500 McPherson avenue, is eager to contribute her talents to the cause. She is a prodigy in singing and dancing, according to those who have heard and seen her. She will cheerfully devote her time and talents to entertainments for the benefit of the fund. In this little Loraine has the hearty encouragement of her mother, who can be reached by mail at the address given or by Bell telephone Forest 6300.

In raising $5 for the fund, Una G. Clark of 4553 Chouteau avenue and Esther Schaeperkoetter of 4557 Chouteau avenue adopted the method of auctioning a hand-painted plate and an embroidered towel, their own handiwork. The work of these girls is a demonstration of what can be achieved when deep sympathy is behind the desire to aid.

"Kindly apply to this most needed effort; keep up the good work," E. W. Dolch wrote, inclosing a $5 check for the fund.

Little Girls Turn Merchants.

Three little girls, Virginia Henslee of 5910 Washington avenue and Beatrice and Sylvia Singer of 527 Hamilton avenue, conducted a lemonade, candy and cake stand at Hamilton and Washington avenues, Tuesday and Wednesday, and earned $6.54 for the benefit of the fund. The children went into the business with the true American spirit. They solicited from the neighboring stores and were cheerfully given material for their merchandising enterprises. They then had their mothers manufacture the materials into the finished product. Little Virginia conducted the stand and filled the orders of the purchasers, while the other two were "scouts," who went about the neighborhood bringing in the customers. All of the children said that this was their first effort, and that their next endeavor would be more successful.

KILLS MAN WHEN SHE LEARNS SHE IS NOT HIS WIFE

Elizabeth Travnick Smith Declares That John Smith Deceived Her 14 Years.

The police are investigating a remarkable story told by Mrs. Elizabeth Travnick Smith, common law wife of John Smith, who shot her husband to death as he lay asleep in their home at 3838 Ohio avenue, at 11:30 o'clock last night. They are trying to learn whether she is suffering from hallucinations or was prompted by revenge because Smith had refused to seal their union with a lawful marriage ceremony.

Mrs. Smith, whose maiden name was Elizabeth Travnick, declared in the matron's room at police headquarters today that Smith had deceived her about their relationship for 14 years. She said they obtained a marriage license Aug. 14, 1901, and that Smith told her that was in itself a legal marriage. They lived together happily ever since and had two children, Lucy, 13 years old, and Marie, 7.

The wife said that she only learned of the deception three weeks ago. When she demanded that even at this late day her husband repair the mischief as far as possible by a formal ceremony, he refused to do so. She appealed to her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Martin Travnick, 2620 South Eighteenth street, who promised her, she says, that they would compel Smith to marry her. When she told her husband this, she says he laughed, bought a revolver and remarked that he was going to "kill a couple of birds."

Mrs. Smith said she brooded over this and was as unhappy for three weeks as she believed it possible for a woman to be. At 11:30 o'clock last night she got out of bed to get a drink. When she returned, she declared a moonbeam was falling across her husband's face as he slept.

She stood and watched him in the half light for a moment or so and then an irresistible impulse to end it all seized her. She got the revolver and shot him. He scarcely moved.

As she was bending over him to see if he was dead she says her daughter, Lucy, asked her what was the matter. She replied that nothing was wrong and Lucy then asked if papa was sick. The child went to her father's side and called to him, becoming frightened when he did not answer.

Mrs. Smith led Lucy into an adjoining room and brought her sleeping sister in after her. She told them to wait until she returned. She went to a nearby saloon and told the proprietor what she had done. He called a policeman and Mrs. Smith returned with the officer. They found Lucy in the kitchen alone, weeping. In the presence of her daughter, the mother told the whole story.

Smith Had Lost Property.

Mrs. Smith said that her husband, who was a machinist, had been ambitious to become a property owner and had bought several flats, which he was compelled to give up when he was unable to meet payments. A note is due in August on their present home and Mrs. Smith says she was worried for fear they couldn't pay it.

Mrs. Louis Years, who lives in apartments under those of the Smiths, told a Post-Dispatch reporter that two or three weeks ago Smith informed her Mrs. Smith was a little unbalanced mentally at times, but was never dangerous. He told her this because Mrs. Smith had become very much excited over two trivial incidents since Mrs. Years moved there about a month ago.

A postal will bring one of the men or women who are asking for employment through the situation columns in the Post-Dispatch Want Pages today.

ASTOR GIVES SON $7,230,000 IN NEW YORK REALTY

Captain in British Army Becomes One of City's Largest Property Owners.

NEW YORK, July 2.—Deeds recording the transfer of $7,230,000 worth of real estate from William Waldorf Astor of England, to his youngest son, Capt. John Jacob Astor, on file here, were declared today to constitute the largest gift of real estate other than by bequest ever recorded in New York City. The deeds were filed yesterday by counsel for the elder Astor's interests in this country.

The gift included half of the old Astor house, the other half of which was torn down two years ago and two office buildings in the financial district.

Capt. John Jacob Astor, by this gift, becomes one of the largest real estate holders of Manhattan Island. He joined the English army several years ago and went to the front with the British troops early in the war as Captain of the First Life Guards. It was reported that he was wounded in a battle in France last October.

A few years ago William Waldorf Astor placed property in New York assessed at more than $6,000,000 in trust for his elder son, Waldorf Astor.

POLISH EDITOR ARRESTED FOR ABUSIVE LETTERS TO PRESIDENT

Taken Into Custody in New York He Says He Is Being Persecuted and Talks Incoherently.

NEW YORK, July 2.—Alphonso Chrastowsky, 48 years old, contributing editor of the Morning Star, a Polish publication, which, he says, he founded in Cleveland, 24 years ago, was arrested last night in his home on the upper West Side, on the charge of sending four annoying and abusive letters to President Wilson at Washington.

William J. Flynn, chief of the secret service, said that Chrastowsy in his letters complained that the President and other Government officials were in a league to do him harm. Chief Flynn said that he believed the man to be harmless.

When brought to police headquarters Chrastowsky declared that he was being persecuted. He talked incoherently. He said that he had contributed $10 to Wilson's campaign fund and that he had written several letters endorsing the President's candidacy.

Naval Fuel Ship Aground.

NEWPORT, R. I., July 2.—The naval fuel ship Vulcan, formerly the repair ship of the department, went aground on the southeast side of Gould Island, Narragansett Bay, during a dense fog, yesterday. So far as known, the Vulcan has not suffered any damage, but it will be necessary to lighten her before she can be floated.

DOCTOR'S WIFE DIES OF DRINK IN NEGRO RESORT

Missing Philadelphia Woman Found Dead in Atlantic City—Had Left Home Several Times Before.

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., July 2.—Mrs. John Sinclair, the wife of a wealthy and socially prominent physician of Philadelphia, was found dead here yesterday in a negro lodging house in the heart of the resort district. Police say her death was due to excessive use of liquor.

Mrs. Sinclair disapeared from the Sinclair cottage June 24 last, and although her husband and family had instituted searching investigations with the aid of detectives, nothing was learned of her whereabouts until yesterday.

Dr. Sinclair, after learning of his wife's death, made no secret of the fact that she had several times before absented herself from their home. He said she would be gone for days at a time, always when suffering with some mental trouble.

Four Children Are Drowned.

EL RENO, Ok., July 2.—Four children of Frank Friel were drowned in the North Canadian River here today. Two of them were girls of 15 and 17 years of age and two were little boys. The boys had waded beyond their depth and their sisters attempted to save them.

Author of "In Kentucky" Dies.

LEXINGTON, Ky., July 2.—Judge James Hilary Mulligan, former United States Consul to Samoa and author of the poem, "In Kentucky," died at his home here tonight after a short illness. He was 71 years old.

ARCHBISHOP QUIGLEY IMPROVED

Physicians Baffled at Sudden Change for the Better.

ROCHESTER, N. Y., June 2.—Continued improvement in the condition of James Edward Quigley, Catholic Archbishop of Chicago, who is critically ill here at the home of his brother, Chief of Police Joseph Quigley, was announced this morning. Temperature and pulse were better and the prelate's mind was clear.

Physicians are baffled at the change which set in late yesterday afternoon a few hours after the patient suffered a second stroke of paralysis. They regard it as either marking a chance for recoverey or the forerunner of a sudden collapse.

PRESIDENT, THE MISSOURI PACIFIC RAILWAY CO
ST. LOUIS, IRON MOUNTAIN & SOUTHERN RAILWAY

Says:-

The advantages of acquiring a savings account should be apparent to all thinking people. Integrity, ability and credit are all assets essential to the commercial success of an individual, just as they are to a railroad company.

Without a surplus to meet the contingencies arising after payment of the customary expenses of either individual or corporate business, the basis for a sound financial credit is lacking.

Then, while "Pleasure is oft a visitant, pain clings close to us," and, in sickness or sorrow, a savings account is the best of friends.

Ask Anyone Who Drinks

HYDE PARK

—and You Will Drink It, Too

Those who know Hyde Park, will first tell of its delicious flavor. Then they will tell you how refreshing it is; how it cools them off on a hot day and how it exhilarates just enough to throw off that languid summer feeling.

Ask some of your friends, or go to a friend's home this evening. The probabilities are they keep several bottles on ice all the time. Many of the best people in Missouri do.

After one bottle you won't ask any more questions. You will know why it is Hyde Park has a larger sale in Missouri than any other beer, and you will order a case of Hyde Park for your home, too.

Ask anyone who drinks Hyde Park, drink a bottle yourself, and decide.

All Hotels and Cafes serve Hyde Park

The eighth process through which Hyde Park Bottled Beer passes is aging. For many months Hyde Park is aged in casks. The delicious flavor of Hyde Park tells this story better than words.

Neglect of Shade Trees.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

One of the most beneficial organisms in the realm of nature is the tree. In dry seasons it draws the life-giving moisture from the sky down to thirsting earth. In excessive wet seasons it breaks the power of the destructive torrents rushing down from heights and overflowing rivers and thus prevents much damage and loss to life and property. Trees purify the air and give cooling shade to our dwellings, making them more comfortable and lovely and more valuable.

Trees stimulate our esthetic sense and love for things beautiful and harmonious. Your dead and cold and barren are treeless places. Trees give life and soul to the landscape.

And yet, how shamefully do we neglect our trees! One can travel the entire length of any of St. Louis' tree-line avenues and not be able to find one dozen fairly healthy and well shaped trees. The scenic effects of most of our city parks and residence places are almost ruined by half decayed, mutilated and dead or dying trees. These beautiful gifts of nature which should inspire our minds with thoughts of life, powerful and infinite, are allowed to become objects suggestive of life blighted—ruin, decay, death.

Let us save our trees. There are men in this city of ours, tree surgeons, well able and competent to take care of trees and keep them in good condition. They are men who love trees and know and understand tree life, its anatomical construction from the smallest root-hair to the uppermost leaf. They know under what condition a tree can live and thrive. Only such men should be employed who can qualify and prove their ability. As among medical surgeons, there are also quacks and ignorant fakirs calling themselves tree-surgeons and many beautiful trees have been ruined by them.

References should be required. Men of practical experience and botanical knowledge will be able to produce them or pass examination before professional men, such as landscape architects.

Again, let us save the trees. They are a blessing and a valuable asset to land and property.

Canine Gymnastics.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

The dog that bit Mr. Rogers in the face "leaped over a five-foot fence" to get at him. If five-foot fences are no protection from dogs, we may all be tested in the course of time, taking our chances as to rabies. SNARLEYOW.

Censorship of Moving-Picture Shows.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

There is a regrettable laxity in this department, greatly in need of amendment. By way of proof may be cited the fact, that two films are being shown right now in this city, which are disgustingly vulgar and indecent. They are both calculated to do serious injury to the morals of the younger generation, and not overmuch good to those of their seniors. I know not who is responsible for this, but there should be a stringent law all around, to render strict censorship of these films absolutely obligatory, and all offenders are liable to fines and imprisonments.

Picture shows may be a great educational agency upward, not downwards. The modern boy and girl knows much more than is good for them already of that which our French friends aptly enough call "la triste verite de notre pauvre nature dechue," without the aid of questionable promptings from pictures or any other kind of shows.

Give us all the illustrated instruction possible, but see to it, that it be at all times decent and clean. JOHN TOWERS.

Mechanical Music.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

I noticed a few evenings ago an article in your paper about compelling a saloon keeper to cease piano playing after certain hours. Most people enjoy good music, but when they run it into the ground like they do down here on Idaho avenue, one loses all desire for music. On Sunday we hear the same old tune from 8 in the morning till 10 in the evening, and evenings from about 5 till 10. One continual grind. No feelings whatever for their neighbors' nerves. A SUBSCRIBER.

Texas' Little Bias.

From the Houston Post.

A man who lost his pocketbook at Memorial day ceremonies in Washington writes to Gov. Willis of Ohio to say the pocketbook was missed immediately after he shook hands with the Governor. He wants to know if the Governor saw anything of it. The loser evidently could not lose sight of the circumstance that the Governor is a Republican.

LAW AND HUMANITY WIN.

Facts so far obtained concerning the sinking of the Armenian not only reflect credit upon the commander of the German submarine which destroyed the ship, but indicate that President Wilson's vigorous protest against lawless sea warfare have served the cause of law and humanity.

After asserting the rights of neutrals and of humanity and demanding observance of international law, the President outlined conditions under which the summary destruction of a merchantman would be justified. He said:

> Nothing but actual forcible resistance or continued efforts to escape by flight, when ordered to stop for the purpose of visit, on the part of the merchantman has ever been held to forfeit the lives of her passengers and crew.

Although it now transpires that the Armenian was engaged in admiralty business and was practically a British naval transport, the German commander without obligation took extraordinary precautions to warn the captain and to enable the crew to escape.

How different from the methods used by the Germans in the case of the Falaba and the Lusitania, in which there was obligation to warn the captain and insure the safety of passengers and crews. Then the responsibility was put upon the passengers when it rested on Germany. We were told that Americans sailing on belligerent or even neutral merchantment, especially those carrying contraband, assumed all risks.

In this case, when the risk was assumed by those on board, the German commander takes humane measures to save life.

This change in the German attitude towards the laws of the sea and the rules of humanity is worth all the effort and risk that our Government has undertaken. If it presages the recognition by the German Government of the rights of neutrals on the sea and the obligations of belligerents, we shall have made an invaluable contribution to civilization. We shall have preserved in a time of chaotic stress "the sacred freedom of the sea" and "the rights of humanity." For this cause we can afford to throw into the scale all our moral and material weight.

CIVILIZED MAN AND COOKING BY MAIL.

The correspondence schools, managing to teach almost everything—craftsmanship of various sorts, law, journalism, even art—got along swimmingly and divided millions in profits and in the increased capitalization the profits represented. Then, one day, they tried to teach cooking by mail and went broke.

Possibly civilized man cannot do without cooks, as cooks have been understood in the past. But he can do very nicely without the correspondence school cook.

A RECEIVERSHIP FOR A CITY.

Nashville, Tenn., confronts an application for a receivership. Its affairs are in a muddle and some of its officials are under indictments for graft, embezzlement and various financial misdeeds. Some of its records are missing, and it presents several aspects of a private corporation that has been wild-catted, looted and thrown in the scrap pile.

This is Nashville's second experience of the kind. Its first municipal receivership—and it was the first ever undertaken in either this country or Great Britain—was in 1869, when, under petition of leading citizens, John M. Bass was named receiver to resuscitate Nashville from the deplorable condition into which it had fallen under the reign of carpet-baggers.

The spectacle of a receivership is a striking exhibit in the case of the people against their so-called servants in the municipal household and exposes the worst that can befall where the people are careless housekeepers. Neither the commission form nor any other form of municipal government can save the house from disorder and depredation if inferior servants are left to run it themselves.

AN UNSAFE AND INSANE FOURTH.

They are going to have an unsafe and insane Fourth anyway on the other side. In addition to powder burns, tetanus, eyes shot out, hands maimed, etc., whole regiments of men, and perhaps a few women and children, will be ruthlessly sacrificed to European and Asiatic patriotism of various sorts.

Why not let the warring nations and tribes do our killing for us on this glorious Fourth and content ourselves with innocent joy-making? This will be a good occasion for the nation at peace to present a marked contrast to the others in the use of deadly ammunition.

BESSARABIA'S LANE TO THE SEA.

One part of the German line opposing the Russians is now very near the point where the boundary line of Rumania, Galicia and the Russian province of Bessarabia intersect. Indeed, an Austro-German invasion of Bessarabia has several times been reported in the past fortnight.

A diagonal 250-mile lane leading between the Dniester and Pruth rivers from the Black Sea to the northwest—that is Bessarabia. Millions of half-savage peoples found it a convenient lane to follow in their migrations from Asia to Europe in past centuries. It is because it is just as convenient a lane to follow in the other direction that its possession would now be most valuable to Germany. Communication established through Galicia with the Black Sea via Bessarabia would mean facile communication with sorely pressed Constantinople, with remote points in Turkey, with the force said to be building railroads across the desert preparatory to a serious attack on the Suez Canal.

It would articulate the present disjointed cooperation between Turkey and her allies. If a staggering blow at hated England is to be struck at all hazards, such a blow as the capture or destruction of the canal, the seizure of Bessarabia would be more important to German plans than the seizure of Warsaw.

But a force holding the Bessarabian lane would be vulnerable. It would be exposed not only to attack from Russia on the east and north, but from Rumania on the west and south. Perhaps it is this fact that explains the late signs of increased anxiety at Berlin for the neutrality of Rumania and all the other Balkan countries.

AMERICAN-MADE SHELLS IN EUROPE.

The words "Stop the exportation of arms and ammunition from the United States to Europe" appear on St. Louis billboards just in time to be contrasted with an official statement to this effect from the French Government:

> Neither now nor at any time since the beginning of the war has the French Government made use of any shells whatever made in the United States.

This announcement makes more credible the recently published statement that not one-twentieth of one per cent of the ammunition of the allies has come from this country.

The billboard campaign undertaken on a national scale by a Baltimore organization is only one of many efforts based on a perversion of international law and a misrepresentation of facts. There has been much sorrowing in this country over "German kinsmen killed by American projectiles." Expressions of German commanders about the slaughter of their men by American-made shells have nowhere been more bitter than along the German line which faces only the French troops, who have not fired a single American shell. Our port officers say that the shipment of shells in any considerable quantities to the British began on so recent a date that the number of them so far available on the firing line must be inconsequential. Whether a single German soldier has yet been struck by an American shell may be doubted.

British activity looking to increased munition supplies has, of course, greatly increased of late, both in this country and elsewhere. From now on production here may go to unheard of limits. But so far there has been very little ground for vociferous protests and recriminations which weeks ago assumed large proportions.

HONG LEE'S LOST HORSE.

Hong Lee's slow and careful cayuse meandered off into the limbo of mystery. Hong solicits his return through the medium of our justly celebated little want ads. Vide:

> HORSE—Lost, Sunday afternoon, on Delmar bl. Return to Hong Lee, 8953 Tracy rd.; reward.

Hong did not advertise in the Globe-Democrat, not to mention our other esteemed contemporaries. Doubtless he regarded the G.-D. as a dog-finding specialist. The suspicion nevertheless exists that the G.-D. may have expert knowledge of the whereabouts of this horse. If so, it had better produce it at once.

WHAT IS HUERTA?

Either the army officers at Fort Bliss, Tex., are lacking in a sense of propriety, or Secretary of War Garrison has little faith in their judgment. The Secretary wired Gen. Funston to guide army officers in their treatment of Gen. Huerta, protesting against holding reviews in his honor and entertaining him at dinners.

"I think it manifestly improper," wrote the Secretary, "for one branch of the Government to be toasting and feting a man who is under arrest by another branch."

This note is so manifestly correct that the wonder is the Secretary should feel obliged to send it to a commanding officer.

The telegram reads like a page from a comic opera. But perhaps the entire Huerta proceeding will turn out to be a laugh producer. The officers who are inclined to toast the little would-be dictator may not be far wrong. The trial will show whether Huerta is big game or a false alarm.

CHILDREN WORKING FOR CHILDREN.

The Post-Dispatch Pure Milk and Free Ice Fund not only saves the lives of poor babies, but it is valuable to well-to-do children. It awakens in them sympathy for the unfortunate and develops their sense of social responsibility.

Nearly all of the support of this fund comes from children who work earnestly for other children less fortunate than themselves. It is a beautiful work, supplying a pressing need in the community.

DOGS STILL RAMPANT.

When Watts said: "Let dogs delight to bark and bite, for 'tis their nature to," it was still the seventeenth century. Big cities were few and far between, and neither men nor dogs were made nervous by the modern rush and rattle. If dogs bit, they did it so seldom that no historian has complained about it. Therefore, we may not take Mr. Watts as intending to approve of dog biting in general. His verses were rather to teach that children should not emulate dogs.

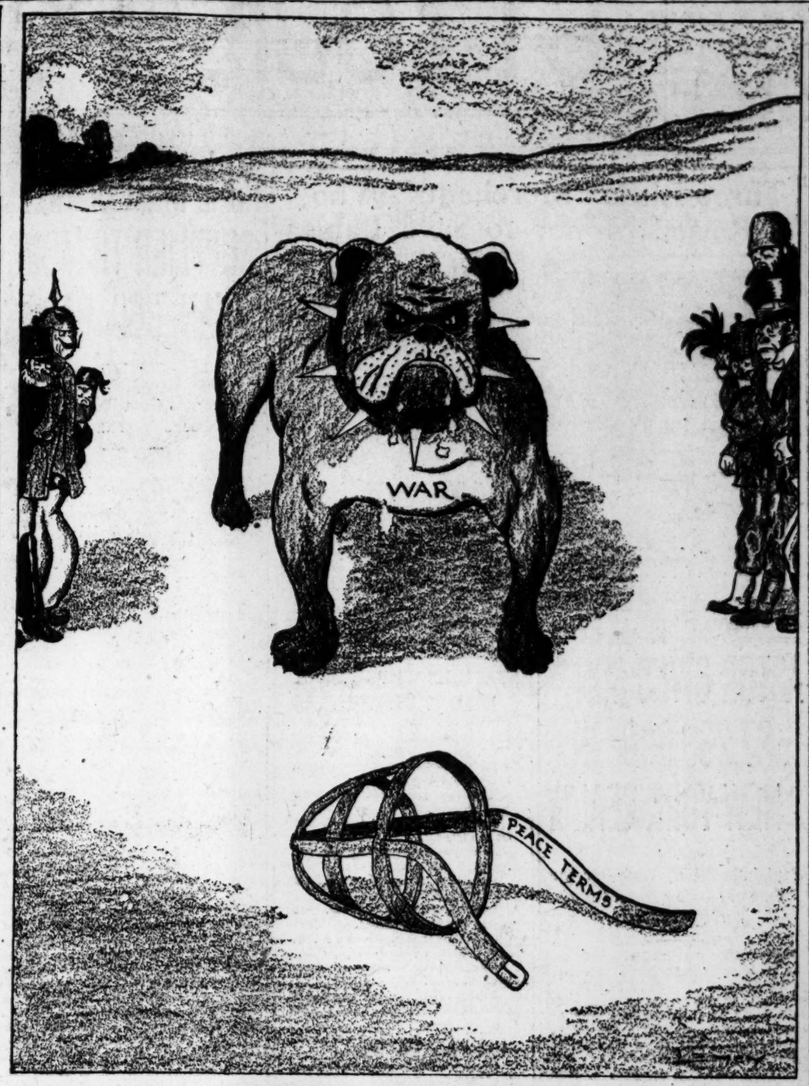

But his couplet applies very nicely to the present condition in St. Louis, where 179 persons, mostly children, have been bitten by dogs since May 23. The dogs do "delight to bark and bite" here. They are having a lot of good sport, doing no end of biting. They find little children excellent material to enhance their delight. "'Tis their nature," especially, to bark at and bite all those whom they have cause to consider too weak or cowardly to defend themselves. This, of course, is said only of the mean-spirited dogs, of which there are too many. There are dogs and dogs. And some don't appear to have the characteristics described by Watts.

The Chicago doctors, who have the same problem there, have demanded of the city:

> That every homeless or ownerless dog in the city be destroyed.
>
> That every dog owner be compelled to register his animal, the penalty for nonregistration being the prompt killing of the dog.
>
> That the city charge a registration fee high enough to pay for an examination by a veterinary before the license is issued.
>
> That a year-around muzzling ordinance be passed and enforced.

These are reasonable demands, in the interest of public health and safety. One amendment might be suggested. Cases have been reported were "muzzled" dogs have bitten people. If dogs are to be effectively regulated, the muzzle is as important as the license tag. The authorities should be expected to see that muzzles are muzzles.

"Honey Shucks" has now slipped back into the ordinary Pike County vernacular.

PANATELA.

A
H, Luella!
Now you have it—
Being neutral
Is a task.
Very little Conversation
Does for that Unstable mask.
Doubtless,
Speaking to,
A Pi-Ute,
One would find
He didn't care,
But with other
People, dearie,
That is dangerously
Rare.

One must talk
About the weather—
How we weary
Of the rain;
How the harvesters
Are swimming
In the inundated
Grain;
How the cold
Affects the season
Where we Usually go,
And the likelihood Of keeping Independence
In the snow.

Not a word
About the Germans;
Not a word
About the French;
Not a word
About the Briton
Bravely fighting
In his trench.
Nothing of the Allied forces
Fighting at the Dardanelles,
Or the submarine
Disporting
In the shadow
Of the swells.

Blood is thicker,
Dear Luella,
Than the Presidential Ink;
Nothing ever
Can dissuade us
From exclaiming
What we think.
Many gentle
People differ,
Each upon
His native ground,
And to talk
About the weather
Is a kindness
All around.

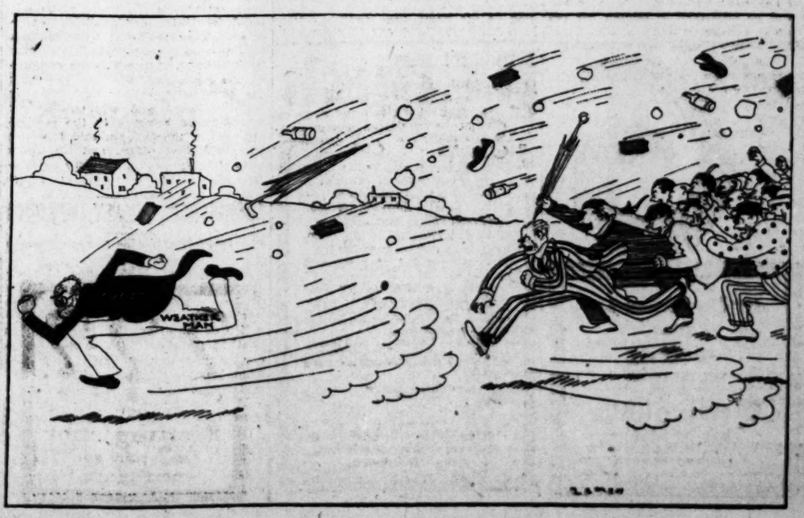

Molly: Doesn't it seem to you that German submarines are getting bigger all the time?

Coddle: It is hard to say. Maybe it is only the eyes of British sailors that are getting bigger.

The Japanese have captured more medals than any other nation at the Frisco Fair. They have won almost everything but a welcome to California.

We can set Gen. Huerta an excellent example in what we mean by not taking him out and shooting him.

CHORUS OF SUMMER HOTELKEEPERS, ICEMEN, AIRDOME PROPRIETORS, ETC.: "THAT'S HIM!"

ANSWERS TO QUERIES

ETIQUETTE.

CLARA.—You may wear boudoir cap while sick in bed, if you choose.

B. J.—If you are well acquainted with the young man, and he doesn't know the city, it would not be improper for you to meet him at the station.

HEALTH HINTS.

M. S.—See this office.

PATTY.—A capable physician and a sensible mode of life will be necessary for you.

WORRIED.—Neither mercury nor iodide of potash is harmful if taken as you describe, under physician's supervision. Don't go to a physician if you do not trust him.

LAW POINTS.

NERVOUS.—Complain about your slurring neighbor to the Prosecuting Attorney in the Municipal Courts Building.

EDWARDS.—Explain more fully what you mean in reference to guardian and testament; present your case in a different manner.

G. C. S.—Unless 17½-year boy works and minds his parents, see officers of Juvenile Court. A lecture from them may help to mend his ways.

PERPLEXED.—House is not required to take back furniture, and may sue for account, and after obtaining judgment enforce it best way they can.

A. M. M.—Whether guardian is liable for any debts contracted in behalf of ward or for borrowed money, denends upon his authority to contract such, by order of court, by will, etc.

CONSTANT READER.—The State law (which applies to St. Louis) clearly provides that division fence expenses (building or repairing) must be borne equally by the parties interested. You can see the law at this office, or in public library reference room. It has been repeatedly published, but constant readers do not read.

J. H.—A deed is the proper instrument; the power of attorney may or may not be in proper shape so as to convey good title, depending upon how drawn and necessary parties. Unless you pay her for a quit-claim you could not force her to give up the dower interest she has in your property. Divorce for husband's fault does not bar wife's dower.

BONEHEAD.—We cannot see that the concerns you mention will be amenable or subject to banking laws. They come in under business corporations, and could not enlarge upon their charter rights. Selling bonds upon installment plan is not doing a banking business though interest is paid on money left as deposit on purchase of same.

UNEASY.—In any real estate in husband's name you would be entitled to dower (a life interest in one-third); you may also have a homestead for life or until remarriage if the house he occupies at his death is his homestead; all household furniture and a child's share in all personal property besides, regardless whether the children are of his former marriage. There are a few other minor things a wife can claim, the amount, etc., depending upon case at time of his death.

IGNORANT.—While you may not be liable in the position you claim to hold as "straw man," unless you are well posted and know what you are signing and the personal liability (if any), as well as criminal responsibility, keep your hands off. To keep a "straw man" busy all day signing all kinds of papers, notes and documents, in fact so many as not to give him a chance to look over all he signs, doesn't look right to us. The ignorant are mostly used for straw parties; there is a reason why.

MISCELLANEOUS.

ORPHAN.—Honorable borrowers always return what they have borrowed. It should not be necessary to ask them.

CONSTANT.—To learn what steamers left Rotterdam for New York in March, April and May, 1886, you might try writing the office of the Holland-American line, 24 State street, New York. Inclose envelope stamped and bearing your address.

F. M.—Your civil service examination has not been rated yet. You will be advised of rating at earliest possible date. Papers for April examination have not yet been received from Washington. (Try Public Library with your other query.)

HINTONFORE.—In painting plastered walls for interior decorations, to obtain that smooth, leathery finish without showing the brush marks, you must know the art. One color is worked over the other, and there is rubbing and stippling.

MEDICAL STUDENT.—About 23 St. Louis students who took February examination were appointed to the city hospital. They give 1 year of time and get nothing but room and board. They have to be on call 24 hours every day, but have time for sleep and recreation.

R. P. L.—If it were possible to prove that your invention would make us absolutely invulnerable to attack from an outside enemy; that it would easily make it possible for a submarine or an aeroplane to completely encircle the earth without making a stop for supplies, the Government would lose no time in buying it.

INTERESTED.—Park statues: Forest, St. Louis, Thomas Jefferson, Gen. Francis Preston Blair, Gen. Frans Sigel, Edward Bates, Tower Grove: Shakspeare, Humboldt, Columbus. Statues at bandstand, Tower Grove Park: Mozart, Beethovan, Rossini, Gounod, Verdi, Wagnor, Lafayette, George Washington, Thomas Hart Benton. St. Louis Place, Friedrich Von Schiller, Carondelet, Hernando De Soto. Reservoir Park, Naked Truth (Schurz - Daenser - Prestorius Memorial). City Hall, Laclede, Grant.

READER.—In sending you the following formulas for colored fires, Mr. Simon Faust writes: The formula I read in last night's paper is not good for amateurs. Chlorate of potash and sulphur should be mixed only by chemists, druggists or makers of fireworks. It may cause spontaneous combustion. Sulphate of copper is still more dangerous. Red—Nitrate of strontinum, 1 lb.; chlorate of potash, ½ lb.; ground shellac, 6 oz. Green—Nitrate of barium, 1 lb.; chlorate of potash, ½ lb.; ground shellac, 6 oz. White—Oxide zinc, 1 lb.; chlorate of potash, ½ lb.; ground shellac, 6 oz. Blue—Chlorate of potash, 1 lb.; calomel, ½ lb.; ground shellac, 6 oz.

MISSOURI.—The State motto is, Let the people's safety be the supreme law (salus populi suprema lex esto). Gov. Alexander McNair, in a message to the First General Assembly, dated St. Charles, Mo., Nov. 6, 1821, called attention to the need of a State seal and urged the Legislature to adopt, by enactment, devices for the same. A select committee, consisting of Messrs. Smith, Alcorn and Elston, was appointed, Chauncey Smith being chairman, which reported the following bill, the same passing the Assembly, and receiving the approval of the Governor, Ja. 11, 1822: "The device for an armorial achievement for the State of Missouri shall be as follows, to-wit: Arms, parted per pale, on the dexter side: gules, the head of a grizzly bear of Missouri, passant guardant, proper on a chief engrailed; azure, a crescent argent; on the sinister side, argent, the arms of the United States; the whole within a band inscribed with the words 'United we stand, divided we fall.' For the crest, over a helmet full faced, graded with six bars, or a cloud proper, from which ascends a star argent, and above it a constellation of 23 smaller stars, argent, on an azure field, surrounded by a cloud proper. Supporters on each side, a white or grisly bear of Missouri, rampant, guardant proper, standing on a scroll, inscribed with the motto, 'Salus populi suprema lex esto,' and under the scroll the numerical letters MDCCCXX. And the great seal of the State shall be so engraved as to present by its impression the device of the armorial achievement aforesaid, surrounded by a scroll inscribed with the words, 'The great seal of the State of Missouri,' in Roman capitals; which seal shall be in a circular form, and not more than two and a half inches in diameter."

A Change of Heart

The story of a tenderfoot, whose guardian angel or some other good spirit moved him back into his better nature.

By Ella Maricia Brackett.

"DANCE, you tenderfoot."

Bang—Bang.

Big Bill Bluff worked at the trigger of his great seven-shooter. The bullets lined a circle arround the nimble figure, perforce keeping step to the whanging snarl of the broken fiddle played by the tipsy, worthless brother of the proprietor of the Raven Gulch tavern.

Bill Bluff dominated the occasion. He was down from the diggins with all kinds of "mint dust" and distributing it liberally whenever the drunked fancy took him. He had noticed the thin, seedy young man who imbibed thiratily at every round of drinks. Then he had suddenly singled him out as a stranger.

Therefore, a victim. It made no difference to Bill that the object of his interest resembled a poet, an artist, rather than the simple denizen of the settlement. He was "a tenderfoot."

"Pay your toll—that's the border rule," yowled out Bill "Dance!"

And Leslie Burr danced. It was not with chagrin or any sense of offended dignity. Time was when this would have been, but in the past, the dim past, alas! far, far away!

He had been going down hill for a year, lower and lower. He had drifted farther and farther away from mother, home and respectability. He had worked only to obtain drink. He craved it now. He was filling up on it, free. Hence he danced. There was a fleeting memory of ryhthmic steps where saneness and grace and elavating companionship had ruled. All this, however, was blurred, indistinct, vague, for he was anxious to forget all save the present, the sad, wretched moment at hand.

"Good as a vaudevill!" roared Bill Bluff, when the dance was concluded.

"All hands!" and there was another "round." Then Bill brought to view his second shooting iron.

"Now sing, stranger!"

Then Came a Thrill.

LESLIE BURR hesitated. There were some things sacred to him—a remembrance of the sanctity of his great gift. He had led a choir. He had been the idolized tenor of the college glee club. At home, his father and mother had made his superb voice power their pride. A mistiness came over the eyes and soul.

"I—I'd rather not," he said huskily.

Pop!—Pop!—again the merciless mandatory fusillade. Once more the peremptory menace, the leaden reminders coming nearer and nearer to his shifting uneasy feet.

"All right," he said finally, waving a hand in acquiescence.

There came a sudden silence. Then a thrill. It was a home song that seemed forced by some gentle spirit to Burr's lips. His glance was fixed on vancancy, his frame trembled with emotion. He was singing to the home folks, as of old. He saw the dear old familiar scenes, nothing else. He forgot his environment and poured out his soul.

There was a restless rustle as he concluded. A strange change had come over the face of Bill Bluff. The reckless, rollicking air of bravado had departed.

Soberly, seriously, he removed his great sombrero and placed it on the floor. From a buckskin bag he poured out in his plam all it would hold of gold nuggets. These he dropped into the hat. The others contributed their mite. The heap was emptied into the hands of Burr. Bill took his arm and led him out of the place with a last word to his fellow convivialists:

"I'm through." Then, as they gained the street, he said in a tone held steady by the power of a strong will: "Go home, for I can see you're used to one. You've hit me hard, I'm thinking. Maybe it will start me face about, too." and was gone.

Inside the Church.

BURR stood staring after him vaguely. The enthusiasm that had sustained him in his song, had given way to the dead, dull sensation that comes with the reaction from the excitement of drink. What he had imbibed now drove him into a certain brain lethargy he could not resist. His steps grew staggering. He tried to realize that he had what was untold wealth for him in his present homeless, workless condition.

He had a wavering idea of going back to the drinking den and celebrating his unexpected accession of cash. He was conscious of reaching a doorstep. A latch string gave way. He sprawled in the drakness, crept around on his hands and knees, and sank into sudden slumber.

It was morning when Burr awoke. His senses were still dazed. He gradually took in his environment, to realize that he was lying under a bench on a bare floor. Then he guessed what the place was—an old building used as the only church in the place.

It was a place so poor and so free of all that it was not even kept locked up. Burr closed his eyes again. His mind began to go over the scenes of the preceding evening. The gold? His hand felt along his coat. Yes, it had been no vision. He could feel the weighty treasure so prodigally given for the sake of a song.

There came a glow, a sudden impulse to hasten back to the companions who had dragged him to the depths. Suddenly the scene of last night's song was revived in his mind. He looked reverently about the little place sustained by a struggling group of good people. There stood the little organ. It was open. He moved towards it. His fingers strayed across its keys.

Surely some good spirit was moving his better nature. Again he forgot time and place. He seated himself before the humble instrument. His touch swept the keys in a prelude to an old-time song, and then, despite himself, his voice burst forth into ringing melody.

The New Life.

HE arose, the tears streaming from his eyes. They were not so blinding, however, that he did not see the big metal box with a slit in its top and bearing the words: "Donations for Our New Church."

Burr rid his pockets of the last grain of gold dust. He turned towards the door. It was to face a fresh, blooming young girl, the minister's daughter. She had witnessed all. Her own eyes were humid. It was no time for words. Only, she took both his hands in her own.

"You have made some great resolve," she spoke.

"Yes—a new life."

"Heaven speed you!"

It was Leslie Burr who built the new church in Raven Gulch. It was he who, seeking honest work, became first a laborer, then a millman, and then superintendent of the great Fortunatus mine.

"You have indeed redeemed your promise," Mabel Fare told him one evening, a year after that weird morning scene.

"Can I ask one of you?" he inquired earnestly.

She knew what this indicated. She fluttered as he told her of his love. Once again she placed her hands within his own.

"I trust you," she said simply. "I am proud of you and—I love you!"

No Child Ever Can Be Any Prettier Than It Is Prettily Dressed and Prettily Behaved

Dainty Clothes and Good Manners, Well Instilled, Invariably Bring the Very Attractiveness That Nature Failed to Supply.

IT does not sound at all like a conundrum to ask "Why do some little girls look prettier than others?" because the answer is obviously "Because nature has endowed them with prettier features." But let the casual observer be more observing and he will find it is the arrangement of the little locks, the curve of the bonnet or the style of the frock which makes a certain child appear pretty.

The homely child is brought to such an appearance of attractiveness that no one would deny that she was "pretty." Here, then, is a mother who appreciates her full duty in making up for nature's shortcomings in careful gowning and grooming of her child.

To go a step farther while on the subject, it cannot be impressed too strongly how much good manners count with children. Invariably the dainty, prettily behaved child will appear to advantage over the pretty faced, coarse mannered tot. It seems strange to the onlooker how many mothers can sit by and view a child's misdemeanors as mere childish pranks. While too many "don'ts" are not good for a child, early discipline will assuredly develop good manners, the lack of which will make useless all the pretty frocks in the world.

Linen is a good fabric for playtime frocks and especially suited to the simple lines which this year characterize such frocks. Instead of fullness from plaits or other means in the waist, it may be cut straight from shoulder to Empire waist, or cut in Eton jacket effect, with sleeves and yoke forming a guimpe of some sheer material. For dressier wear, however, the filmy and soft weaves are always used, chiffon cloth, batiste, organdy and net being a few of the favorites.

The little frock here shown may be charmingly developed of dainty flowered chiffon cloth, as the model at the left suggests. A tiny bebe waist with puffed sleeves is banded with wide lace, from which the straight, full skirt is dropped.

Over the shoulders, as if to relieve the plainness of both waist and skirt, are straps of colored velvet or faille ribbon, which drop their ends carelessly. A ruffle of lace starting from the sides adds a contrasting bit of trimming.

The tot at the right shows a pretty combination of Irish and Val. lace for an effective trimming of a fine handkerchief linen batiste or organdy frock. The lengthening line of the straps is apparent and should be appreciated for the "chunky" form, while the puffed sleeves and short waist will become the slimmer type.

SOME NEW RECIPES.

Cherry and Pineapple Preserve.—Stone four quarts of cherries and simmer them gently for five minutes in a little water. Grate one large pineapple. Make a sirup of one quart of water and one and a quarter pounds of sugar. Put the grated pineapple into this and bring to the boiling point. Drain the cherries and add them to the sirup. Simmer until the cherries are done, then put the preserves into airtight cans.

Coffee Cake—One egg, 1 cup brown sugar, 1 cup of molasses, 1 cup of butter, 1 cup of strong coffee (cold), ½ pound of raisins, 1 tablespoonful of cloves, 1 tablespoonful of cinnamon, 1 nutmeg (grated), 1 heaping teaspoonful of soda, 4 or 5 cups of flour. Mix it very stiff and bake in moderate oven 1 hour.

Veal Croquettes—Two cups chopped cold cooked veal, ½ teaspoon salt, ⅛ teaspoon pepper, few grains cayenne, few drops onion juice, yolk one egg, 1 cup thick sauce made of white soup stock. Mix ingredients in order given, cool, shape, crumb and fry 1 minute in deep fat and drain on brown paper. (Dip in crumbs, egg and crumbs again, this is what is meant by crumb).

Stewed Prunes—Take a pound of prunes, wash them carefully and put them in a stew pan with the grated rind of a lemon, a little cinnamon and allspice and 3 tablespoons of sugar. Cover with cold water and boil until soft. Serve warm or cold.

Anchovy Sauce—A quick and easy way of making anchovy sauce is to stir two or three spoonfuls of prepared essence of anchovy, which may be bought at any grocer's, into a pint of melted butter. Let the sauce boil and flavor with lemon juice; time 10 minutes to boil; sufficient two tablespoons to a pint.

COCKROACHES IN THE KITCHEN

How to Exterminate These Pests That Spoil the Food.

My Wife's Husband

A Domestic-Life Serial.

By Dale Drummond.

Chapter XLIX.

I LIKE every one else, had ideas anent marriage—what it should mean to both a man and a woman. But I was rapidly finding out that you can't theorize about marriage; you've got to live it. It's your own individual problem.

And our marriage, Jane's and mine, was fast becoming a problem; although I don't think either of us suspected it.

I found that instead of deriving the pleasure I anticipated from my runabout, it was going to prove another bone of contention. Jane said nothing about my buying it while she was away; neither did she again mention Miss Reese in connection with the car. But she rarely rode with me; making one excuse after another until I gave up asking her save occasionally—or when she was going to some social function.

Man-like, because she didn't nag or scold about it, I concluded she had forgotten, or considered foolish—which it was—her suspicion that I had bought the car on Miss Reese's account. Her very avoidance of the subject should have warned me, however; the fact that she never mentioned it when I took the nurse out with me, should have been proof that she was still unconvinced of my honesty in telling her I bought the car when I did as a surprise for her.

Another thing I did not realize in my selfish stupidity, and that was that all, or nearly all, women have ideals—years and years of ideals; and that it is a terrible thing to a woman to be obliged to renounce them.

MY work, that had claimed all my time and attention year after year, had been earnest, loyal and vital to my happiness and the well being of my family. But I had made one colossal mistake. I had eliminated all expressions of my love, all the little amenities of affection that women expect—have a right to expect—from my daily life; the consequences being that I had driven Jane, who I believe had loved me, to a condition of apathy as far as I was concerned.

How often we hear the expression, "If I had my life to live over again I would do"—etc.! If I had my life to relive how differently I should arrange it. Not that I would give to my profession one whit less of my ability, but that I would give to my wife, to my home, more of myself, and be more generous in my appreciation of them.

We had started so happily! Could I ever forget our delightful honeymoon? But when was it? Years ago! And instead of our happiness increasing with the years, there was, to all appearances, no trace of our mutual love left. Coldness, indifference, had taken its place. I recall once when I attempted a caress—after returning from the hospital with Miss Reese—that Jane said:

"It's too late for sentiment, George, especially as it doesn't mean anything."

"What are you trying to infer?" I asked, desisting.

"What am I trying to infer?" she repeated. "Why, our marriage seems to me to be pretty much of a failure. Doesn't it seem so to you?"

"Why, no—I—I haven't thought so. I replied, nonplussed by her manner.

Jane said nothing more, and after waiting a few minutes I went into the office. Again and again through the remainder of the day Jane's remark recurred to me.

"It is too late for sentiment," she had said.

Was it? Had she tired of me and my caresses? I wondered, never once blaming myself, but condemning Jane for her lack of feeling. It is so easy to throw the blame for our own sins on others. Mine had been sins of omission rather than commission; but the result was the same.

GRANT RAYMOND and Jane's sister, Dorothy, had planned to be married very soon. They were to have a quiet wedding because of a death in Grant's family. Dorothy spent much of the intervening time with us, shopping and attending to her trousseau, which was being made by Jane's dressmaker.

One day I overheard Jane and Dorothy talking:

"Don't expect anything, Dot; then you won't be disappointed," Jane remarked, an unusual bitterness in her voice.

"I expect to be very happy," Dorothy replied, with the faith youth always has in the future.

"Yes, I know. So does every bride, I guess; but don't expect Grant to pay you the attention after marriage that he does before. If he's like most men he won't think it necessary."

"Oh, yes, he will! I intend to be so good to him that he'll not be able to neglect me; his conscience won't let him."

"A man has one conscience, one code, before marriage; another after. But I suppose you will have to learn by experience like all the rest of us," Jane sighed.

"But you and George are so happy, Jane. I don't see why you cry 'wolf!' I never heard you quarrel yet, and I have been with you a good deal, you know."

"Refined people do not quarrel, Dot, at least not before others. But I wasn't speaking of quarreling. That isn't necessary to unhappiness. It's the little things that hurt—that you can't forget; the slights, the—oh, what's the use of my preaching? You'll find out for yourself soon enough, if Grant is like most men."

"I don't think most men are what you say, Jane. I think, as a rule, they are good and kind; surely as kind as we women are; and not nearly as catty."

The Yankee's Locket

Sandman story of an incident which happened during the terrible times of the Civil War, 50 years ago.

By Mrs. F. A. Walket.

FIFTY years ago, in old Virginia, the North and South were fighting each other. The fields of corn became trampled meadows of weeds, the fences were broken or burned and even the roads cut deep into ruts by the wheels of the cannon, while among the blooming orchards rose the white tents of the hospitals.

Little Stuart Gordon was a girl who lived near a road on which both armies frequently traveled. Sometimes there would be a loud shout and a regiment of Union cavalry in blue would sweep by with flying flags. Then in a few hours perhaps there would be a long line of marching men in gray flying the Confederate colors at the head of the dusty column.

Stuart's father was a soldier in the Confederate army, and as there was no one left to work the farm, the girl did the best she could, with her mother's help, to keep things running.

One bright afternoon at the end of May, Stuart went to milk the cows and as she stooped over the pail near a fence she heard the galloping of hoofs down the road and a plunging horse dashed into sight. On it sat a Union officer, with blood trickling from a wound in his arm, and just as he got opposite where Stuart sat, he fell to the road, while the horse swept on. Over a distant hill a troop of Confederate cavalry was coming in hot pursuit.

PITYING the wounded man, Stuart ran into the road to drag him to safety, but he was too heavy for her strength. So she rolled him over and over until he was completely hidden in the pokeberry bushes at the side of the path. Hardly had she finished when the Confederates swept by chasing the horse, as they did not know the rider had fallen. Stuart bathed the man's face and made him drink a cup of warm milk.

"I am not much hurt," he said, "and I must be going on to join my men."

"If you will stay here till sunset," said Stuart, "I will bring you some supper, and old Molly—she will do to ride back to your lines. But be sure to send her back—she's all the horse we have."

So at dark the officer ate a nice supper Stuart brought him and prepared to mount the bony horse she had led to the bushes.

"I may never see you again, little girl," he said, "but keep this in memory of how you saved Col. Graham." And he placed a golden locket, which he had taken from his watch chain, in the girl's hands. Slowly he rode away into the darkness. The next morning the horse was sent back with a note of thanks.

* * * * *

Many years have gone by and it was Decoration day. Little Stuart is now a widow living with her only child, Dorothy, and around the girl's neck there always hangs the golden locket which Col. Graham gave 50 years ago to the mother.

On Decoration day the mother who was an invalid, called to Dorothy and said: "I am too weak to go this year to put flowers on the graves of old friends—you do it for me." So the child promised and even put on the old, battered gray cap to please her.

IT was dark by the time she left the cemetery, and she did not see a big car that came whirling around the corner and in a moment had thrown her against a lamp post. An elderly gentleman who was in the rear seat leaped to the ground and took her in his arms. But she was more frightened than hurt and in a few minutes was able to tell where home was. Half an hour later the big car stopped in front of the widow's humble cottage.

As the gentleman helped Dorothy out he noticed the locket about her throat.

"I see this little girl has my locket around her neck," he said, excitedly, to the mother, who had run to the door. "Fifty years ago I gave it to another little girl just her size, down in Virginia for saving my life. Can you tell me how you got it?"

"I am that little girl," laughed the mother, "and I remember you perfectly—you are Col. Graham."

At last Col. Graham rose to leave, after talking of events of 50 years ago.

"I want you to do me another favor," he said, smilingly. "It is this. I have a big house and no family—you must come to live with me."

So they went to live in rich Col. Graham's beautiful home, and Dorothy never forgot that she owed her happy life to the kindness a little Virginia girl had shown to a wounded Yankee soldier.

A cubic mile of river water weighs approximately 4,305,650,000 tons and carries in solution, on the average, about 420,000 tons of foreign matter. In all, about 2,735,000,000 tons of solid substances are thus carried annually to the ocean.

FRECKLES

Now Is the Time to Get Rid of These Ugly Spots.

There's no longer the slightest need of feeling ashamed of your freckles, as the prescription othine—double strength—is guaranteed to remove these homely spots.

Simply get an ounce of othine—double strength—from any druggist and apply a little of it night and morning and you should soon see that even the worst freckles have begun to disappear, while the lighter ones have vanished entirely. It is seldom that more than an ounce is needed to completely clear the skin and gain a beautiful, clear complexion.

Be sure to ask for the double strength othine as this is sold under guarantee of money back if it fails to remove freckles.—ADVERTISEMENT.

PARISIAN SAGE

No one likes dandruff, but to get rid of it you must do more than wash your hair. The cause of dandruff lies not in the hair, but on the scalp and in the hair roots, and just as twice daily you use a germicidal tooth powder or cream to cleanse your teeth of germs, so you should use Parisian Sage twice daily to drive dandruff from your scalp, prevent its return, protect your hair from falling out and nourish its proper growth. Dandruff makes your hair fall out. Parisian Sage makes Dandruff fall out and your hair stay in.

It's a delightfully perfumed hair and scalp treatment easily applied at home, very inexpensive and obtainable from Wolff-Wilson Drug Co., or at any drug or toilet counter—ADV.

BUTLER'S BRAIN STORM PRODUCES CARDINAL DEFEAT

"BONE" PLAYS ABOUND

Butler Treated With Warm Applications of Vocabulary by Huggins.

CINCINNATI, July 2.—If any man could have seen Thursday's game between the Reds and Cardinals and not laugh, there must have been something serious the matter with him. There was an Englishman in the stand and he, even he, laughed until he begged Garry Herrmann's pardon for such unseemly actions.

"'Pon me soul, ye know, ole chap," said the Englishman, "I never imagined your blooming American gyme was so humorous, ye know. If ye could only stage it in Drury Lane, it would myke a bally fortune."

The two teams went floundering along, playing just as hard as if they didn't understand how funny they were, until the eighth frame, when St. Louis had the Reds pinned by a toehold, 4 to 2. At this juncture, Mr. T. Griffith drew a base on balls. Mr. Ivan, get it right, Ivan, not Ivory Olson, ensued with a raucous single.

Mr. Ivy Wingo, the clinging vine, was told to disport himself in place of Rube Benton, whose bearing, both at the bat and on the slab, had been somewhat like that of a Russian army. Apparently Mr. Wingo, under the circumstances, should have bunted. Instead he blazed away, smote mightily at Mons. Arthur Boutellier, disguised at Butler, and a cinch double play was in the harbor.

Everybody Safe but Butler.

Miller Huggins ran over to second. Mr. Griffith, being uncertain of his rights in the case, also assembled on second, and Mr. Olson, doubtless thinking about something, wended his way there. Mr. Butler shied the ball, in a pensive, tremulous fashion, into this mixed assemblage and the umpire said that everybody was safe, excepting Mr. Butler, who received the tropical end of what Mr. Huggins could find in his vocabulary.

Twombly went up for Leach and potted one on the trademark. In came Griffith and Olson, tieing up the score, and Mr. Wingo sought the shelter of third base. Here he was seized by Mr. Bruno Betzel, who stood him on his head, held his ankles and shook him, doubtless hoping that a stray dime might fall out of Mr. Wingo's pockets in the process. Mr. H. Herzog rushed over, caught Mr. Betzel by the raiment with one hand and, forgetful of the rules anent such subjects, reversed Mr. Wingo and stood him on his feet with the other. The vigilant umpire, a thrifty person who hangs out a sign "please help the blind" in the winter and arbitrates on big time in the summer, immediately called Mr. Wingo out, and the disturbance that followed was positively insurrectious.

Griffith Breaks Up Game.

When the Reds came along for their half of the ninth it was raining a-plenty. Wade Killefer got in the way of a pitched ball. Two men died that he might reach third. Then the Griffith person hit the water-soaked pellet somewhere between Betzel and Butler and the mill was ended. Quite a burlesque, don't ye know. The four St. Louis runs were acquired as follows:

In the second Miller singled, Wilson sacrificed and Long's hit scored Miller. In the third Bescher reached first on a force play, second on Miller's out and home on Wilson's wallop. In the seventh Snyder, Butler, Huggins and Bescher all banged the billet and scores resulted for Snyder and Butler.

A pass to Leach, a hideous throw by Snyder and a neat hit by Killefer gave the Reds one to start with. No more till the sixth, when Leach tripled far afield and arrived on Mollwitz's single. The residium has already been depleted.

LOS ANGELES WOMEN WIN HIGGINS TROPHY

CHICAGO, July 2.—Incomplete reports received today of the annual competition for the Crafts W. Higgins trophy, emblematic of the team championship of the Women's Western Golf Association, played for yesterday, indicate that the Los Angeles Country Club team was the winner with 6 up. The Los Angeles Club won the event last year and also on the 1911, thus equaling the record of the men of their club, who have won the Tom Morris trophy three times.

The event is open to all clubs that are members of the Women's Western Golf Association and all play is match against women's par of the home course. Four players constitute a team.

Chicago has 10 teams in the event.

75 LOCAL OARSMEN TO ATTEND QUINCY REGATTA

The St. Louis oarsmen, 75 strong, who are entered in the events in the Central States regatta, starting tomorrow afternoon in Quincy, Ill., depart tonight. Five local clubs—the St. Louis, Mound City, Central, North End and Baden Rowing Clubs—have entered crews in the senior and junior events.

With only crews from three other clubs—the North Side Boat Club and South Side Boat Club of Chicago and the Lincoln Park Boat Club of Chicago—entered, it is expected that the local oarsmen will fight it out for the point trophy.

ALLISON IS RELEASED.

Mack Allison, the right-hander, who several seasons ago was with the Browns, but turned over to Kansas City as part payment for Clarence Walker, yesteday was released by the American Association club. Allison probably will sign with the New Orleans (Southern League) team.

Yesterday's Fight Results.

Cincinnati—Jack Read quit in the fourth round against Benny Palmer with a sprained ankle. Ray Rivers defeated Alvie Welsh, 10 rounds.

New York—Charlie Weinert decisively bested Gunboat Smith, 10 rounds. Boer Rodel knocked out Sailor Fritts, eight rounds. Jack Memple stopped Battling Johnson four rounds.

Philadelphia—Henry Hauber bested Jack Toland, six rounds. Bob McCann and Joe Tudor drew, six rounds.

Turner's Falls, Mass.—Bay Wood stopped Grover Hayes, 10 rounds.

Terriers, on Trip East, Won 13 and Lost Only 5; Record Surpassed Once

Recent Pennant Dash Includes the Winning of Five of the Last Seven Series; Four Clubs Lost Fourteen Games to Jones' Men—Leader Predicted Downfall at Buffalo.

By W. J. O'Connor.

NOT the least interesting feature of Fielder Alanson Jones, field tactician for the Terriers who are returning today with a record of 13 conquests and five defeats in the land of the Eastern enemy, is the fact that he's willing to tell you in advance what's going to happen. Nobody is braver than the man who will stake his reputation on a baseball prediction. Jones will play the little old game of "forecast" for table stakes.

All last winter, Mr. Jones insisted that he had a good ball club. "Give me a pitcher and a run and I'll win a lot of games," was his pet prospectus on the current Federal League campaign. So, Messrs. Ball and Stifel went forth into the marts and bought Eddie Plank, who is generally recognized as a pitcher, and told Jones to go on out and make good.

He returns today in second place, one game removed from the lead. The record of his team abroad has been surpassed but once—by the 1911 Cards. He returns to play the Kansas City Packers, who have their backs to the wall, fighting to retain the insecure hold they now have on the upper rung of the pennant ladder. A victory tomorrow for the Terriers will boost them into the lead and they will depart Saturday evening for Kansas City to fight it out in a three-game series.

Jones Develops Waste Talent.

Jones must be recognized as a master mind in baseball. He's a builder of champions, transforming waste material into championship timber.

Jones' success this season is easily the year's sensation. His ability to "come back," after he had isolated himself in the lumber regions of the Pacific Northwest for seven years and make good in the major leagues, is a sad blow to the theory that baseball advances at a pace too fast to permit the man who lays off for more than one season to return and achieve success.

Jones took charge of the local club last September. He gave the circuit the "double-o" during the final month and then went out to get a club that would just be able to win. He never was hogtied, never tried to monopolize the stars of the market. His famed pennant winners of 1906, the hitless wonders, were nothing more than a collection of cast-offs. None of the present brand of Terriers, Plank excepted, created much of a sensation before acquiring Jones as a manager.

And even as late as May 28 the Terriers looked like anything but winners. They were in sixth place, but primed then, as only Jones knew, for a drive which landed them at the top of the pennant procession. Three defeats in four outs at Buffalo knocked them into second place.

Jones Calls the Turn.

Prior to that, however, they had put together a winning streak of 12 straight games, a season's record. They have won five of their last seven series. Withal, the reverse suffered in Buffalo did not prove a lingering shock to the fans here, because Jones had his followers prepared for the fall.

Ten days prior to his entrance into the Bison City he announced, just at a time when his team was whipsawing Brooklyn, that he anticipated trouble in Buffalo. "I haven't the curve-ball pitchers to beat that team," said he, and he said a mouthful. He lost the series, 3—1, as anticipated.

Jones also predicted the fall of the Brookfeds at a time when Lee Magee's team was in the thick of the hunt. Indeed, Jones has foretold correctly so many things that we earnestly suggest that he put pen to paper, as it were, in lazy canvas sketches of the palm and proceed to practice clairvoyancy, reading the crusty mitts of those horny-fisted sons of Alibi, who are practicing a fraud by representing themselves as baseball managers. Jones knows; others pretend to.

Brown Babblings.

THE Brownies lost another game"
(That line, perhaps, we'd better frame.)

The reason why we cannot tell,
But this we know and know full well—

The Brownies lost another game
And have no "Gloomy Gus" to blame.

Far be it from us to predict
That our old Brownies will be licked;

But it is pretty safe to say
They'll lose another game today.

George Sisler made a glad debut
And made a good impression, too.

We hope the lad from Michigan
Will strengthen Mr. Rickey's clan.

Cardinal Cadenza.

THE Cards by "Choke 'Em Herzog's" crew
Were treated to a Waterloo.

Odsboddikins! It is to weep,
And toss and tumble in our sleep.

We had 'em beaten four to two,
But in the eighth our heroes blew.

The Cincinnatis tied the score
And made the tally four to four.

Then in the last and fatal frame
They scored a run and won the game.

The Pirates passed us in the race
And made us hunt a lower place.

Our boys were happy where they were,
But accidents, alas, occur.

No sooner do we get a start
Somebody wrecks our apple cart.

Fed Fodder.

THE Terriers split with Buffalo,
And into second place we go.

At Eddie Plank they took a whack
And in the seventh made him crack.

'Twas Benny Meyer turned the trick.
He did it with his trusty stick.

Hats off to Benny, hip, hurroo!
He hails from Heinatite, Mizzou'.

The Buffalos would not have won
But for our nifty native son.

Although we're second in the race,
'Tis but a temporary place.

Tomorrow at the top we'll land
By walloping the "Firebrand."

• • •

Bandit Bill James robbed himself of one ball game yesterday.

Sisler may, as the experts say, have all the earmarks of a Cobb; but they're not visible to the naked eye.

• • •

What! Another Bandit!

He's a clever looking boy at that and should have no trouble holding up his end with the Browns.

• • •

Tomorrow will witness the opening gun in the battle of the turnstiles. The Terriers are next to the top and the Brownies are next to the bottom. Go to it!

• • •

Benny Kauff has gone out on a one-man strike. Benny says he will either play with the Giants or not at all. So long, Benny, we wish you luck in your new field of endeavor, whatever it may be.

• • •

Dan Tipple, the Indianapolis pitching phenom, goes to the Yankees. It's a cinch Col. Ruppert wouldn't let that baby get away from him.

Walter Johnson, who had pitched 28 runless innings was scored on yesterday. The stork crossed the home plate on the Fireball King and left a little Fireball Prince weighing 8½ pounds.

M. A. A. JUNIOR MARATHON ATTRACTS 24 RUNNERS

Twenty-four entries have already been received by the officials of the Missouri Athletic Association for the Junior marathon which will be held next Monday morning. The race starts at the Blair monument and finishes at the site of the M. A. A. clubhouse. Not one of the youths entered is running under the colors of the Cherry Diamond organization. The starters:

Edwin Roy Luxen, Columbia Athletic Club; John V. Mullen, Preston Athletic Club; Henry A. Fett, Concordia Turnverein; Ernest E. Winkelmann, Kenrick Catholic Boys' High School; Adolph Trauenfelder, Yeatman High School; Agie Anazlone, Jefferson School; Arthur H. Williams, Ferguson Grammar School; Provost Breck, Ferguson Grammar School; John M. Kirkland, Maplewood School; Victor Green, Maplewood School; Jerry Hurley, Madison School; Hoace Johnson, Bates School; Tobias Kaplan, Bates School; Frank J. Gass, St. Louis Commercial College; Edward E. Havey, St. Louis Commercial College; Harry Marks, St. Louis Commercial College; Morris Jacobs, St. Louis Commercial College; Elmer Rungs, St. Louis Commercial College; Christy Burns, Southern Athletic Club; John Marty, Southern Athletic Club; Harry Rotenstein, Southern Athletic Club; Marcell Block, Southern Athletic Club; George Wagner, Maplewood School.

S. Overall Gives Jones Scare in A. A. A. Match; Central States Saturday

Drummond Jones yesterday defeated Sid Overall, 6—3, 4—6, 6—3, in the Triple A tennis tournament and today will play Ed Thomas in the semi-final round. The winner of this match will meet Roland Hoerr tomorrow afternoon for the club title.

The former local champion played in great form yesterday and is expected to win from Thomas today for the honor of meeting Hoerr for the championship.

The entries of the Central States tournament, which opens tomorrow at the Triple A courts close this morning. At present 60 are entered in the singles and 20 in the doubles.

H. J. and H. V. McClurkey, the Blackburn College stars, who will compete in the tournament arrived here yesterday and showed good form in the practice workout.

Cravath Has 10 Homers.

When Gavvy Cravath, the Phillie outfielder, yesterday pounded out a home run in the ninth inning of the clash with the Braves, it was his tenth of the season. Saier of the Cubs and Fecker of the Phillies, with eight, are his closest rivals.

Cornell Coach, Suffering From a Fractured Skull; Is Expected to Recover

ITHACA, N. Y., July 2.—Physicians attending Coach Charles E. Courtney of the Cornell navy declared positively today that Mr. Courtney was suffering from a fracture in the back of his skull near the base of the brain and that his injury had occurred more than two weeks ago.

The fracture is not severe, and if an abscess does not form or an infection develop, the old man is expected to recover. He will be confined to the hospital for two weeks.

Courtney sleeps well at night, but suffers considerable pain in his conscious hours. During his two weeks' stay at Highland he had several hemorrhages and frequently complained of dizziness. Contrary to reports, he never left the training quarters on the day of the race, and never once had a glimpse of his varsity crew.

This fractured skull, physicians say, is the sole cause of his illness, though on the day of the race the nervous strain added to his discomfort and caused a temporary collapse. It is said that for some years Mr. Courtney has suffered from bladder trouble, but this had nothing to do with his present illness.

You Can Win a Game and Yet Lose, Under Municipal Baseball System

New Plan Established by Director Rodowe Abeken Awards 40 Points for Victory, 35 for Deportment and 25 for Promptness.

RODOWE Abeken, director of Municipal Athletics, is going to try a point system in the Playground Baseball League. Instead of crediting a team with a victory or defeat, deportment and promptness also will be counted. Here's the system:

If a team wins that team will be credited with 40 points. If the players' conduct is of the best then the club will be credited with 35 more, while 25 points will be given for promptness in arriving for the game and for hustling along the contest during the time it is played.

This scheme will be tried out and if it works well, it may be used permanently. In this way a team may win a clash and still be credited with only 40 points, 60 being taken off for conduct and tardiness. It should help to greatly lessen the troubles of the umpires and make the lads be more prompt.

With the municipal swimming championships scheduled for the Fairground pool on July 24, it is expected that the paddlers at the different municipal pools will get down to hard practice to get a chance to show in the championship events.

A meet will be held at the different pools and the winners of these events will get chances in the title races. Any swimmer in St. Louis who has not scored a point in an A. A. U. event is eligible to the meet.

Hugo Froelich, captain of the life guards at Fairground and his assistants will have charge of the meet.

ALFRED VANDERBILT'S HORSES WILL BE SOLD

NEW YORK, July 2.—Prize-winning show horses owned by the late Alfred G. Vanderbilt, president of the National Horse Show Association, who lost his life in the sinking of the Lusitania by German submarine, will be put on sale here within a few weeks, according to an announcement here today. Thirty-four horses, some of them noted winners, and including Novice Hackney, harness horses imported from England by Mr. Vanderbilt but never exhibited here, are in the first consignment to be sold. The animals were in training when Mr. Vanderbilt left New York.

SPEED BOAT FLEET OFF FOR HANNIBAL REGATTA OPENING

25 Flyers and Cruisers in Flotilla That Will Compete in Annual Races.

8 FAST FLYERS ENTER

Mississippi Valley Association Events Will Decide National Titles.

St. Louis power boat owners and enthusiasts, about 100 strong, left here at noon today to attend the eighth annual regatta of the Mississippi Valley Power Boat Association, which will be held in Hannibal, Mo., next Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday. About 25 local boats will be taken on the trip.

One of the boats to be sent by the local followers, the Sparks II, a 46-foot twin-screw express cruiser, was Mississippi Valley champion several years ago.

Another local "speeder" that is expected to make a good showing is the Mark Twain, a 20-foot hydroplane. In practice recently the Mark Twain has made better than 50 miles an hour. In the Hannibal races, though, there are no time allowances, which probably will keep this craft from landing first honors.

The Pegasus, which will be makings its first trip, when it goes to Hannibal, will be entered in the cruiser race by the local officials. A 16-foot single hydroplane will be started in the class A race, while two standard runabouts also have been entered.

The local enthusiasts expect to reach a point 10 miles below Hannibal Sunday night and cruise to Hannibal in the morning in time to take part in the big river parade, which is scheduled to start at 10 o'clock.

Twenty-Five in Fleet.

The local boats that will make the trip are as follows: Sumac, Pegasus, Sparks II, Elsa II, Mark Twain, Mildred Marie, Norwill, Sunshine, Cream Girl, Nudlesburg, Elsa, Lafoska, Ella Lee, Sunbeam, Narnah, Helen, Skipjack, Catherine, Burrow, Samoth, Garden of Alla, Missouri and Buel IV.

Eight of the fastest boats in the country have entered the American championship race. This is the biggest entry list in the history of the association. The promoters expect an attendance of 40,000.

O'BRIEN JOINS WESTERN.

CHICAGO, July 2.—Joe O'Brien, formerly an umpire in the American Association, will make his debut as an arbiter in the Western League at St. Joseph today.

With Benny Kauff out of the lineup, the Brookfeds proved easy for George Stovall's Packers and dropped both ends of a double bill, 6—2, 6—3. The double victory put the Packers back in first place.

Wouldn't Hedges Feel Exhilarated if He Had a Tipple as Well as a Rickey?

"DOC" COOK JOINS BROWNS IN SEARCH FOR PENNANT POLE

Fresh From Ohio University He Helps Round Out Rickey's All-College Team.

Cobb Still Leads World in Batting, Run-Scoring and Total Bases Stolen

ALTHOUGH still out of the .400 class, Tyrus Cobb still leads the world in batting, run-getting and base stealing. The Tiger star is out in front in the American League, with .397, with Jack Fournier of the White Sox, his nearest rival, 54 points behind. Cobb has counted 72 runs in 67 games and pilfered 51 bases.

Jack Daubert, the Superba first-sacker, has regained the lead in the National, with .336, while Boss Lee Magee of the Brookfeds tops the Federal, with .352.

While Cobb has pilfered 51 bases, Scoops ... and Vic Saier, who are tied for the lead in the National, have swiped only 15. Knauff heads the pilferers in the Gilmore circuit, with 23.

Indications are, precisely at this moment, that all the college pitchers in the world, except those of China, Japan and Harvard, will sooner or later report to Manager Rickey. Koob is here. So is Sisler. Likewise, Dr. Cook.

The doctor arrived this morning and will proceed to organize an expedition to search for the pennant pole. Dr. Cook never has been any further north than Ohio State University, but he has a healthy right arm and intends to exercise it under Rickey's supervision. The Doc reports that college pitchers in all parts of Northern Ohio are ready to join the Browns on the slightest provocation. They simply have "choosed" Rickey, thereby slamming Connie Mack, who also is in second division.

A certain amount of entertainment will be provided for this collegiate fraternity, lately acquired at Sportsman's Park. Positive announcement is made, for instance, that George Sisler, now masquerading as a first-sacker, will pitch Saturday's game against the Naps. The cabaret habit will also be indulged.

Looks Like Varsity Nine.

For a time yesterday Ernest Koob, Michigan Normals, pitched pretty pert ball. He retired the side without a run for two frames. At that moment George Sisler, Michigan '16, Del Pratt, Alabama U. '11, and John Lavan Michigan '15, were helping him. Jimmy Austin was the only infielder shy a "frat" button. Jimmy is a graduate of the school of experience, where he failed to make the fraternity grade.

And we might mention in passing that the Browns lost, 5—2. There's nothing unusual in that, so hardly any details need be given. It is pertinent to remember, though, that for the fourth time in five days the common enemy made a triple with the bases filled. A bloke named Smith did it, yesterday, at Bill James' expense.

But it was purely tough luck. James scored if he was anything but unlucky. With the bases choked in the third and one out, Chapman tried to doduce a wild pitch. His bat hit the ball and popped a fly towards first. James gloved it and had an easy chance to retire a runner at the plate on a force-out. Instead he threw to the stand, two men scoring. Then came a force out, a walk and Smith's triple. If that isn't tough luck, what is?

Give James a perfect play on Chapman's dink and the Naps might not have gained a run. That would have permitted of a Brown victory, 2—0, as both markers off Morton were earned.

Kauff's One-Man Baseball Strike Costs Him $100

Besides That a Ten-Day Suspension Is Handed Brooklyn Feds' Slugger.

NEW YORK, July 2.—Following a conference here today between James Gilmore, president of the Federal League, and the officials of the Brooklyn club, it was announced that Benny Kauff had been fined $100 and suspended for 10 days.

President Ward of the Brooklyn club declared that Kauff would not be traded and would not be permitted to play with any club other than Brooklyn.

Kauff, having a disagreement with the Brooklyn Federals' business manager regarding the amount of salary due him, refused to play in yesterday's games here with Kansas City.

Early in the season he caused a baseball sensation by jumping to the New York Giants.

ELGIN BASEBALL CLUB ON A SALARY STRIKE

AURORA, Ill., July 2.—The Elgin baseball club of the bi-State struck today, on the eve of the team's departure for Aurora, where they were to play today. The players said they would not appear in Elgin uniforms again unless the money to pay back salaries was raised by tomorrow morning at 10 o'clock. Elgin supporters of league baseball started out on a hurry-up canvass for funds this noon.

JIMMY CRAIG WILL COACH MERCERSBURG GRID MEN

ANN ARBOR, Mich., July 2.—Mercersburg Academy, which usually turns out good athletic teams, will have for football coach next fall Jimmie Craig, who was a star halfback of the Wolverines for three years and one year won the low hurdles at the intercollegiates.

Since graduating, in February, Craig has been working for a wholesale pharmacy concern in Detroit. He announced at first he would not coach, but the Mercersburg offer was so attractive he decided he could not turn it down.

Craig was twice chosen as an all-American halfback by many critics.

RAIN PREVENTS PLAY FOR CLAY COURT TITLE

Pittsburg, Pa., July 2.—It was announced at noon that there would be no play in the Clay court tennis championship this afternoon. Efforts were made to get the grounds in shape for matches in the evening.

BROWNS GAME CALLED OFF

The second game between the Browns and Indians scheduled for this afternoon was called off on account of rain shortly after noon. A double bill is booked for tomorrow, the first game starting at 1:30 o'clock. Sisler will hurl in the opening battle and Wellman in the second. Hagerman and Walker will work Pohl's outfit.

WRAY'S COLUMN

The Service Is Bad, Bo.

THEY do say, old chap, that youth must be served, and all that sort of thing, don't you know. But just now they're planning to serve the robust rising generation a mighty bad trick, unless a little help rallies to the front in executive councils of the lawn tennis world.

In certain quarters there's a vigorous campaign to have adopted a rule which authorizes a 15-minute rest before the playing of the last set in championship matches.

This, in effect, means the winded-broken, 40-year-old ex-champions and all others who naturally, or through the rough treatment have lost the stamina and vigor that goes with youth, want to be given a chance to rest up before the final test—if experience and skill happen to carry them that far into championship matches.

• • •

Penalizing Youth and Vigor.

THE rule, if adopted, is a plain handicap on youth, strength, endurance and the sort of courage that persists to the last drop, in favor of the men old F. Time is slowly herding in.

In practically every athletic game in the world endurance is a main factor. To take it from tennis will be to render that sport innocuous, and a byword for all that is namby-pamby.

As tennis is played today, it takes every ounce out of the contestant, the strong and the game surviving, all other things being equal. Under the new system the physical factor will be greatly minimized.

• • •

Tennis an Endurance Test.

A FEW years ago anyone who suggested that tennis was strenuous would have been ambulanced straight to the only ward that is not run by politics—the observation.

But it will be remembered that last season two or three good players "resigned" in the middle of matches—if memory serves right R. Norris Williams, national champion, was one of them—through inability to continue.

Several years ago, in the state championship final between Orrie Vernon and Ralph McKittrick, the latter was so exhausted at the end of the fourth set, with the score 2 all, that he could not continue.

Vernon generously consented to a rest, such as is now proposed as a regular thing. McKittrick went to the club house, had a rub-down and came out refreshed, trimming Vernon in the final match.

Had Vernon pressed his rights in the matter, McKittrick would have been easy prey for him in the last set. Instances of this sort will be multiplied if the new rule is established.

• • •

Kauff's Noodle Has a Day Off.

BENNIE KAUFF must have done his thinking with his heel when he went on a strike yesterday, declaring that he would play with the New York Giants or nowhere.

If he had thought with his head he would have noted that there was no alternative in the matter and that it must henceforth be "nowhere" for his. The National Commission made this certain when it declared Kauff could not play with any club in organized baseball.

If Bennie doesn't look out his only regular occupation will be confined to substituting for filberts.

• • •

Leopold Hoernschemeyer Is Skidding.

HERR HOENSCHEMEYER, who short-circuits himself into Lee Magee for baseball purposes, seems to have skidded considerably when he turned short out of the organized baseball highway into the Federal League cross-road.

At present his Brookfed machine has not righted and, from here, it still looks like a grand spill is coming. Lee had a high-powered traveler in the Brooklyn outfit, with some big cylinders like Evans, Kauff, Hofman, Seaton and others. Two of these have been removed entirely, one is missing and Mr. Seaton is limping along painfully.

Without inquiring the cause of Leopold's troubles, it doesn't take much clairvoyance to discern in advance that there'll be a new chauffeur cranking up Baker Ward's big machine, before the season ends.

• • •

Recommended to Rickey.

RODQWE ABEKEN is going to give a workout to a new system of winning baseball games which we respectfully recommend to all managers with joyriding players in their batting orders. Under the Abeken system points, not victories, ultimately win pennants.

A game, if won say by a score of 5 to 4, would not prove an unalloyed joy. For example it might even be made unto a loss, by applying the Abeken schedule. According to this each game is divided into the following possible points:

For winning.....40 points
For non-tardiness.....35 points
For deportment.....25 points

Thus the club with a lot of delinquents and bad actors might conceivably lose 60 points and only score 40 points toward a pennant success by beating the enemy.

Under this system the Chicago National league club would finish last, if Heine Zim were kept on the pay rolls.

19-YEAR-OLD BOY EXPLODES G-BOAT SMITH, TITLE HOPE

Charles Weinert Batters the "Gunner" Hard, in Seven Rounds Out of Ten.

NEW YORK, July 2.—Charley Weinert of Newark torpedoed and sunk the last world's title hope Gunboat Smith may have kept afloat during the last few months of its decline, when he clearly defeated the San Franciscan in seven out of the 10 rounds they fought. Two went to Smith and one was about even.

Weinert is a mere youth, but has been coming fast, of late. He weighs but 184 pounds at present, and is expected to take on enough weight in the next few years to put him in the 200-pound division.

He used a left jab effectively throughout the contest last night and had Smith bleeding in the sixth round. He had little trouble avoiding the once famous haymakers of the occipital punch hero. Gunboat seems to have lost the tremendous power that enabled him to floor opponents with blows to the back of the head.

The match took place in the open air, at Ebbets Field, the home of the Brooklyn National League club.

By defeating Smith, Weinert will be given a match with the 200-pound Irish champion, Jim Coffey.

Jimmy Clabby, the clever Western middleweight, and Soldier Bartfield of Brooklyn, have been matched to meet in one of the star bouts to be put on at New York on Saturday evening, July 10. Bartfield recently made a big hit with fight fans by outpointing Mike Gibbons.

Augie Ratner, the world's amateur welterweight champion, has received the stamp of approval of the boxing experts who watched him work in his professional debut in the East, last Saturday night. Ratner forced Tommy Ward to stop in the second round. Although this wasn't a real test, the former amateur star possesses all the requisites of a successful ring artist. He is a fast and careful boxer and a hard and accurate puncher. Ratner is under the management of Billy Gibson.

Not caring to take any chances of having the 12-round bout between Joe Rivers and Gilbert Gallant called off at the last minute, Mike Murray, matchmaker of the Atlas A. A. of Boston, has made the manager of each fighter post a forfeit of $100 that their fighter will go through with the match. The contest will be fought on Tuesday night.

The first boxing show in Duluth under the new boxing law will be held on the night of July 19. Joe Welling of Chicago has been engaged to meet Ad Wolgast in the main go of 10 rounds.

A match has just been clinched between Welling and Joe Azevedo, the California fighter. They will have it out in an eight-round bout in the open air at the baseball park at Memphis, Tenn., on July 5. Azevedo has been battling in good form at Memphis during the last few months. The victor will meet the winner of the Johnny Griffiths-Joe Mandot fight.

So confident are the Chicago fight fans that Charley White is going to defeat Freddie Welsh in their 10-round go at the Brighton Beach A. C. tomorrow night, that they wagered $1500 on the result. Nate Lewis, manager of White, today, to bet on Charley at even money. Lewis is as equally confident, and has asked Harry Pollock to have moving pictures taken of the battle, as he figures White will score a knockout.

COMISKEY WOULD GIVE FORTUNE FOR CHAPMAN

According to report, Charles A. Comiskey, owner of the Chicago White Sox, is willing to put a small fortune in players and cash for Ray Chapman, the Cleveland shortstop, but Owner Somers of the Indians will not part with Chapple at any price.

The White Sox would like to get Chapman for use on third base, and if they secured him would be so formidable that it would be mighty hard to beat them to the flag. The Indian is a fine fielder, a strong hitter and a fast man on the sacks and he would be worth almost any amount to Comiskey.

It is said that Chicago offered Blackburn, Russell a young catcher, and another pitcher for the Cleveland player, together with $20,000 in cash. This sounds like a lot, but it is easy to see that Chicago would get it back if it won the pennant.

Post-Dispatch Wants will include the requests of good cooks and domestics. Capable workers will find the Want ads the best medium for advertising their talents.

Michigan's Trio Is Broken When Sisler Departs

With Maulbetsch and Smith, Pitcher Was One of Great Triumvirate.

ANN ARBOR, Mich., July 2.—Michigan's great athletic triumvirate is broken by the graduation of George Sisler, and it is doubtful if the Wolverines next season will have another baseball star of sufficient brilliance to rank with Johnnie Maubetsch of the football team and Capt. Smith of the track team. These three wonderful athletes have given the maize and blue the greatest set of stars Michigan has ever been able to boast of at any one time. Sisler has not only stood out as one of the greatest athletes who ever wore the Wolverine colors, but has also won marked recognition from the collegiate world as a premier performer in his own particular sport. A brief recital of the achievements of each of these three remarkable athletes follows:

George Sisler—Led Michigan batters three years; captain team which won championship; all American pitcher three years.

John Maulbetsch—All American half his first year; led Michigan backs with 72 points; gained 133 yards against Harvard.

Harold Smith—Won both intercollegiate sprints; led Michigan team with 35 points; captain Michigan team two years.

WAHOO NEW COACH OF CARLISLE FOOTBALL TEAM

Carlisle football authorities probably will name Charley Wahoo as coach for the 1915 football eleven to take the place of Glen Warner, who resigned during the winter to take charge of the University of Pittsburg outfit.

Wahoo was one of the most famous Indians that ever played an end position. He was on the 1905-06-07 Carlisle elevens and since then has coached some of the elevens in the South.

HURST'S COURAGE WAS HIS GREATEST ASSET

The late Tim Hurst, famous as a baseball umpire and boxing referee, was honest, fearless and witty. He was wont to meet and overcome emergencies with witticisms which made him friends everywhere.

His honesty as an baseball official was unquestioned throughout his career, and he was most strongly stirred whenever a spectator at a ball game or boxing contest inferred that a decision of his was made for the purpose of benefiting one or the other of the contestants.

Perhaps no act of his more completely illustrated his honesty, and certainly no act made him more friends than at a time early in his career as a boxing referee, he officiated in a bout where his brother was one of the contestans. The bout went on evenly until the very last round, when the man opposing Hurst's brother secured a slight lead over the latter. There would not have been a murmur from the crowd if he had called the bout a draw at its close, but Tim, without a moment's hesitation, stepped to the corner of his brother's opponent and raised his hand as the winner.

Excuse Brings Suspension.

Manager Griffith recently suspended indefinitely Ray Morgan, the Senators' second-sacker, when the latter informed him he could not play today because he was "shaken up" in an automobile accident.

Local Clubs Pass Up Dan Tipple, Proving They Don't Need Pitchers

DAN TIPPLE, who won 10 straight games this season for the Indianapolis A. A. club, relieving himself of a no-hit game along with several other good 'uns, has been sold to the Yanks.

Now that helps to prove that Branch Rickey of the Browns and Miller Huggins of the Cardinals have been kidding the public. Both have repeatedly stated that they needed pitchers.

"We can't do much without pitchers," was one alibi.

"I need another pitcher of first rank," was another.

But Tipple trips away to the Yanks and the Cards and Browns go merrily along like the Russians in Galicia. There's this much to be said: The Yanks didn't sing their way into Tipple. It took more than garbled notes to get this bird because the Indianapolis club needs a few beans to fatten up a depleted bank account. So why should we worry about the price of palm beach suits? This question being apropos of nothing.

They're pulling some pretty rough stuff in the National League this season. The other day Roger Bresnahan accused John McGraw of tampering with his players. Now Roger's boss comes to him with a statement that he was offered a chance of buying Charley Herzog, manager of the Reds.

This elicited a vast denial from Owner Herrmann, but of course it made Herzog peevish. One doesn't care to have one's head laid on the auction block, even by a facetious red-headed straw boss. So Herzie is sore and so is Thomas. Here's a probable reason: In their last series, the Reds won three out of five from the Cubs. No wonder Thomas is trying to kick up a row for Herzog, who is a born fighter.

P. S.—If Herzog is for sale, we suggest that Britton offer Butler, Seekamp, Mooney, Schofield and Woody and, in a pinch, the left-field bleacher, for Buck. He'd win the pennant sure for the Cards. Remember what Butler did yesterday.

Al Mamaux, the star right-hander of the Pirates, yesterday added another victory to his string when he shut out the leading Cubs, 4—0, with four bingles. The victory put the Pirates in third place. The win for the Corsairs also tightened up the National League race, and the Reds, in last place, are only 7½ games behind Bresnahan's outfit.

Erskine Mayer, who Wednesday night took unto himself a wife, yesterday pitched the Phillies to a 3—1 victory over the Braves. Cravath's home run in the ninth won for the Phils. The Braves' lone tally came as a result of a circuit clout by Smith.

Napoleon Rucker, the former star southpaw of the Superbas, although found for 12 bingles by the Giants yesterday, was an easy winner, 3—2. Tesreau was chased in three innings by Robinson's outfit, in which time six hits and five runs came off his delivery.

Jimmy Scott pitched the White Sox to a victory over the Tigers, and Rowland's aggregation lengthened its lead in the A. L. The Sox now lead the Red Sox—their nearest rivals—by six games. Scott allowed the Jungaleers only four hits. Cobb made one of them.

Although Roy Hartzell pounded out a home run in the ninth inning with a man on base, the Yankees lost to the Nationals, 5—3. Boone at second for Donovan's crew, had a busy day. He accepted seven putouts and eight assists cleanly.

After the Whales had counted three runs in the first half of the twelfth inning, the Newark cubbers got busy and started a rally, which fell one shy and Tinker's men won their third straight from the Newfeds, 3—2. Miner Brown was called in to save the game for the Whales.

"LUCK ALL COBB HAS"

Says John J. McGraw:

"All ball players are alibi experts at heart. I was one when with the old Baltimore Orioles. I'll lay a wager there isn't a man in the league today who doesn't say he would hit .700 if he had Ty Cobb's luck. That's what they all say."

Eastern Tennis Stars Play for Clay Court Title

R. Norris Williams and George Church in Final at Pittsburg Today.

PITTSBURG, Pa., July 2.—R. Norris Williams of Harvard, national amateur champion, and George M. Church of Princeton, intercollegiate champion, will compete on the courts of the Pittsburg Athletic Association here this afternoon for the national clay court championship in singles.

Williams worked his way into the finals yesterday by defeating N. W. Niles of Boston, while Church won winning from W. M. Washburne. The title match will begin at 3 o'clock.

Play in the women's singles will continue this morning and matches in the men's doubles are scheduled for this afternoon. Officials hope to get several rounds in the mixed doubles completed before the day is over. Miss Molla Bjurstedt and Mrs. Wightman reached the third round yesterday.

HALL BATTLES McCUE.

Five bouts are scheduled for the negro show at the Future City tonight. In the feature, Benny Hall meets Paddy McCue. The other contests are as follows: Kidd McCoy vs. Harry Dobbs, Kid Yellow vs. Battling Charlie, Kid Peoples vs. Battling Swansky and Alligator Kid vs. Kid Flynn. In all, 38 rounds of boxing are scheduled.

BRITISH AVIATORS FOOLED BY TRICKS OF ZEPPELIN CRAFT

Expert Explains Smoke Clouds Thought to Indicate Damage Due to Oil Combustion.

By C. G. GRAY.
Editor of The Aeroplane.

Special Correspondence of the Post-Dispatch.

LONDON, July 2.—Although there still seems some doubt as to whether the Zeppelin which was attacked by the pilots of the Royal Naval Air Service was seriously damaged, it seems fairly certain that the machine was not destroyed, and managed to return to its shed. The fact that smoke was seen issuing from it, as noted in the Admiralty communique, may be due to one of two causes.

The smoke may have been caused by the airship being forced upward at a steep angle, and thus causing the oil in the crank cases of the engines to run back into the rear cylinders, so that they spouted thick oil smoke from the exhaust pipes. The same thing has been noticed when a German aeroplane has dived vertically to avoid attack by the allies' aeroplanes, only in this case the oil runs forward and floods the foremost cylinder.

On several occasions it has been thought that German aeroplanes were on fire or were deliberately trying to hide themselves in a cloud of smoke because of this simple practice.

Shoots Up Like Rocket.

It is now recognized that when a Zeppelin which is going full speed ahead wants to rise rapidly to avoid attack, the pilot simply throws the stern of the machine down by means of the elevator planes or vertical steering rudders, so that the nose goes up, and the momentum of the vast mass plunging through the air produces such pressure underneath it that it shoots up like a rocket; and for the first thousand feet or so it will actually rise quicker than any aeroplane yet built.

It is said, in fact, that a Zeppelin in this way can rise a thousand feet in a little over half a minute, whereas the best of aeroplanes take fully 50 seconds for a thousand feet, and ordinarily 300 feet a minute is considered good climbing.

Of course, when the momentum of the Zeppelin has died away, it cannot continue to climb at that rate, and its limiting height is much lower than the limiting height of aeroplanes, so that, if aeroplanes can continue to chase it, they ought always to get above it in the end.

The other alternative explanation for the cloud of smoke is that the outer visible envelope of the Zeppelin may have been singed by an adhesive incendiary bomb, which may have stuck to it and burned the fabric without causing it to burst into flame.

Hard to Fire Zeppelin.

Special fireproof varnishes have been in use among aircraft manufacturers both for aeroplanes and for airship envelopes for several years, so that it would be quite possible for the outer casing to be frizzled, without setting fire to the whole airship. In all Zeppelins there is a considerable space between the outer envelope and the actual gas bags inside, so that, unless there happened to be a leak in the particular gas bag nearest to the point where the bomb attached itself, there would be no particular reason why the hydrogen in the gas bag should catch fire.

If the hydrogen itself had caught fire, it would, in a few seconds, have caused an explosion which would have spread from one gas compartment to another, and so the whole thing would have come down a mass of flame, as did the L2, the second German naval Zeppelin, which caught fire at Johannisthal in October, 1915.

Various accounts of actions with Zeppelins assume that, because an airship which has been fired at is seen to be very much down, or very much damaged. But an airship which is suddenly attacked and wishes to rise will deliberately throw its tail down and thus go up.

Surprised British Airmen.

Some of our aviators were rather taken by surprise in this way in the Cuxhaven raid, when they thought that they had a Schuettehanz airship, which is of the same size and type as a Zeppelin, at their mercy. They went for it, when, suddenly, in the words of one of them, "it lost its nerve and sat on its tail," with the result that it was very soon out of reach of the seaplanes and was then lost in the mist before they had time to climb over it.

In one account of the Ramsgate Zeppelin raid it is stated that some of the anti-aircraft gunners thought they hit it because it was observed going out to sea very much "nose down," where it disappeared in some low lying clouds. The rational assumption is that it was deliberately put nose down, so as to get it into these clouds and hide it from the gunners, just as aeroplane pilots who are suffering from too close attention from anti-aircraft guns make for the nearest cloud as a place of refuge.

Wilson Day Observed at Fair.

SAN FRANCISCO, July 2.—A presidential salute of 21 guns boomed, a great American flag was unfurled, soldiers presented arms and the composite voice of thousands all but drowned the roar of guns at celebration of "Woodrow Wilson day" was begun yesterday at the Panama-Pacific Exposition. President Wilson at Cornish, N. H., pressed a button which released the flag here. Tributes to President Wilson were spoken by Senator Phelan, Gov. Johnson, Congressman Nolan and President Moore of the Exposition.

BREACH OF NEUTRALITY DENIED BY SAYVILLE WIRELESS CHIEF

Dr. Karl G. Frank Says Charges Against Station Are Unfounded and Untrue.

NEW YORK, July 2.—Dr. Karl G. Frank, representative of the Atlantic Communication Co., which operates the wireless station at Sayville, tonight characterized as "unfounded and untrue," reports that the station is being used for uneutral purposes, especially for sending messages to German submarines operating in the war zone around the British Isles.

"In the first place," said Dr. Frank "the wave length we use at Sayville is of 8000 or 10,000 meters, whereas the wireless equipment of submarines would produce a very much shorter wave length."

Dr. Frank added that copies of all messages were given to the censors and the Navy Department.

SUMMER RESORTS SUMMER RESORTS

Speaking of the concrete construction of the Blenheim, Thomas A. Edison said, "It is the coming construction for all great buildings. It won't bend, it won't break, and you couldn't burn it if you tried."

Marlborough-Blenheim
ATLANTIC CITY, N. J.
THE LEADING RESORT HOUSE OF THE WORLD
Capacity 1100 American and European Plans

The great essential of a resort hotel, as distinguished from a city hotel, is ample public space devoted to the use of its guests, in the form of bright and airy Exchanges, Lobbies, Parlors, Galleries and Solariums, affording pleasing vistas and beautiful promenades, the whole combining into a harmonious vision of grandeur and beauty, while replete with the cozy group seclusions of home, and yet affording full view of the pleasing panorama of the resort life. In this essential the Marlborough-Blenheim stands without an equal in Atlantic City or elsewhere.

Its "Ownership Management," while accounting for its unique reputation, is a guaranty of the high character of its patronage and the unexcelled quality of its service and cuisine. It employs only white service in both its American and a la carte dining rooms.

It makes a specialty of its high-class music every evening throughout the year, with special Sunday night solo features. Romani, the world's highest Tenor, of Venice, is engaged to sing at frequent intervals during July, August and September.

Atlantic City, with its only real competitor (Europe) this year impossible, is offering unusual attractions and entertainments. Two flying boats are daily sources of interest. Two golf courses, the Yacht Club, the fishing fleet and the wonderful bathing beach attract their respective devotees, while the pier amusements, the Boardwalk, the fine motor roads and the splendid hotels and restaurants, afford enjoyment to all. There is only one Atlantic City, and this summer it is particularly attractive. Write for illustrated booklet and rates.

THAT LOST ARTICLE MAY NOT BE FOUND TODAY

Or tomorrow or next week. In fact, a month or more may elapse before it turns up. A little persistency may be necessary. Often the article may be unfound; often fear of prosecution or hope of more satisfactory reward may delay the restoration. Then the belated awakening of the finder's conscience explains many delays. But persistency and Post-Dispatch wants will usually recover a lost article if an honest person finds it. The service of the Post-Dispatch Lost and Found Bureau is also enlisted in behalf of advertisers. (93)

REAL ESTATE OWNERS

9-in. wall. 13-in. wall.

Be sure and use J. Chas. Mueller's patent wall coping on your new and old buildings, as it cost only about $2 more on your building than the old style two-way coping, and is worth hundreds of dollars more to you.

Prevents walls from being wet and soot stained.

Mueller's coping throws all the water and soot on roof instead against walls, and no water will get in back of cant strip and make your walls water soaked and ruin interior decorations.

Bricklayers and tuck pointers are removing the old style two-way coping and are replacing same with Mueller's coping.

Manufactured and sold by Laclede-Christy Clay Product Co. and all dealers.

Come and see demonstrating wall, 3500 Hebert street, ½ block east of Grand av.

For further particulars see patentee, J. Chas. Mueller, 3500 Hebert st. Kinloch Cent. 22. Circular mailed on request. (c83)

RICE FARM—For sale or exchange. I want clear property, without a mortgage, in exchange for 640 acres—one square mile, 4 miles east of the beautiful city of Stuttgart, Ark. This property is worth $125 per acre in ordinary times. I will sell it for $55 an acre, or take in exchange a part or all income property in St. Louis, for the reason that I am unable to attend to the property personally on account of bad health. This property is an irrigation proposition and has two wells that will water the entire property by pumping. This is an exceptional proposition, as there is a good 7-room house and other tenant houses, barns and other odd buildings on the property. Located on one of the most prominent four corners east of Stuttgart. Address, Alexander Hoyt, care of Missouri State Life Ins. Co. (c5)

POST-DISPATCH DAILY RECORD OF MARKETS AND FINANCE

BREAK IN RUBBER FEATURE ON THE STOCK EXCHANGE

Passing of Common Dividend Sends Issue Down Over Seven Points.

By Leased Wire From the New York Bureau of the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, July 2.—The Evening Post, in its copyrighted financial review today, says:

"Except for a sharp break in St. Paul stock, based on the dividend rumors which attach alternately to most railway and industrial companies nowadays, the stock market was as meaningless today as yesterday. As a rule, prices recovered about as much as they had declined yesterday, but in the main the changes were unimportant. London continued to sell moderately, as is witnessed by the number of seller 30 transactions.

"The cotton crop estimate of yesterday was reflected in Europe's cotton markets by a sharp decline in prices; in our own by a prompt recovery. This showed a somewhat interesting difference in the point of view, as to what sized crop was actually indicated. But the wheat market is in a hardly less perplexed condition. On the one side stands the undoubted injury to the winter wheat (but with its scope very uncertain), and the signs of renewed foreign buying, on the other, a very singular drift of expert opinion, in the grain trade, to the belief that, despite this damage from unfavorable weather, the Government's forecast for the total wheat yield, next Thursday, will be higher than that of a month ago.

Exchange Rates Steady.

"Foreign exchange rates did not vary widely. Sterling, which had advanced ¼c after business hours yesterday, rose ⅛c further today, touching 4.76½. This recovery was again, apparently, a response to the moderately large stream of American securities, which has been flowing all this week from London to New York. In the minds of most official watchers, this movement has been associated with the subscription to the new British war loan, the first and very considerable cash payment and which will be called on July 20.

"There is, therefore, a special influence now at work in the direction of dislodging holdings of American securities. But its scope of operation is comparatively limited by time, and it still remains to be seen how far the influence of the new war loan will extend.

"In the larger vista of international finance, the curious situation continues to exist of financial England urging that these securities be all returned, and financial America expressing readiness to take them and have the matter over with, but the actual owners of the stocks and bonds are proceeding very slowly.

"Unless the demoralized condition of exchange on London is to be corrected by continuance of this liquidation on an important scale it is difficult to forecast the sterling market. Financially speaking, the sending of its Canadian gold reserve to New York, by the Bank of England, was magnificent, but it was war.

"Yesterday's weekly statement of the bank, with its $10,000,000 further loss of gold, not only made the reduction of such holdings since last November, $31,500,000 (this notwithstanding the $40,000,000 received in May from the Bank of France) but it brought the bank's present ratio of reserve to liabilities to 16½ per cent, as against 18⅞ last week and 40⅛ a year ago. This percentage is altogether too near the 14⅝ per cent minimum of the first week of August, to be comfortable. The first duty of the Bank of England now would certainly seem to be to restore some reasonable equilibrium in the rate for American exchange, and arrest the depletion of its gold reserve."

DETAILED REPORT OF DAY'S TRADING IN WALL STREET

NEW YORK, July 2.—Passing of the dividend on U. S. Rubber common after the close of yesterday's market was followed at today's opening by a decline of almost seven points. The stock opened after considerable delay with an offering of 5000 shares at 45 to 46, against yesterday's final quotation of 51¼. The balance of the list was irregular, some minor railways and specialties yielding fractions, while Canadian Pacific and American Can soon rose one to two points. American Coal Products was a feature of the inactive issues, advancing nine points to 127 in the first half hour.

Rubber continued to decline to 44¼, but recovered to 45⅝. Sales of Rubber in the first hour amounted to 25,000 shares and with Can made up half of the operations of that period. Investment stocks and high-priced war specialties were unaffected by the break in rubber, making further improvement until Canadian Pacific developed sudden weakness. That stock lost its early gain of 1⅜ and fell a total of 2¼ points, to 142, within a fraction of its low record. Later prices hardened again on a smaller volume of trading. Future selling was again the feature of the bond list.

Irregularity marked the dealings of the early afternoon, war specialties making further gains, while St. Paul was notably weak. Missouri Pacific made a new low record at 5⅞. More heavy selling of bonds was noted.

JULY WHEAT STRONG SPOT IN THE CHICAGO MARKET

CHICAGO, July 2.—Unsettled weather threatened further delay to the harvest of the domestic winter crop led to an advance today in the price of wheat. The July option especially showed strength owing to increasing chances of a scarcity that would make deliveries difficult on current contracts. Demand was chiefly from shorts. After opening ⅝c off to ⅜c up, the market scored material gains all around.

Corn responded to the strength of wheat. Besides there was evidence of a good cash demand. The opening, which varied from ⅛@¼c lower to a shade advance, was followed by a moderate general upturn.

Active call from the seaboard gave oats a decided lift. Incidentally a tendency developed to widen the July-September spread.

Provisions sagged owing to weakness in the hog market. Western receipts of hogs showed a big increase compared with the corresponding time last week and a year ago.

Subsequently reports that 500,000 bushels, mostly new crop wheat, had been disposed of to the French Government, helped further to encourage the bulls. So also did predictions that much of the new winter wheat would prove to be of poor quality. The close was strong at 1⅜c to 4⅛c net advance.

The readiness with which country offerings were absorbed helped to sustain the advance in corn. The close was firm, ¼@⅝c to ⅝@⅞c above last night.

COTTON MARKET IS LOWER ON THE CROP ESTIMATE

NEW YORK, July 2.—The easier tendency which developed in the cotton market after the publication of the Government crop report yesterday was in evidence again this morning. Private cables reported liquidation in a small market at Liverpool, and after opening six to nine points lower, prices here sold about 10 points below last night's closing figures, under local liquidation and foreign selling, which was probably promoted by the failure of yesterday's report to inspire any general buying. There was enough covering to steady prices around 9.64c for October.

There was some further scattered short covering during the early afternoon which sent the active months a point or two above last night's closing figures, but general business remained very quiet. The closing was irregular.

Cotton—Spot quiet; middling uplands, 9.60c. No sales.

Liverpool Cotton.

LIVERPOOL, July 2.—Closing: Cotton—Spot, good business; prices easier; good middling, 5.50d; middling, 5.20d; low middling, 4.74d. Sales, 12,000 bales.

LIVESTOCK.

NATIONAL STOCKYARDS, Ill., July 2.—Comparative receipts table:

	Today	Week Ago.	Year Ago.
Cattle	1,000	500	1,600
Hogs	4,300	4,300	7,000
Sheep	2,000	2,000	2,000
Horses and mules	850	500	100

Notice—No market here Saturday, July 3, on account of celebrating national holiday. Market will be open Monday, July 5, same as usual.

CATTLE—Today's fresh receipts were right at a thousand head, about two-thirds of which were natives and the remainder Southerns. Market steady and the small offering soon changed hands. Quality was generally plain to common. Receipts of cattle are running abnormally light and prices have risen to a high level. The $10 steer is now a near prospect. Texas grass cattle are not running as freely as was anticipated. Texas grasses of plain quality sold at $7.60 today.

HOGS—The supply was rather small, but still the market opened on a 5c lower basis and closed 5@10c lower. It was a dull trade and at the close rather weak. The top was $7.95, while the bulk of the hogs went at $7.80@7.90. Best shipping and butcher grades found sale at $7.90 and better while the mixed and plain offerings sold at $7.65@7.85, rough throwout packers $7.00@7.20, best grade of lights that did not weigh more than 165 lbs. $7.60@7.85, fair grades $7.35@7.55, best quality pigs under 125 lbs. $7.25@7.60, fair kinds $6.25@7.25 and some common kinds around $6.00.

SHEEP—The market was on a steady basis with best lambs at $9.95, sheep $5.25 and bucks $4.00.

HORSES AND MULES—Trade in the auction was on a mighty slow basis and only a few sales of any importance were reported. War horse buyers continued to take large supplies and this trade was strong.

Mules were slow sellers again today and there were not many sales reported. Quality of offerings had a good deal to do with the sales.

Light receipts of new wheat in primary markets made for a firm market in the July option on the Merchants' Exchange today. The opening at $1.03⅛ was ½c over yesterday's close and in the first half hour of trading the price reached $1.03⅜. At that level business was quiet. The September and December deliveries averaged ¼c to ¾c higher. In the late session reports of export sales and further rains in the Southwest lifted July to $1.05⅝, and the distant options extended their gains to 1¼c to 1⅜c. The close was firm, near the top level. Corn and oats both closed firm, at sharp advances.

At the moment interest centers in the July option, which is in an unusual position. Cash wheat is quoted around $1.15, while the option is below $1.04, the difference being due to expectations of a heavy run of new wheat, which speculators banked on to depress the cash market close to the July delivery.

But so far weather has operated against the bears. Continued rains have made the winter wheat harvest two to three weeks late, and practically no new wheat is in sight for July deliveries. Should rains come next week, and the harvest be further delayed "short sellers" of the July option might be caught in a "bear trap."

Only one car of new wheat so far has arrived in the Chicago market. It graded No. 3 and was snapped up at $1.16, whiel the July option is quoted around $1.09. The few cars of new wheat received here and at Kansas City have been freely taken at high prices and cash markets have shown an advancing tendency for several days. For this reason the weather map will prove of decided interest to July wheat traders in the next 10 days.

Foreign news was rather favorable for the bulls. Broomhall's Liverpool cable said:

The undertone to the market is firm, with actual demand light, influenced by Buenos Aires and firmness in American July. Spot market is firm and unchanged. Cargo market irregular. Indians 3d higher. Plates 6d higher. Manitoba unchanged. Millers continue to absorb but a small amount of wheat. Corn was strong, with an active cash demand. Argentina offers are firm and Argentine freights strong. A cargo from Argentina destined to the United Kingdom has been destroyed.

Liverpool spot wheat closed unchanged. Corn 1d higher.

Minneapolis wheat cars today totaled only 113, against 184 last week and 19 last year. Duluth 5, against 10 and 47. Winnipeg 32, against 88 and 278.

Local wheat receipts today were 22,800 bu, against 152,700 bu last year. Corn 49,200 bu, against 37,200 bu. Oats 34,000 bu, against 52,700 bu.

Total primary wheat receipts were 290,000 bu. against 551,000 bu. last year. Shipments 564,000 bu, against 1,003,000 bu. Corn receipts 443,000 bu, against 485,000 bu. Shipments 306,000 bu, against 396,000 bu.

Exports of domestic wheat and flour from the United States for the crop year, ending June 30, as compiled by the Illinois Telegraph News Co., were the largest on record, being 332,900,000 bu, against 145,590,000 bu last year. Corn exports 48,000,000 bu against 8,984,000 bu, last season. Oats exports 98,500,000 bu, against 1,860,000 bu, last year, being the largest on record. Exports of wheat and flour in June were 13,092,000 bu, against 11,247,000 bu last year. Corn 3,140,000 bu, against 928,000 bu. Oats 11,600,000 bu, against 244,000 bu.

Broomhall cabled: India—Wheat shipments this week are estimated at 1,750,000 bu, practically all to the United Kingdom. Weather favorable. France—Crop complaints are coming to hand of wetness, lodging and weeds. Consumption large and supply inadequate. Argentine—Weather favorable being clear and cool. This is needed for conditioning corn, which is arriving freely and meeting good absorption. Dryness is reported in the north and center for wheat. It expected that wheat area will increase 5 per cent over last year. Seeding is rapidly nearing completion.

Snow's report gives corn acreage of seven surplus states: Total this year, 48,465,000 acres. In 1914, 49,795,000 acres; decrease 1,330,000 acres.

The Modern Miller says: Heavy rains this week in winter wheat belt have again retarded harvest. Considerable damage is reported in Oklahoma, Southern Kansas and Southeast Missouri, where much wheat is lodged. In Central Nebraska hard wind storms and heavy hail have done considerable damage. Weather conditions have been more favorable in Central Illinois, Indiana and Ohio, and harvest is progressing rapidly. Reports from Indiana indicate some enlargement of fly area where green wheat has been cut. Recent reports of Illinois crop greatly overestimate yield. Conditions of the entire crop is slightly below June 1."

Russell's News Bureau, New York, reported about 500,000 bu wheat for export, most of it worked for French Government. Demand for oats continues light.

Today's clearances of wheat were 494,000 bu, against 506,000 bu last year. Corn 178,000 bu, against none. Oats 631,000 bu, against 3000 bu.

Kansas City: Cash wheat was 1c to 2c higher. Corn 1c higher. Oats 1c higher.

St. Louis Cash Grain.

Cash wheat was 2c to 3c higher on soft, with a good milling demand.

Cash corn ½c higher, with good local buying.

Cash oats scarce, 1½c to 2c up, and urgently wanted.

The Jarr Family

Written for the Post-Dispatch

By Roy L. McCardell.

Mr. Jarr Is Very Happy to Realize That He's Too Poor to Be Unhappy.

MRS. JARR looked up from the evening papers. "I see that another millionaire's wife has got a divorce," she remarked. "Isn't it queer, everybody wants to marry for money, and when they do it doesn't make them any happier?"

"Yes, after all, the poor people have the best of it," said Mr. Jarr.

"Well, we might as well try to think so," ventured Mrs. Jarr, "although, goodness knows, I'd like to have a lot of money. Wealth wouldn't embitter my life."

"You think, then, that the wealthy people get divorced because they can afford it, but the poor people have to stick together because they can't help themselves?" asked Mr. Jarr.

"I didn't say so," said Mrs. Jarr. "But one thing is sure: A woman who has money doesn't have to put up with things a poor woman does. She can go to Reno and get a divorce."

"Oh, divorces can be got here, and by poor people, too," said Mr. Jarr. "Anybody can afford $25 to pay a lawyer. There are more divorces here in a week, obtained by poor people than the rich people get in Reno in a month."

"That's because there are more poor people, maybe," said Mrs. Jarr.

"No," said Mr. Jarr, "but the papers pay no more attention to the poor getting divorced than they do over the poor getting married. Nobody is interested in poor people, but everybody wants to read what the rich are doing."

"They are getting divorced, mostly, it seems to me," said Mrs. Jarr, womanlike sticking to her opinion.

"I tell you you're wrong. Some weeks there are over 50 divorces granted here to poor people and nobody pays any attention," said Mr. Jarr. "But let a millionaire and his wife separate, and everybody is talking about it. Now, you could go downtown tomorrow and see a lawyer, and if I abandoned you or treated you cruelly or did anything that a divorce could be obtained for, you could obtain it without any trouble, and nobody would pay any attention to it."

"That's a nice way to talk to me!" said Mrs. Jarr, tears coming to her eyes.

"I wasn't talking to you. I was just speaking in general," said Mr. Jarr, hastily.

"You were not!" said Mrs. Jarr, in a grieved tone. "You have just told me as plain as words can say that I can go get a divorce if I want to, and it will be kept quiet! You might at least have prepared me for such a brutal remark! And I could get a divorce, too, and mighty easy! Little do people know how you treat me! And as for abandoning me, you might as well do that, and you would not find it very hard. All you would need do is just to stay away from your home a little more than you do now, and a very little more, if I do say it!" Here she began to weep afresh.

"But, listen, dear," said Mr. Jarr. "I was simply telling you"—

"Don't you 'dear' me!" interrupted Mrs. Jarr. "And furthermore, you need not think you are complimenting me! I want you to understand that you are free to go this minute if you want to! You are not so grand and great! I could have married much better off than I did, but I have never thrown that up to you! If it wasn't for the children I wouldn't stay another night under this roof! My mother has a home for me. I can go there!"

"Your mother is visiting your sister," said Mr. Jarr calmly.

"Yes, and you are cowardly enough to take advantage of it!" said Mrs. Jarr. "But I have friends; there are other places to go!"

"Gee, whiz!" cried the exasperated Mr. Jarr. "You are always kicking because I won't sit down and talk to you? And when I do, you pick me up about something and raise a row!"

"I do nothing of the kind!" cried Mrs. Jarr. "But when you sneer at me and jeer at me and tell me to get a divorce, that they are cheap, and you'll be glad if I do, and here your aunt is coming to stay a couple of days with us, and you know I dislike the woman, and I have always pretended to her that we got along splendidly together."

"Pretended!" said Mr. Jarr, in surprise. "Why, don't we get along nicely together?"

"Not when you talk to me like that, after I've given the best years of my life to you," replied Mrs. Jarr. "But I want you to understand that you can have a divorce if you want to. I can get along. I won't take a cent from you. I can support my children!"

"I don't want a divorce!" shouted Mr. Jarr. "Dog-gone it! I'm the happiest man in the world. Tra la la! We never have a word; you are the best woman in the world!"

"Then why don't you say so?" said Mrs. Jarr, wiping her eyes.

NOT one woman in 10,000,000 is superior to her beauty

Certain Stars.

PROFESSOR," said the funny man, addressing the eminent astronomer who was the guest of honor at a dinner party, "Can you tell me the names of the stars a fellow sees when he is hit by an automobile?"

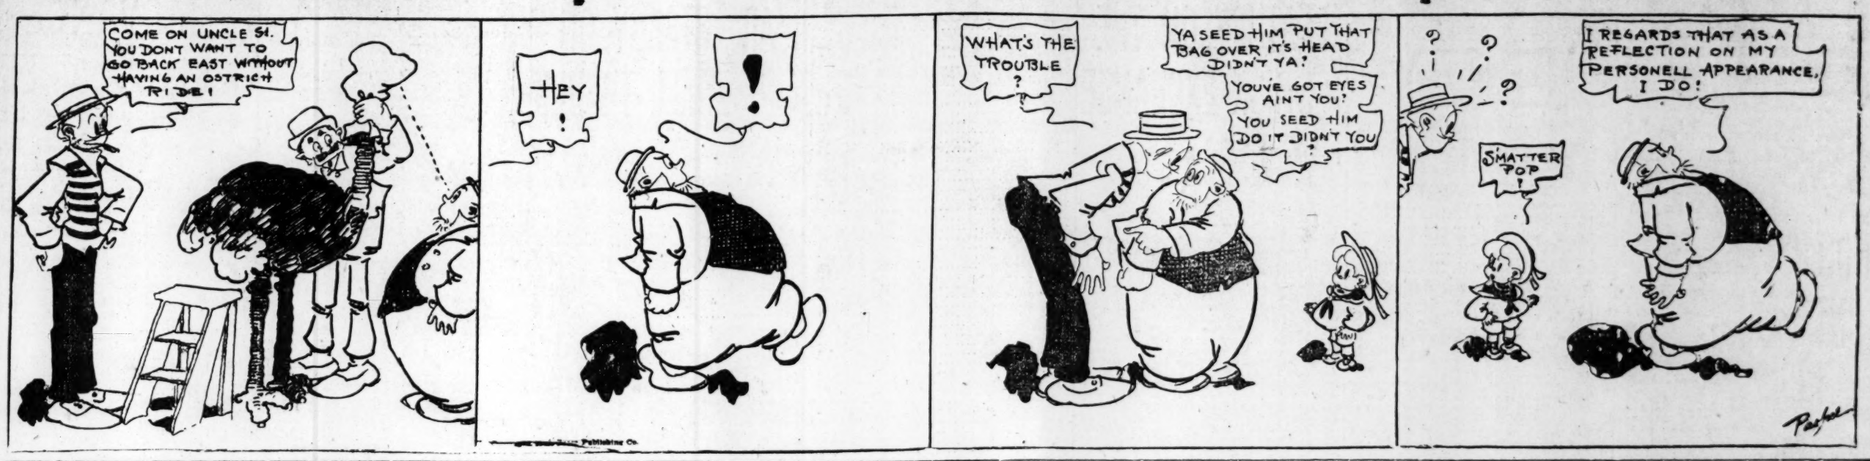

"I can," replied the professor gravely, "but not while there are ladies present."

Theatrically Speaking, of Course

AUGUSTUS THOMAS, in a recent address before the Contemporary Club of St. Louis, truthfully stated that the drama is at present suffering from the fact that one-half of the population of New York, the only producing center at the time, has a vocabulary limited to 250 words. Mr. Thomas, somewhat carelessly, did not specify what the 250 words were, and Puck, of New York, for the benefit of aspiring young dramatists, has endeavored therefore to set them down:

The 250.

What the Farmer Did

A CITY man recently visited with his "country cousin." The man from the city, wishing to explain the joys of metropolitan life, said, "We have certainly been having fun for the last few days. Thursday we autoed to the country club and golfed until dark, then trolliied back to town and danced until morning."

The country cousin, not to be outdone in the least, began telling some of the pleasures of the "simple life:" "We have had pretty good times here, too. One day we buggied out to Uncle Ned's and went out to the back lot, where he baseballed all that afternoon. And in the evening we sneaked up to the attic and pokered until morning."

A sturdy old farmer, who was listening and who was not to be stumped in the least, took up the conversation at this point and said, "I was having some fun about this time myself. I muled to the cornfield and gee-hawed until sundown. Then I suppered until dark and piped until 9 o'clock, after which I bedsteaded until the clock fived, after which I breakfasted until it was time to go muling again."—Judge.

In the Wrong Pew.

RIGHT this way, sir," said the head waiter. "I'll get you a good table, where you can watch the dancing."

"But I don't want to watch the dancing," objected the patron. "I want to eat."

"In that case," replied the head waiter, "you'd better try the Owl Lunch Wagon on the corner. This is a restaurant."

High Time.

THE home team had a two-run lead at the end of the eighth inning, but when the visitors went to bat in the ninth a base on balls and two flagrant errors by infielders filled the bases with no one out.

As the champion slugger of the visiting team stepped to the plate, Mr. Phan rose from his seat in the grand stand and hurried toward the exit.

"Where are you going?" asked a friend. "The game isn't over yet."

"I know it," said Phan, disgustedly. "I'm going home and eat my dinner before those bushers spoil my appetite."

His Idea of Thrift.

I ALWAYS put $10 of my salary in the savings bank every Saturday," said the young man who was holding down his first real job.

"That's a very good idea, my son," said his father approvingly.

"You bet it's a good idea, dad. Believe me, that ten comes in mighty handy along about Thursday or Friday."

Repartee.

AH, would I were a glove upon that hand," quoted the ardent swain.

"Quit your kidding," retorted his lady love.

A Couple o' Bad 'Uns.

"Don't get too close, Willie, if you don't want to get bit. Can't you see dey are both muzzled?"

Too Tame.

GOIN' to the Sunday school picnic, Jimmie?"

"Naw! I went last year and they didn't have enough ice cream and lemonade to make a baby sick."

His Idea.

SO Ruggles has bought a yacht? Does he know how to sail it?"

"Oh, he didn't buy it to sail in. He merely wanted a good place to hold poker parties."

The Menu.

WILL you have some of the tomatoes and lettuce with French dressing?" chirped the young wife.

"No," returned the husband, musing on his bachelor dinners, now forever gone. "My salad days are over."

"Well," spoke up the wife sharply, "the next course is the roast."

And she served him a large portion, piping hot.

Economy.

IT pays to buy a good straw hat. Look at this one I'm wearing. I paid $15 for it last summer.

"Yes."

"And all it cost me to have it cleaned and blocked over into this year's style was $5."

CHOLLY: I was up at the Zoo yesterday watching the monkeys. It was awfully amusing.

MAE: I dare say it was—for them.
